Damaging Winds Move Through North Louisiana; Heavy Rains Dumped In Area

Four-State Storm Alert Is Withdrawn

Black Funnel Dips Near Shreveport, Houses Battered

A squall line of thunderstorm activity that spawned damaging winds in the Shreveport area passed over the Monroe area yesterday dumping heavy rains.

The U.S. Weather Bureau issued a severe weather warning for parts of Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas and Arkansas early Saturday, then dropped the alert at 2 p.m. after the front had passed.

The Weather Bureau at Shreveport said high winds coming from the south accompanying the front were checked between Shreveport and Monroe when they shifted to a northwesterly direction.

Witnesses reported a black funnel dipped to the ground by the Cross Lake shore near Shreveport and damaged two houses. Mrs. A. L. Barteet, 65, was alone in one when the windstorm hit. She was hospitalized for shock.

REPORTED

Another funnel cloud was reported about the same time in the Shreveport area, but there were no indications it touched the ground.

The windstorms, with gusts of 60 to 80 miles per hour, bowled over trees and television antennas. The Weather Bureau said the winds followed a thunderstorm front pushing into the area.

FAA at Selman Field reported highest velocity of winds here reached 23 miles per hour during the heaviest rainstorm of the day between one and two o'clock.

Rainfall until 6 p.m. measured .59 at Selman Field.

Forecasters said more rain may fall in the area today.

Several accidents, most of them minor were reported in the Twin Cities and the surrounding areas yesterday, after highways had become slick from the continious rains.

The weather outlook for today calls for the possibility of more rain and cooler temperatures. The high today is expected to be 58 degrees after a low of about 50 last night.

Winds will be northwest to north at 10 to 20 miles per hour.

The weather continued to be a big story in many parts of the nation yesterday.

Threat From Ice Gorge In River Also Is Fading

WEST TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (UPI) — The maverick Wabash River pounded to a crest at this Indiana city Saturday, and a sandbagged gap in a weak levee held firm as the rampaging waters began to recede.

The river dropped more than a foot after reaching its crest of 24.6 feet along a five - block stretch of sandbags on which the fate of West Terre Haute had hung.

Meanwhile, officials predicted a monumental ice jam upstream from LaFayette, which threatened bridges and homes, might break up "momentarily" or at least with the arrival of a two - foot rise on the Wabash.

NO DYNAMITING

Atty. Gen. John W. McConnell and two engineers inspected the 12 - mile long ice pack and decided it would not be necessary to dynamite the ice loose.

A smaller jam just below the larger ice mass, McConnell said, already had moved out, and the main floe was expected to break up by the time a two - foot river rise from Wabash reached Delphi.

There were no estimates, however, of when the rise would reach the ice. Damage from the unleashed ice chunks, some as big and heavy as automobiles, was expected to be considerably less than had been anticipated.

Officials said the two - foot swell along the river might have been caused by passage of the

Cancer Ailment Of Dulles Upsets West's Timetable Of Negotiations On Berlin

Aide Arrives To Take Over Dulles' Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Under-secretary of State Christian A. Herter, mentioned as a possible successor to ailing Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, said Saturday he would accept the post if President Eisenhower offered it to him.

Herter made the statement in answer to questions on arriving here to take over as acting secretary of state pending the outcome of Dulles' second cancer attack.

The illness raised serious doubts that Dulles would ever again be able to resume full-times duties. But Herter emphasized he had "not been sounded out" as a possible successor.

DEPENDS ON IKE

Asked whether he would accept appointment on a permanent basis, assuming the secretary is unable to resume his duties, Herter replied: "If the President wanted me to, I would."

The President's announcement of Dulles' condition and accompanying medical information quickly raised speculation as to a possible successor.

But the White House said in answer to questions that the President has no plans now to appoint a new secretary of state.

The man most frequently mentioned as a possible successor was C. Douglas Dillon, undersecretary for economic affairs.

Other speculation centered on Herter; Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, a close friend of the President; former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York; Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, and banker John J. McCloy, former U.S. high commissioner to Germany.

Dillon ranks slightly behind Herter. But political and diplomatic experts believe there are factors which might lead Dulles to recommend and the President to select the former investment broker over the former governor of Massachusetts.

Age is one consideration. At 49,

Speculation Begins Over Replacement

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Foster Dulles has cancer of undetermined extent. But he will continue as secretary of state on leave of absence while undergoing treatment.

President Eisenhower made this announcement Saturday after visiting Dulles at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

A medical bulletin issued along with the President's announcement ruled out any immediate surgery. It said that "in the immediate future radiation therapy will be used."

TESTS COMPLETED

The disclosure, based on laboratory tests, came about 27 hours after Dulles had been operated on for a groin hernia. The operation was performed by the hospital commandant, Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, who removed a cancerous portion of Dulles' colon two years ago.

State Department press officer Lincoln White told newsmen doctors had informed Dulles about 9 a.m. that he had cancer. White said Eisenhower and Dulles' family were notified about the same time.

The news evoked expressions of regret and concern from this capital and around the world.

It also threw away the Allies' timetable of negotiations on Soviet efforts to oust Western troops from Berlin.

And it spurred speculation on a possible successor to Dulles, who will be 71 in 11 days.

Mrs. Anne Wheaton, associate White House press secretary, indicated in response to a question that the leave of absence statement meant there will be no appointment of a new secretary of state at this time.

Tissue and fluid removed during Friday's hernia operation were found to be cancerous. The medical bulletin put it this way:

Navy's Chief Worries Over Sneak Attack

WASHINGTON (AP)—The possibility of a surprise Russian submarine attack on the United States is very great and is causing the Navy great concern, Adm. Arleigh A. Burke says.

In a censored version of secret testimony made public Saturday night, Burke, chief of naval operations, said that "we have forces at sea all the time, searching up and down both coasts" for enemy submarines. His testimony was given before the Senate Disarmament subcommittee on Jan. 30.

Burke said there is no way "you can guarantee that an attack will not get through."

HARD TO DETECT

"There is no equipment that can guarantee that there is not a submarine at a particular spot in the ocean except in a very small area, and even then you cannot guarantee that you have got it," he added.

On the other hand, Burke said, the Russians have an even tougher problem since the United States could cover "all but a very small part of Russia from launching positions at sea."

He added that "the free world controls the ocean, and we operate over the ocean all the time" while the Russians are "concentrated in one place."

Burke did not dispute statements by subcommittee Chairman Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) and Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La) that the Russians have about 250 long-range submarines. He testified the Russians may have ballistic missile subs now, adding he does not "think they have very many."

Burke said the first of the new nuclear - powered, missile-launching Polaris submarines is expected to be in full operation by the fall of 1960, to be followed by others at the rate of three a year.

NINE OTHERS INJURED

Apartment Fire Claims 11 Lives

ASHLAND, Ky. (UPI) — Eleven persons, including five members of one family, were burned to death early Saturday when flames swept through several small second story apartments in a converted theater building.

Nine other persons suffered burns and injuries jumping from the upstairs windows of the two-story building. Police who arrived shortly after the blaze started, helped rescue some of the victims.

Boyd County coroner Russell Compton identified the victims as Jack McKenzie, 30, his wife, Polly, 28, whose son was stillborn after she jumped from the building, and their three other sons, Johnny, William, 1, Mickey Joe, 2, and Jackie, 4. Firemen said their room had a door but no windows.

OTHER VICTIMS

Other dead were James E. Powell, 22, of nearby Flatwoods, Ky., Mrs. Grace Blanton, 45, a cook in a restaurant on the first floor; Frank Artis, about 45; Frank Kirk, and Clyde May, all of Ashland.

The building, the old Columbia vaudeville theater built in 1891, had only one exit, an inside stairway which was cut off by the flames. Ironically, materials for a fire escape which was to have been installed next week, were stored in the rear.

The cause of the blaze was not immediately determined, although witnesses reported hearing an ex-

Locomotive Pays Visit To Family

LAURENS, Iowa (AP) — The Herbert Delano family has a conversation piece that is causing more talk than this northwest Iowa town of about 1,600 has known in a long time.

It is a 120-ton diesel locomotive of a Rock Island Railroad freight train.

The engine dropped in on the Delanos at lunch Friday and decided to stay for the weekend—like an unwanted relative.

"It's just like living in a fishbowl having that thing here," said Mrs. Delano. "Hundreds of people from all over this area have been coming here. The jam of visitors wore paths around our yard."

Mrs. Delano and three of her five children were at home when the guest popped in.

A broken rail apparently caused several cars of the freight train to jackknife and sent the engine rolling down an eight-foot incline and into the Delano yard.

The railroad said it will construct about 50 feet of track from the yard to the branch line and start the locomotive on its way. But it will be at least Monday before the intruder is dislodged.

Road Rockslide Fatal For Six

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)— A car rounding a curve swerved to miss a rockslide on a rain-slick highway, plunged through a guardrail and down a bank into the Poca River early Saturday.

Two women and four children drowned in the muddy, 15-foot-deep waters.

Brooks Differs With Colleague On Space Race

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — A ranking Republican on the House Space Committee predicted Saturday that the United States will "leapfrog" Russia on man-in-space and lunar probe projects.

But the committee chairman, Rep. Overton Brooks (D-La.) said that the U.S. is behind Russia in space and missile achievements and that this country must progress at a speed 120 per cent that of the Soviets to overtake them in the next five years."

Rep. James G. Fulton (R-Pa.) said the U.S. is ahead of Russia in certain phases of development such as instrumentation, which is more refined, and guidance, communication and control systems. He said the U.S. has developed broader programs whereas the Russians have specialized on weight-carrying capacity, size, power and payloads.

He said the U.S. plans to blast into space a vehicle three times as heavy as any the Russians have launched.

The committee officials spoke at a news conference at the conclusion of a visit to the Army Ordinance missile command at Redstone Arsenal here. Earlier this week the committee, which

New Trial Is Granted To Blanco

HAVANA (AP)—The death sentence against ex-Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco was set aside Saturday and he was granted a new trial.

Sosa Blanco had been condemned Jan. 23 on war crimes charges.

He was tried in Havana's Sports Palace in the first major showcase trial in the capital.

The new trial was granted by the same military tribunal that tried him in the Sports Palace. His new trial was set for 10 a.m. Monday before a Superior War Crimes Tribunal.

At his first trial the 51-year-old career army officer was convicted on charges of murdering at least 25 persons, robbery, looting and burning homes of rebel sympathizers in Oriente Province.

He pleaded innocent and maintained anything he had done was on orders from higher up.

His defense counsel challenged the death sentence on grounds the crimes charged were committed before Jan. 14—the day the revolutionary government revived capital punishment banned since 1940.

The announcement said newsmen and representatives of civil and religious organizations will be permitted to attend the new trial in a small court room. It added that the new trial will be broadcast by radio but will not be televised.

Happy

Mrs. John Kelso Sr., who with her husband operates a DeSiard St. clothing store, was mighty happy yesterday.

On reading the Monroe Morning World of Friday she observed under a Meridian, Miss. date line that Frank Hayes Jr. on Thursday waved to a passing train. This is a regular habit for this 13 year-old-boy. This time he received a responsive wave in return from the first lady of the land, Mrs. Mamie D. Eisenhower, who was enroute to Arizona. When the train stopped, she smilingly bestowed a rose on the young man and threw a kiss as she left.

Frank, we are sure will never forget thi courtesy from the president's wife.

Frank is Mrs. Kelso's nephew, and he also has many other aunts and uncles in Monroe.

Ike, Mamie May Pick Southwest For Retirement

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower rolled toward an Arizona vacation Saturday night, leaving behind her a hint that she and the President might retire to the Southwest, rather than to their Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

"I wouldn't be surprised if Mamie and Ike moved back to the Southwest some day," said the First Lady's sister and traveling companion, Mrs. G. Gordon Moore in an interview.

"I don't think Mamie likes living in the East so much."

It was here in 1915 that the President, then a second lieutenant, met and won Mamie Doud of Denver. The President himself will stop off 80 miles north of here at Austin Wednesday night, en route to Acapulco, Mexico, for a meeting with President Adolfo Lopez Mateos.

Mrs. Eisenhower and Mrs. Moore left aboard the Eisenhower special railroad car for Phoenix, Ariz., and a week at the Maine Chance beauty and health resort.

The sisters stopped here primarily to allow Mrs. Moore to fill an appointment with her dentist, Dr. William Bennack. Mrs. Moore, of Washington, formerly was a San Antonio resident.

Write-In Votes To Fill Offices

LELAND, Ill. (AP) — No one wants to be a city official in this La Salle County town of 700.

There will be no primary elections of a mayor, police magistrate and four commissioners March 3.

The date for filing passed Friday with nary a candidate in sight.

The incumbents are not seeking re-election.

At the general election April 21, voters will receive blank ballots and will have to write in the names of their candidates.

PARLAYS MEAGER EARNINGS

Spinster's Fortune Flabbergasts Heirs

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — The big mystery in this city today is how did a 92-year-old spinster parlay her meager earnings as a telephone company clerk into a fortune of 2½ million dollars.

Before Miss Margaret Ritter died last Jan. 20, her neighbors knew her as a thrifty woman who wore patched dresses, lived alone in a modest frame home and "hated to spend a dime."

They knew she had money, maybe $100,000, perhaps even $200,000.

But even her nephew and niece to whom she left the major share of her huge estate, were flabbrgasted at the amount.

"We had no idea she had that much money," said the nephew, Andrew I. Ritter of Dayton, a 61-year-old Associated Press employe.

And his sister, Mrs. Elsie Marie Wallace of Cleveland, the other chief beneficiary, echoed that sentiment. "We knew Miss Ritter had money," she said, "but we didn't realize there was that much."

The bulk of the estate is in securities except for the woman's home here, according to Gordon M. Graham, co-executor.

An inventory filed in Probate Court listed the estate at $2,456,946.

Graham said that after a deduction of taxes and fees, the two chief beneficiaries each will come into a trust fund of about $700,000.

But Graham said Ritter and Mrs. Wallace will only be allowed to draw an income from this fund of around $20,000 to $30,000 a year.

The only inkling as to how Miss Ritter accumulated the fortune came from her nephew in Dayton.

She had good brokers, he said, and saved for a rainy day.

Demo Senators Plan New Drive On Racketeers

WASHINGTON (AP)—A drive for legislation to clean out labor racketeers was announced Saturday by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) and Rep. Graham A. Barden (D-NC).

McClellan heads the Senate labor Management committee which has spotlighted gangster tie-ins with labor unions. Barden is chairman of the House Labor Committee.

McClellan and Barden said they plan to introduce similar, though not identical, antiracketeering bills next week. They intend to introduce separate legislation later proposing changes in the basic Taft-Hartley law.

The McClellan-Barden proposals promised to complicate the labor legislation picture in the new Congress where the Eisenhower administration and Sen. John F.

Auto In Plunge As Driver Dies

A Natchez, Mississippi man was pronounced dead on arrival at a Monroe hospital yesterday afternoon after he was apparently stricken with a heart attack and lost control of his car about a half mile west of Calhoun on U. S. 80.

Dr. John P. Burton, Ouachita parish coroner, identified the man as Fonzie Roy Moses, 57, 1301 Westwood Road, Natchez. Death was attributed to natural causes.

An eye witness, Lupton Avery of Shreveport, said Moses was headed east toward Monroe when he suddenly slumped over the wheel of his 1958 model car, left the highway, ran up an embankment and struck a light utility pole.

When Avery reached the auto Moses was still slumped over the wheel and had no distinguishable pulse beat. A Mulhearn ambulance took Moses to the St. Francis Hospital.

Funeral services and burial will be Monday in Hope, Arkansas.

Survivors are the widow, Mrs. Mary F. Moses; a son, W. S. Moses; and a daughter, Mary, all of Natchez.

IN INTEGRATION BATTLE

School On Hilltop Symbol For South

FRONT ROYAL, Va. (UPI)—A silent schoolhouse standing on a hilltop may become a new symbol for Virginia and the Southland in the battle to maintain segregation.

The building is here, overlooking a once serene town of 9,000.

Its doors have been closed and signs warning against trespassing have been out front since Sept. 12, 1958. The signs will come down, the doors will reopen Wednesday, Feb. 18, 1959.

Barring a last-minute stay by a federal appeals judge Monday, Warren County, Va. will comply with federal court orders to admit 22 Negroes to the high school in Front Royal, once called "Hell Town" by frontier travelers in the 18th century.

Today, the people of Front Royal are frustrated. They are bitter. The specter of integration has left a scar across the face of the town that traces its history beyond the Revolutionary War.

White parents in Front Royal and Warren County made an agonizing decision this week. Grimly, and without debate, they voted to keep their children in a makeshift system of private classes rather than send them up the hill to the high school with Negroes. The verdict was close to unanimous.

Three other Virginia localities have reluctantly admitted 30 Negroes to 10 previously white schools during the past two weeks. Arlington, Norfolk and Alexandria quietly lowered the color bar without incident after their legal battles were lost.

All three cities are metropolitan melting pots for government workers, transients and people

NINE OTHERS INJURED

Apartment Fire Claims 11 Lives

ASHLAND, Ky. (UPI) — Eleven persons, including five members of one family, were burned to death early Saturday when flames swept through several small second story apartments in a converted theater building.

Nine other persons suffered burns and injuries jumping from the upstairs windows of the two-story building. Police who arrived shortly after the blaze started, helped rescue some of the victims.

Boyd County coroner Russell Compton identified the victims as Jack McKenzie, 30, his wife, Polly, 28, whose son was stillborn after she jumped from the building, and their three other sons, Johnny, William, 1, Mickey Joe, 2, and Jackie, 4. Firemen said their room had a door but no windows.

OTHER VICTIMS

Other dead were James E. Powell, 22, of nearby Flatwoods, Ky., Mrs. Grace Blanton, 45, a cook in a restaurant on the first floor; Frank Artis, about 45; Frank Kirk, and Clyde May, all of Ashland.

The building, the old Columbia vaudeville theater built in 1891, had only one exit, an inside stairway which was cut off by the flames. Ironically, materials for a fire escape which was to have been installed next week, were stored in the rear.

The cause of the blaze was not immediately determined, although witnesses reported hearing an ex-

Locomotive Pays Visit To Family

LAURENS, Iowa (AP) — The Herbert Delano family has a conversation piece that is causing more talk than this northwest Iowa town of about 1,600 has known in a long time.

It is a 120-ton diesel locomotive of a Rock Island Railroad freight train.

The engine dropped in on the Delanos at lunch Friday and decided to stay for the weekend—like an unwanted relative.

"It's just like living in a fishbowl having that thing here," said Mrs. Delano. "Hundreds of people f m all over this area have been coming here. The jam of visitors wore paths around our yard."

Mrs. Delano and three of her five children were at home when the guest popped in.

A broken rail apparently caused several cars of the freight train to jackknife and sent the engine rolling down an eight-foot incline and into the Delano yard.

The railroad said it will construct about 50 feet of track from the yard to the branch line and start the locomotive on its way. But it will be at least Monday before the intruder is dislodged.

Road Rockslide Fatal For Six

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—A car rounding a curve swerved to miss a rockslide on a rain-slick highway, plunged through a guardrail and down a bank into the Poca River early Saturday.

Two women and four children drowned in the muddy, 15-foot-deep waters.

JES' Ramblin'

Happy

Mrs. John Kelso Sr., who with her husband operates a DeSiard St. clothing store, was mighty happy yesterday.

On reading the Monroe Morning World of Friday she observed under a Meridian, Miss. date line that Frank Hayes Jr. on Thursday waved to a passing train. This is a regular habit for this 13 year-old-boy. This time he received a responsive wave in return from the first lady of the land, Mrs. Mamie D. Eisenhower, who was enroute to Arizona. When the train stopped, she smilingly bestowed a rose on the young man and threw a kiss as she left.

Frank, we are sure will never forget thi courtesy from the president's wife.

Frank is Mrs. Kelso's nephew, and he also has many other aunts and uncles in Monroe.

New Trial Is Granted To Blanco

HAVANA (AP)—The death sentence against ex-Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco was set aside Saturday and he was granted a new trial.

Sosa Blanco had been condemned Jan. 23 on war crimes charges.

He was tried in Havana's Sports Palace in the first major showcase trial in the capital.

The new trial was granted by the same military tribunal that tried him in the Sports Palace. His new trial was set for 10 a.m. Monday before a Superior War Crimes Tribunal.

At his first trial the 51-year-old career army officer was convicted on charges of murdering at least 25 persons, robbery, looting and burning homes of rebel sympathizers in Oriente Province.

He pleaded innocent and maintained anything he had done was on orders from higher up.

His defense counsel challenged the death sentence on grounds the crimes charged were committed before Jan. 14—the day the revolutionary government revived capital punishment banned since 1940.

The announcement said newsmen and representatives of civil and religious organizations will be permitted to attend the new trial in a small court room. It added that the new trial will be broadcast by radio but will not be televised.

Demo Senators Plan New Drive On Racketeers

WASHINGTON (AP)—A drive for legislation to clean out labor racketeers was announced Saturday by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) and Rep. Graham A. Barden (D-NC).

McClellan heads the Senate labor Management committee which has spotlighted gangster tie-ins with labor unions. Barden is chairman of the House Labor Committee.

McClellan and Barden said they plan to introduce similar, though not identical, antiracketeering bills next week. They intend to introduce separate legislation later proposing changes in the basic Taft-Hartley law.

The McClellan-Barden proposals promised to complicate the labor legislation picture in the new Congress where the Eisenhower administration and Sen. John F.

Auto In Plunge As Driver Dies

A Natchez, Mississippi man was pronounced dead on arrival at a Monroe hospital yesterday afternoon after he was apparently stricken with a heart attack and lost control of his car about a half mile west of Calhoun on U. S. 80.

Dr. John P. Burton, Ouachita parish coroner, identified the man as Fonzie Roy Moses, 57, 1301 Westwood Road, Natchez. Death was attributed to natural causes.

An eye witness, Lupton Avery of Shreveport, said Moses was headed east toward Monroe when he suddenly slumped over the wheel of his 1958 model car, left the highway, ran up an embankment and struck a light utility pole.

When Avery reached the auto Moses was still slumped over the wheel and had no distinguishable pulse beat. A Mulhearn ambulance took Moses to the St. Francis Hospital.

Funeral services and burial will be Monday in Hope, Arkansas.

Survivors are the widow, Mrs. Mary F. Moses; a son, W. S. Moses; and a daughter, Mary, all of Natchez.

Brooks Differs With Colleague On Space Race

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — A ranking Republican on the House Space Committee predicted Saturday that the United States will "leapfrog" Russia on man-in-space and lunar probe projects.

But the committee chairman, Rep. Overton Brooks (D-La.) said that the U.S. is behind Russia in space and missile achievements and that this country must progress at a speed 120 per cent that of the Soviets to overtake them in the next five years."

Rep. James G. Fulton (R-Pa.) said the U.S. is ahead of Russia in certain phases of development such as instrumentation, which is more refined, and guidance, communication and control systems. He said the U.S. has developed broader programs whereas the Russians have specialized on weight-carrying capacity, size, power and payloads.

He said the U.S. plans to blast into space a vehicle three times as heavy as any the Russians have launched.

The committee officials spoke at a news conference at the conclusion of a visit to the Army Ordinance missile command at Redstone Arsenal here. Earlier this week the committee, which

Ike, Mamie May Pick Southwest For Retirement

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower rolled toward an Arizona vacation Saturday night, leaving behind her a hint that she and the President might retire to the Southwest, rather than to their Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

"I wouldn't be surprised if Mamie and Ike moved back to the Southwest some day," said the First Lady's sister and traveling companion, Mrs. G. Gordon Moore in an interview.

"I don't think Mamie likes living in the East so much."

It was here in 1915 that the President, then a second lieutenant, met and won Mamie Doud of Denver. The President himself will stop off 80 miles north of here at Austin Wednesday night, en route to Acapulco, Mexico, for a meeting with President Adolfo Lopez Mateos.

Mrs. Eisenhower and Mrs. Moore left aboard the Eisenhower special railroad car for Phoenix, Ariz., and a week at the Maine Chance beauty and health resort.

The sisters stopped here primarily to allow Mrs. Moore to fill an appointment with her dentist, Dr. William Bennack. Mrs. Moore, of Washington, formerly was a San Antonio resident.

Write-In Votes To Fill Offices

LELAND, Ill. (AP) — No one wants to be a city official in this La Salle County town of 700.

There will be no primary elections of a mayor, police magistrate and four commissioners March 3.

The date for filing passed Friday with nary a candidate in sight.

The incumbents are not seeking re-election.

At the general election April 21, voters will receive blank ballots and will have to write in the names of their candidates.

PARLAYS MEAGER EARNINGS

Spinster's Fortune Flabbergasts Heirs

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — The big mystery in this city today is how did a 92-year-old spinster parlay her meager earnings as a telephone company clerk into a fortune of 2½ million dollars.

Before Miss Margaret Ritter died last Jan. 20, her neighbors knew her as a thrifty woman who wore patched dresses, lived alone in a modest frame home and "hated to spend a dime."

They knew she had money, maybe $100,000, perhaps even $200,000.

But even her nephew and niece to whom she left the major share of her huge estate, were flabbrgasted at the amount.

"We had no idea she had that much money," said the nephew, Andrew I. Ritter of Dayton, a 61-year-old Associated Press employe.

And his sister, Mrs. Elsie Marie Wallace of Cleveland, the other chief beneficiary, echoed that sentiment. "We knew Miss Ritter had money," she said, "but we didn't realize there was that much."

The bulk of the estate is in securities except for the woman's home here, according to Gordon M. Graham, co-executor.

An inventory filed in Probate Court listed the estate at $2,456,946.

Graham said that after a deduction of taxes and fees, the two chief beneficiaries each will come into a trust fund of about $700,000.

But Graham said Ritter and Mrs. Wallace will only be allowed to draw an income from this fund of around $20,000 to $30,000 a year.

The only inkling as to how Miss Ritter accumulated the fortune came from her nephew in Dayton.

She had good brokers, he said, and saved for a rainy day.

IN INTEGRATION BATTLE

School On Hilltop Symbol For South

FRONT ROYAL, Va. (UPI)—A silent schoolhouse standing on a hilltop may become a new symbol for Virginia and the Southland in the battle to maintain segregation.

The building is here, overlooking a once serene town of 9,000.

Its doors have been closed and signs warning against trespassing have been out front since Sept. 12, 1958. The signs will come down, the doors will reopen Wednesday, Feb. 18, 1959.

Barring a last-minute stay by a federal appeals judge Monday, Warren County, Va. will comply with federal court orders to admit 22 Negroes to the high school in Front Royal, once called "Hell Town" by frontier travelers in the 18th century.

Today, the people of Front Royal are frustrated. They are bitter. The specter of integration has left a scar across the face of the town that traces its history beyond the Revolutionary War.

White parents in Front Royal and Warren County made an agonizing decision this week. Grimly, and without debate, they voted to keep their children in a makeshift system of private classes rather than send them up the hill to the high school with Negroes. The verdict was close to unanimous.

Three other Virginia localities have reluctantly admitted 30 Negroes to 10 previously white schools during the past two weeks. Arlington, Norfolk and Alexandria quietly lowered the color bar without incident after their legal battles were lost.

All three cities are metropolitan melting pots for government workers, transients and people

CHEMISTRY CLASS

Education Plan At Neville Told

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

The students in Lon Colburn's special chemistry class at Neville High in Monroe, La., get two solid hours of college-level work, five days a week, for the full school year.

That's a rough program, and they're only grateful that Colburn never assigns any formal homework.

"All I ask," he tells them, "is that you read at least two hours a night from the textbook."

That comes to 20 hours a week of the toughest kind of chemistry. The students get no more credit than they would for the regular high school course.

But they love it.

Colburn's class started in the fall of 1957. It went over so well that a similar college-level course in physics was started at West Monroe High this year. A college-level mathematics program may be added to the program next fall.

PART OF PLAN

It's all part of the Monroe Plan, based on the theory that the only way to get the best out of a student is to demand it.

The plan is the brainchild of Robert H. Evans, an executive of the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., the area's biggest industry. He had the idea that if you hired a truly extraordinary teacher and gave him the school's brightest students, you could produce some phenomenal results.

Evans worked out the details with the Monroe School Board, and the corporation donated $10,000 with which to hire a master teacher.

A long search for the right man ended after the National Science Foundation recommended Colburn. He had retired in 1956 after 34 years of teaching in the Pittsburgh, Pa., school system. During that time he inspired more than 300 students to follow science as a career, and 100 of them had gone on to get doctorates. After his retirement, the Carnegie Institute of Technology presented him an honorary degree of master of science — only the 10th honorary degree the school had ever granted.

ADDRESSED

Colburn addressed the students at Neville High at the start of the 1957-58 school year. And he didn't pull any punches. This, he said, was going to be a really tough course, without doubt the toughest course they had ever undertaken.

Even so, 55 students volunteered. Colburn, after a 100-question test that covered everything from algebra to history to music to zoology, picked the top 30 applicants, split them into two groups of 15, and literally threw the book at them. Only two of the 30 dropped out.

By the end of the first six weeks the idea produced startling results. The students took and passed an examination that most other high school students couldn't have passed after a full year. Two weeks later the school board held a special session and voted to buy Neville High $4,000 worth of new chemistry facilities.

Of the 28 who survived the first year's course, 20 have moved on to college to major in science. Many of them got scholarships, ranging up to a four-year grant of $6,000.

The first year's program at Neville was such a roaring success that last fall it was expanded to cover three other white high schools in the area: West Monroe high and Ouachita Parish high in the parish system, and St. Matthew's, a parochial school in Monroe.

The parish system hired Robert L. Price of the Joiliet, Ill., system, to teach physics, and Monroe rehired Colburn to teach chemistry. Each was given $10,000 for nine months' work and told that all they had to do was teach.

Students at all four high schools are eligible for either class.

How tough are the courses?

Says Colburn: "no small college is doing the work that we're doing right here. Such places as M.I.T. and Carnegie Tech, of course, are really pouring it on. But I'd say our work is just about the equivalent of what students are getting in a big state university."

'Slicker Suit' Man Is Sought In Ark. Theft

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — A man clad in a "slicker suit" of rubberized trousers, jacket and cap efficiently relieved Mrs. Robert Gill of $325 yesterday morning at Yale Camp, about three miles east of here, in an apparently well-planned robbery.

Mrs. Gill and her husband operate a Crossett cafe and live in a caretaker's cottage at the Yale University forestry camp. The money represented proceeds from the cafe.

According to B. A. Courson, Ashley county sheriff, Mrs. Gill related the robbery this way:

At about 10 a. m. Saturday a car carrying three persons drove up the lonely mile and a half road to the caretaker's cottage. Mrs. Gill was outside and just about to get in her car.

APPROACHED

The man in the "slicker suit" got out of his car and approached Mrs. Gill. His cap ear flaps were tied down, partially concealing his face.

He asked if he could look the camp over. She said no because her husband had the only key and was away at that time.

The he said, "What I really came for was your money. Hand it over."

As he had his right hand threateningly hidden in his pocket and sounded deadly serious, Mrs. Gill complied.

She noted the man carefully avoided touching her purse. He took the thick wad of bills and told Mrs. Gill to get into her car and stay there.

The bandit got into the car with his companions and they sped off down the road.

Since there was no phone in the cottage, Mrs. Gill waited a while, then drove into Crossett and reported the robbery.

Sheriff Courson said she was unable to give a description of the thief other than his clothing, the two others or their car.

Joseph Harper, 22, Pine Bluff and formerly of Bastrop, was still unconscious last night in Morehouse General Hospital following the accident at 12:25 yesterday morning.

A passenger in the auto Howard Kimball, 24, was listed as having cuts, bruises and a torn right ear. Harper had head injuries, and contusions of the chest according to attending physicians.

Bastrop police said Harper was apparently traveling at a high rate of speed when he lost control of his late model auto which hit a culvert embankment, hurdled 57 feet through the air, uprooted a large dead tree and came to rest in front of another tree.

Police said the vehicle, covered a distance of 169 feet after it s'ruck the embankment. They said the car was a total wreck.

Brooks told newsmen the committee was "impressed by the activity, sincerity and zeal" of the Army's missile team, a group of scientists and engineers here headed by Dr. Wehrner Von Braun. He predicted more support would be forthcoming.

Brooks also said he feels the Army's team has not been utilized to the fullest, but that the country is aware of its accomplishments and that more interest and more money would be placed in their work. He said he feels the group should be kept together for continuity, and that as one program phases out it would undertake another.

Brooks said he would like to see the Army's Nike-Zeus antimissile program and the 1,500,000-pound thrust program strengthened and pushed.

Four Injured In Three Car Mishaps Here

Rain slick streets and poor visiblity yesterday set the stage for three traffic accidents here in which four persons were injured.

The man in the "slicker suit" got out of his car and approached Mrs. Gill. His cap ear flaps were tied down, partially concealing his face.

He asked if he could look the camp over. She said no because her husband had the only key and was away at that time.

The he said, "What I really came for was your money. Hand it over."

As he had his right hand threateningly hidden in his pocket and sounded deadly serious, Mrs. Gill complied.

She noted the man carefully avoided touching her purse. He took the thick wad of bills and told Mrs. Gill to get into her car and stay there.

The bandit got into the car with his companions and they sped off down the road.

Since there was no phone in the cottage, Mrs. Gill waited a while, then drove into Crossett and reported the robbery.

Sheriff Courson said she was unable to give a description of the thief other than his clothing, the two others or their car.

Aide Arrives To Take Over Dulles' Post

Dillon has an obvious advantage over Herter, who is 63. Heter also has an arthritic condition which forces him to use crutches and a wheelchair.

The background of the two men also might influence the President's choice. Dillon comes from the business circle that Eisenhower has repeatedly shown he admires and respects as a source of administrative skill.

Herter has been criticized by some high administration sources who say he has a tendency to vaccilate in making decisions.

Dillon also has served as U.S. ambassador to France and representative to Nato.

First Use Due Of Mailsters In Twin Cities

In line with the move toward mechanization in the Post Office Department, Monroe and West Monroe next week will inaugurate the use of light, three-wheeled vehicles for postal routes in residential area.

In line with the policies of Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, the department has been conducting studies for two years on mechanized mail delivery. The project has been underway in several of the larger cities and has been deemed workable.

The quarter-ton, three-wheeled trucks—called "Mailsters"—are a much improved version of the vehicle with which the experiment began. Monroe and West Monroe are among the first offices in the state to be equipped with the new carriers.

Four of the Mailsters will be assigned to West Monroe and seven will be put into service on routes eminating from the Louisville station in Monroe.

Assistant Superintendent of Mails in Monroe, Guy T. Elliot, attended a special school in Dallas, Texas, to learn operation and maintenance of the new three-wheelers. He in turn has given instructions to the carriers who will use the vehicles.

Woodrow Hathorn, Monroe Postmaster, said the Mailsters would be put into operation on or about Tuesday of next week.

Robbery Wave Strikes Fog Covered Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI) — A wave of holdups and robberies executed under a blanket of clammy fog continued to plague Atlanta Saturday.

Thieves carted off a safe containing between $10,000 and $20,000 in cash and checks from a seafood and fish firm, and the crime was covered effectively by the dense fog. The fog also covered the getaway of two bank bandits, and that of a gunman wounded in an exchange of pistol shots with police Friday.

Two other men surrendered to pistol-wielding police when their getaway car was wrecked during a running gunbattle with officers following the robbery of a credit company office. The men arrested were Walter B. (Buck) Turner, 40, of Atlanta and James Pyles, 36, of Thomasville. The man who eluded capture despite a wound was believed to be escaped convict Jim Meriwether, 40.

Two young flashily-dressed men held up a savings and loan association office at Hapeville Friday afternoon and escaped with $5,000. The getaway car was believed driven by a blonde woman, and officers and the FBI pursued leads that led to the Carolinas.

Two other gunmen staged a $22,000 robbery Friday at a bank in Columbus, Ga.

In addition to the crime wave which began with the cloaking of the city in thick fog Thursday, there were numerous traffic accidents in the city and its sprawling suburbs.

More than 250 passenger flights were cancelled by airlines at Atlanta Municipal Airport Friday and the fog early Saturday paralyzed all air traffic.

Two men were killed six miles south of Augusta Saturday when their car skidded in the fog and hit an oncoming trailer-truck.

The wounded fugitive, believed to be Meriwether, was believed responsible for several earlier armed robberies in the Atlanta area. One was staged at a northside supermarket on Thursday night at which a customer was shot and wounded.

A lone Negro bandit held up a supermarket and escaped with $800 Friday afternoon. Two Negro bandits robbed a hatchery company office a short time earlier.

An afternoon breeze dissipated the fog Saturday.

SEN. RAINACH PREDICTS

State May Erase 100,000 Voters

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Louisiana, defiant of possible federal intervention, is busily trying to erase more than 100,000 Negroes from vote registration rolls.

Segregation leaders have enlisted legislative, executive and judicial branches of state government in seeking rigid enforcement of voter registration laws.

They insist the U.S. Civil Rights Commission will have no basis for action if the laws are enforced impartially.

State Sen. W. M. Rainach, Louisiana segregation chief, admits a number of white voters may also be chopped off. But he insists many would-be Negro voters will be eliminated for each white person affected

"You don't have to discriminate against Negroes," says Rainach, clairman of the legislative "watch dog" committee on segregation. "Nature already has discriminated against them.

"A large number of Negroes just can't pass the tests for registration. The tests are based on intelligesce, not education, and intelligence is something that is bred into people through long generations."

Rainach also is president of the Assn. of Citizens Councils of Louisiana, a group that has purged thousands of Negro voters, and a number of whites, in recent years.

Staff director Gordon M. Tiffany in a recent Louisiana visit, said civil rights commission agents soon would be active in the state although no hearings were scheduled so far.

Commission investigations in Alabama and Georgia have produced federal court action. Two previous federal probes of alleged discrimination in Louisiana failed to produce indictments.

Gov. Earl Long, in a recent news conference, said he didn't think Louisiana registrars had anything to hide and suggested they should open up records to the commission or FBI agents.

Rainach's committee, along with Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion and state director of registration Douglas Fowler, has just completed a series of meetings with registrars of voters, instructing them on how to tighten enforcement.

Rainach predicts rigid enforcement will cut the approximately 130,000 total Negro registration to 13,000. At present, Louisiana has slightly more than 800,000 registered voters.

Registration laws provide a two-edged sword to trim Negro registration:

1. A lengthy application form that must be filled out in the applicant's own hand without assistance or referring to notes. "This is a test that must be passed," Rainach says.

2. The requirement he must demonstrate his intelligence by reading and giving a reasonable interpretation of any portion of the Constitution of Louisiana or the United States selected by the registrar."

Any mistake in the application subjects the applicant to disqualification, or later challenging. Under Louisiana law, the registrar or any two qualified voters may challenge any, voter. He must prove he is properly registered within 10 days or be removed from the rolls.

Negroes counter this with registration schools to instruct would-be-voters in filling out the applications.

The requirement for interpreting the Constitution has not been enforced for many years.

In a meeting with registrats, State Sen. J. D. DeBlieux of Baton Rouge commented: "Using that provision there isn't a person in the room I couldn't disqualify."

In a recent book on Louisiana government, a Louisiana State University professor commented:

"If certain parts of the Louisiana Constitution were really placed before the registrars for explanation, few people, including the lawyers, could meet the constitutional interpretation requirement."

Bodies Of Three More Are Found In East River

NEW YORK (UPI)—The bodies of three more victims of the Feb. 3 American Airlines Electra crash were pulled from the East River Saturday.

The recoveries brought to 39 the number of bodies found.

The bodies were identified as those of Gregory Mac Donnell, 18, Pearl River, N.Y.; Stuart Patterson, 28, Evanston, Ill., and Gershon Weinstock, 33, New York Cit .

Sixty-five persons were killed when the new turbojet airliner crashed into the East River while trying to land at La Guardia Airport. Eight persons survived.

Student Group Is Addressed By Pharmacist

Organizations are important to the pharmacy profession, James C. Ussery, chief pharmacist at the St. Francis Hospital, told the Northeast State Student Branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association.

Ussery spoke recently to a campus group of about seventy persons.

The speaker, a past president of the 5th District Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association, pointed out that organizations in general are necessary. He emphasized, however, the value of professional associations, declaring that "only through these channels are noteworthy accomplishments attained."

DISCUSSION

In a discussion following Ussery's talk, he answered questions raised by students pertaining to current problems in pharmacy and several which students faced.

The speaker complimented the Student Branch on its membership, which includes nearly 80 per cent of the pharmacy majors enrolled this spring at Northeast. He also underscored the organization's contributions toward a finer profession.

Since the meeting was the first for several freshman pharmacy students, the timely subject acquainted them with the value of a student organization, Dr. Cecil Headlee, faculty sponsor of the Northeast Branch, pointed out.

The A. Ph. A. group holds semi-monthly meetings.

Presidency Is Next Step For Castro

HAVANA (UPI) — The only stumbling block between Fidel Castro and the presidency of Cuba now is the requirement that president be separated from the armed forces for at least six months.

In accepting the office of prime minister, the 32-year-old Castro relinquished his rank as supreme commander of the armed forces. Thus he may step into the office now held by President Manuel Urrutia before the end of next August.

The constitution has been amended to reduce the minimum age for president from 35 to 30, thus removing that barrier in the political rise of the young revolutionary.

The immediate significance of assumption of government powers as prime minister is that the most conservative element in the revolutionary government, outgoing Prime Minister Miro Cardona, no longer will apply brakes to Castro's snowballing reform program.

It appeared also that the revolutionary July 26 movement was preparing to capitalize on the present overwhelming popularity of Castro to consolidate its position in power by constitutional means.

Observers pointed to another likely reason for the sudden decision to reorganize the government with Castro as prime minister, in line for the presidency. It could mean general elections earlier than the original 18-24 month deadline set by Castro after his forces ousted dictator President Fulgencio Basista.

There has been some criticism of the rebels for not ordering elections sooner. The probable candidacy of Castro for the office of president could bring such elections much sooner.

A person may be as honest as the day is long, and still engage in shady doings at night.

Too Many In College

Two trends of thought with regard to college education have been fighting for supremacy in recent years. One holds that every high school students should strive to attend college. The other contends that fully 25 per cent gain no advantage by going to college, that they lose time by not getting into some profitable occupation and that they clutter up college space and overwork teachers.

Adhering to the latter view is Prof. Bailey W. Diffie of the department of history in the College of New York. He said in part:

"Fully 25 per cent of my students should never have entered college; they have no educational vocation, no academic interest. The result is that we teachers must take our time to deal with such students at the expense of others who might be developed.

"Let me suggest a remedy. We should cut enrollment by the 25 per cent named above, retain the present number of teachers, provide more time for those teachers to spend in personal contact with their students and thereby create an academic atmosphere that is now lacking.

"During the almost 30 years that I have taught in this city I have found my classes increasingly cluttered with the unqualified."

Against this view there are many who state flatly that every student capable of attending college should do so. Dr. George W. Crane, noted columnist, college professor and psychologist frequently offers figures showing increased earnings made by those who attend college. Some of these figures show that each year spent in college means a $25,000 increase in the income of the person during his working life. This would indicate that four years of college would increase the life income by $100,000.

There is every reason to think that Prof. Diffie is largely right in stating that 25 per cent of the students are not really qualified to attend college or that they could work as effectively without doing so.

Despite this, the artificial pressures in favor of attending college are tremendous. Many firms, including a large proportion of the petroleum companies, will not hire a non-college man or woman, regardless of his ability. Everything else being equal, almost all firms give preference to the college-educated person. In addition, the number of professions which will not admit a person to practice unless he has a college education is appalling and that number is constantly increasing.

From 25 to 50 per cent of all persons who attend college probably could perform the jobs they select as efficiently without a college education as with it. These persons are not limited so much by ability is by opportunity.

As long as a college education remains a fetish and is regarded as an "open, sesame" to job-opportunity, the colleges will be cluttered with those seeking the coveted (and demanded) diploma. Only when a college education is properly evaluated will the correct percentage of students attend college, since, in free America, it is not right to deny this privilege to anyone.

Joy For Postmen

Foot-weary, pack-laden city mail carriers who, almost from the time of the pony express, have patiently trudged the streets of the cities and towns of this country, will find life easier from now on. This includes the postmen in Monroe, West Monroe and many other Louisiana cities.

The post offices are mechanizing their delivery men by taking the packs off their backs and putting both the packs and the mailmen into mailsters, three-wheeled vehicles designed for the postal service.

Not only is this innovation expected to save money for the post office department and some miles of weary walking for the mailmen but it has even been speculated that it may add five to 10 years to the life of a letter carrier.

Seven of the mailsters are being put into use in Monroe and four in West Monroe. Each vehicle will be assigned to a regular mail carrier, who will use it in the most advantageous manner possible on his regular route.

The mailsters offer at least three advantages, two of which will save money for the post office department. Instead of the usual maximum of 35 pounds, which is a heavy load to pack around on one's shoulder, the postman will now be able to start out with as much as 500 pounds of mail. This will obviate the necessity for relay service, through which mail has been delivered to the postmen along their routes. In addition, the mailmen will be able to carry parcel post, so that special parcel post vehicles for most of the routes will no longer be needed. Much of the walking for the postmen will be eliminated and there will be no heavy pack-carrying, thus making it far easier on the backs and legs of the men, especially the older ones.

Postmen have been going through a special training program in handling the vehicles and are expected to be fairly adept by the time they start this method of delivery.

Postmen generally are friendly and obliging and they perform a service which the public appreciates. For these reasons, they are held in high regard by the people they serve.

Because of this, the public will be glad to see the letter carriers enter a new era in which both their packs and hearts will be lighter.

Labor Unions Abroad

Recent U.S. debate over right-to-work laws leaves Europeans mystified. This was emphasized in a national magazine in its current issue.

Most European countries have thriving trade - union movements but they have largely avoided two of the things that have gone farthest toward putting labor unions in this country into disrepute. Other countries have avoided the kind of contract that forces a worker to join a union before he can get a job. In every country, of course, strong pressure is applied by fellow workers to get a man to join the union but this is different from the legal coercion applied in the United States. In addition, labor unions in other countries do not make fat money-barons out of their union officials.

England is a good example. There a larger percentage of the total labor force is organized than in the United States, but, with few exceptions, all workers can join or not join a union, as they please. This suits the labor union leaders.

Over-all experience in Germany, Italy, France and England clearly indicates that open-shop conditions are compatible with a strong labor movement.

This is an extremely uncomfortable fact for U.S. labor union leaders, who argue loudly that state right-to-work laws are simply a form of "union busting."

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Nixon, Lyndon Johnson Lauded As Candidates

As the 1960 presidential election begins to emerge, many persons are trying to focus attention upon themselves. The managers of Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York have put an organization into the field to blitz the nomination for him. The Democrats have a plethora of candidates. From the standpoint of the best interests of the United States, it would seem at this moment that if the Republicans nominated Vice President Richard Nixon and if the Democrats nominated Senator Lyndon Johnson, we might again have a two party debate and an opportunity for the people to make a selection without disadvantage no matter which one was elected.

Vice President Nixon has matured during the past six years from a provincial member of Congress, eager to become a senator, to one of the leading and most useful statesmen our country has at this time. Lyndon Johnson has emerged in the United States Senate not only as a competent political leader but as a statesman who puts country above party.

Naturally, these men see life from different standpoints. I shall not attribute their differences to the fact that one is a Republican and the other a Democrat, which has become meaningless in American politics. There are other important distinctions in personality: Nixon hails from California: Johnson from Texas. Johnson became administrative clerk to Congressman Richard Kleberg and had an intimate view of legislative procedures before he became a member of the House of Representatives and a senator; Nixon moved in as a member of the House of Representatives, became a senator and Vice President. Johnson has never served in any administrative capacity; neither has Nixon, but in the Eisenhower administration, he sits in the Cabinet and serves in many capacities for the President. Johnson and Nixon are both extraordinarily wise in the ways of American politics. Nixon's ideal of a political leader is Theodore Roosevelt, a pragmatist who having set himself a goal, found a method for getting there; Johnson was trained in the New Deal era, the period of transition from idealistic capitalism to the uncertainties of socialized capitalism.

In American affairs, the Texans are playing a most unusual role. Whereas they are Southerners, they nevertheless are naionalistically American. They do not sacrifice the Union in the contest over Negro rights. The result is that the Texans have become the leaders in both houses. Due to the varieties of Eisenhower emotionalism, Richard Nixon has been forced to assume an unusual leadership in the Republican Party — a leadership generally held by the President. His principal political opponent was Sherman Adams and his particular clique. Due to the collapse of the Adlai Stevenson influence in the Democratic Party and the attempt of the Americans for Democratic Action to gain control of the machinery of the Democratic Party, Lyndon Johnson has had to assume a leadership which extends beyond the floor of the Senate.

Lyndon Johnson's nomination is most likely to be bitterly opposed by the ADA element who are now advocating the candidacy of Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota; Richard Nixon's candidacy will be most opposed by the Rockefeller element in the Republican Party. It is a curiosity of American politics that the same elements which support Humphrey against Johnson are supporting Rockefeller against Nixon.

However, Humphrey attempted a political tour de force by an interview with Khrushchev, a huge magazine article on the subject which really said nothing and a Khrushchev ridicule of the article which was inevitable. Precisely what Humphrey expected to accomplish by this, it is difficult to see. Rockefeller proceeded to antagonize everybody in New York State by a tax program which does not make either economic or political sense. Even if the program were sound, which it is not, Rockefeller's handling of it and of the press has been amateurish and arbitrary and would indicate a lack of political savvy, not only on his part, but on the part of his galaxy of advisers. Before a man can establish himself as string in politics, he needs to be wise.

It would seem therefore that the candidates will still be Nixon and Johnson, although in both parties a sharp struggle continues between the conservatives and liberals, each side crossing over into both parties. The liberals are, for instance, through the ADA, really attempting to produce a one party system here.

CHARLES O. GRIDLEY

Party Success Plan Is Chided

It's always unfair to kick a fellow when he's down, but somehow the blueprint recently approved by the Republicans meeting in Des Moines, Iowa, as a new plan for party success is too much of a temptation.

Had any young Republican — or any old one, for that matter — handed such a printed pep talk to the late Boies Penrose, T. Coleman DuPont for anything from a chilling stare to an indulgent pat on the head. But the Republican party has changed since their day, 'tis true, and blue prints may be in order, as long as they contain information which may put the GOP back on the road to success.

Nowadays, there's considerable talk in Washington as to how that can be accomplished. President Eisenhower oxviously has it in mind, though Democrats say that his chief objective is retirement. Vice President Nixon of course dreams of leading his party back to triumph, but many Republicans wonder whether he can read the blue print clearly. And as usual there are many tub thumping Republicans over the country who say that the only reason party loses election is that too many voters who admired the late Robert A. Taft do not go to the polls.

That may be a contributing reason, but certainly not a primary one. A party which can re-elect first rate senators such as John J. Williams of Delaware, Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Glenn Beall of Maryland, despite the many casualties in other senate races, still has something to offer, but you won't find it on any blueprint. It might be that the senators mentioned, had they been running in other states would have been defeated, but that still would not alter the solid truth that they are excellent senators, that they work diligently at their jobs and that they express their beliefs emphatically, regardless of politics.

The blueprint says that the party needs to preach and practice a "militant enlightened Republicanism 365 days of a year." The question naturally arises, what did the three senators named practice that their defeated colleagues didn't? The only possible answer is that they had earned the respect of their constituents, who went to the polls and voted for them regardless of whether they admired Robert A. Taft or any other Republican.

This country has two major political parties, and up until 1932 both had conspicuous leaders. After that, the Republicans became the party of loyal opposition. The Democrats in a period of depression, had found the easy solution in a free spending program which ran counter to everything the Republicans had believed in. Short of electing a president, the GOP won its greatest and only victory in 1946, on one issue — the country did not like wartime rationing and didn't have enough meat. One of the smartest politicians who has ever sat in the White House, Harry S. Truman, turned the tables on the GOP in 1948 and the Democratic party, with the exception of the Eisenhower honeymoon (1953-1955) has run this government most of the time since.

So the question may be asked, what good is the blueprint? The answer is not simple. Like the French revolution, other Republicans, particularly in the senate and in state offices are probably due for the political guillotine before the tide changes. This is a period in which the southern states, despite the difficulties of school integration, may sit back and laugh at the difficulties of Republicans struggling with their blueprints.

If one has an opportunity to observe the operations of government in Washington, it soon becomes apparent that no blueprint will suffice to keep either party in power for long, without hard work and good salesmanship.

The Republican case is a good one. At this time it does not seem to make much of an impression upon a nation which is intent on making money, expanding new business and looking for fresh opportunity.

Allotment Of Time Puzzling

ARGUMENT WITHOUT WORDS — A Washington lawyer is still puzzled over this letter from Civil Aeronautics Board Chief Examiner Francis W. Brown: "Consideration has been given to your request that Bonanza Air Lines be allotted twenty minutes for oral argument; however, it will not be possible to allocate Bonanza more than fifteen minutes for the presentation of its arguments in this case."

THE GETTYSBURG SERENADE — Folk Song Singer Rudy Hansen was here recently to sing for President Eisenhower at a White House musical. Officials in charge of the show met with Hansen the day before the command appearance and asked him to run through his repertoire. One of the feature numbers a current hit tune was emphatically scratched from the list. The program planners thought its lyrics had a political implication that might not sit well at the White House. Some of the chorus is as follows: "Been hanging around this town too long Winter's almost gone—Summer's on the way — Guess I'll have to travel on."

MARVEL OF METEOROLOGY
Rep. Leon H. Gavin, Rep.-Pa., got the attention of the House and read them this message:

"Double, Double, toil and trouble,
Six more weeks of snow to shovel."

This was the word, Gavin explained, from the Punxsutawney (Pa.) ground hog, reputed to be the world's most expert weather forecaster. The ground hog had seen his shadow at 8:23 a.m. that day. "This means, like it or not, we have six more weeks of severe cold weather," said the Congressman.

WITH RED FACES TO MATCH
Rep. Robert A. Everett, Dem.-Tenn., a member of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, tells this story: A veterans hospital in one of our southern cities decided to install new fire plugs all over its sprawling grounds. The cost ran into thousands of dollars. The city fire department, responsible for protecting the hospital, sent one of its trucks out to test the new plugs. Alas and alack, the coupling on the plug was not the same size as the fire hose. So now the Government has to spend a lot more money installing a fire station at the hospital — one whose trucks will be able to connect up with the new plugs.

IT'S ONLY MONEY — Rep. chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, watches every dollar spent by Uncle Sam as though it comes from his own pocket. Cannon got to talking the other day at a hearing with Budget Director Maurice Stans. He wanted to make sure that Stans had a pretty good idea of what the $285 billion Federal debt means. Explained Cannon: If the United States set out to pay off its public debt by the year 2100, making one $8.3 billion payment annually, including 3 per cent interest, it would cost $1,205,078,709,686.40. "That is a fantastic sum," said Cannon dryly. We agree.

SHADES OF THE PAST — The Rockefeller - for - President drive is on and all the boosters have reasons of their own for wanting to see New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller move into the White House. But this unusual motive on the part of one supporter caught us by surprise: he wants the Governor to become President so that some day there will be a Rockefeller dime.

TAILS YOU WIN — Senate Majority leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas interrupted debate on the housing bill to tell this story about Bob Taylor's goat down in Tennessee: The animals held a convention and wanted to signal their approval of a matter by raising their tails. But the opossum rose and objected; he said he had a very scaly tail which would not look very good if raised in public, whereas, he said, the fox had a beautiful tail which, when raised in public, would be admired by everyone. So the opossum said, "I do not think I would cause pleasure by raising my tail in public. And, besides, Mr. Billy Goat over there had done voted."

Views Of Our Readers

THIRD PARTY OPPOSED

Mer Rouge, La.

To The Editor:

The movement to organize a third party, drawn mainly from the South's Democrats, is hazardous, to say the least.

Being dissatisfied with the actions of the National Democratic Party isn't of sufficient reason for us to pull away. The South, as a separate political entity, would have less influence in national affairs than it does today.

It can easily be pictured, the Roman Holiday the Republican North would have with the States Rights South, if we are so foolish as to withdraw from the larger unit.

To use Shakespeare's cliche where Hamlet says, "It is better to bear the ills we have than to fly to other of which we wot not." It is another way of using another cliche which says, "A half loaf is better than no bread."

No bread would be just what we would get if we pull out.

We split in 1860. Lincoln was elected. War followed and we were scourged worse than any country in history, without being totally destroyed.

From talk issued by the northern Republican brass (and we might add Northern Democrat brass) they are willing and probably anxious to have us repeat again.

The North has the South over a barrel. We can protest, and be more effective than being rebellious and kicking over the traces. Kicking over the traces has never been fruitful to any political party. We cite you to 1860, and again in 1912 when Teddy Roosevelt bolted the Republican Party and tried to ride the Bull Moose into the White House. Teddy lost more than the White House, when he formed his new party, which died almost aborning.

How can we expect to fare better than the Bull Moose? We have no leader of the caliber of Teddy. Even though we had such a leader he could lead us only to ignominous defeat.

George Washington couldn't be elected on any Southern ticket. Choose the lesser evil and we will fare better.

Let's assume you are a charter member of the P.T.A. Later you think the P.T.A. is working contrary to your superior ideas. You get frustrated to the point that you drop your membership and persuade about 1-3 of the members to follow in your footsteps. Can you see yourself and the 1-3 bolted members having any influence on the parent organization, or with the school board. Not if I know the members as well as I think I do.

Yes, it's true I voted for Eisenhower in his first race, and for quite a while I was "Smart Alex" and thought I had performed a brilliant act. Pray, believe me, for a long time, I've been ashamed of that vote, and now wish it had been cast to the catfish.

I'll regret that vote as long as I live and probably the thing's aura will hang above my grave until it sods over.

T. Y. Harp

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

As a charter member of the United Council of Church Women in the United States, I am writing this letter as a vigorous protest against the tone of your editorial in the morning's paper. It has the over-all result of vilifying the observance of the World Day of Prayer, whatever your purpose may have been in writing it.

As individuals of various denominations, nationalities, and races enter into prayer on the same day they are not only brought nearer to God, but they are also brought nearer to each other, so that they come to have greater understanding of each other, and greater concerr for each other's needs. There are so few agencies in the world operating to seek understanding, that I am thankful for one which is.

If you had taken time to investigate the women who are leaders of the Council of Church Women in the Twin Cities, you would have found them women of intelligence and devotion. The same is true on a state - wide level. I do not have any personal experience nation-wide, but I am sure you can find persons right in the Twin Cities who do know some of the national leadership. If these women promote any policy, it is because it is their Christian conviction, rather than something "swallowed."

You do not give the source of your information, except in one place, where you attribute a statement to the American Council of Christian Laymen. I do not know this group, but judging from the nature of the quotations, it sounds as if it is dedicated to creating animosities and hatreds. Certainly your statement in the first column, near the bottom of the page that "the sponsor of The World Day of Prayer is an interracial group dedicated to destroying the natural racial differences . . . and to bringing about a mongrelization of the whole human race" is a vicious untruth.

Your statements on the teachings of the Bible show a surprising unfamiliarity with the teachings of the New Testament. Our relationships with other people and the quality of them is made the very indication of our relationship to God, as I understand the teachings of Jesus. Christians differ as to their viewpoint on racial integration, but they can never differ on the necessity for a real concern for the other person, whoever he may be.

Due to the varieties of Eisenhower emotionalism, Richard Nixon has been forced to assume an unusual leadership in the Republican Party — a leadership generally held by the President. His principal political opponent was Sherman Adams and his particular clique. Due to the collapse of the Adlai Stevenson influence in the Democratic Party and the attempt of the Americans for Democratic Action to gain control of the machinery of the Democratic Party, Lyndon Johnson has had to assume a leadership which extends beyond the floor of the Senate.

Lyndon Johnson's nomination is most likely to be bitterly opposed by the ADA element who are now advocating the candidacy of Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota; Richard Nixon's candidacy will be most opposed by the Rockefeller element in the Republican Party. It is a curiosity of American politics that the same elements which support Humphrey against Johnson are supporting Rockefeller against Nixon.

However, Humphrey attempted a political tour de force by an interview with Khrushchev, a huge magazine article on the subject which really said nothing and a Khrushchev ridicule of the article which was inevitable. Precisely what Humphrey expected to accomplish by this, it is difficult to see. Rockefeller proceeded to antagonize everybody in New York State by a tax program which does not make either economic or political sense. Even if the program were sound, which it is not, Rockefeller's handling of it and of the press has been amateurish and arbitrary and would indicate a lack of political savvy, not only on his part, but on the part of his galaxy of advisers. Before a man can establish himself as string in politics, he needs to be wise.

It would seem therefore that the candidates will still be Nixon and Johnson, although in both parties a sharp struggle continues between the conservatives and liberals, each side crossing over into both parties. The liberals are, for instance, through the ADA, really attempting to produce a one party system here.

CHARLES O. GRIDLEY

Party Success Plan Is Chided

It's always unfair to kick a fellow when he's down, but somehow the blueprint recently approved by the Republicans meeting in Des Moines, Iowa, as a new plan for party success is too much of a temptation.

Had any young Republican — or any old one, for that matter — handed such a printed pep talk to the late Boies Penrose, T. Coleman DuPont for anything from a chilling stare to an indulgent pat on the head. But the Republican party has changed since their day, 'tis true, and blue prints may be in order, as long as they contain information which may put the GOP back on the road to success.

Nowadays, there's considerable talk in Washington as to how that can be accomplished. President Eisenhower oxviously has it in mind, though Democrats say that his chief objective is retirement. Vice President Nixon of course dreams of leading his party back to triumph, but many Republicans wonder whether he can read the blue print clearly. And as usual there are many tub thumping Republicans over the country who say that the only reason party loses election is that too many voters who admired the late Robert A. Taft do not go to the polls.

That may be a contributing reason, but certainly not a primary one. A party which can re-elect first rate senators such as John J. Williams of Delaware, Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Glenn Beall of Maryland, despite the many casualties in other senate races, still has something to offer, but you won't find it on any blueprint. It might be that the senators mentioned, had they been running in other states would have been defeated, but that still would not alter the solid truth that they are excellent senators, that they work diligently at their jobs and that they express their beliefs emphatically, regardless of politics.

The blueprint says that the party needs to preach and practice a "militant enlightened Republicanism 365 days of a year." The question naturally arises, what did the three senators named practice that their defeated colleagues didn't? The only possible answer is that they had earned the respect of their constituents, who went to the polls and voted for them regardless of whether they admired Robert A. Taft or any other Republican.

This country has two major political parties, and up until 1932 both had conspicuous leaders. After that, the Republicans became the party of loyal opposition. The Democrats in a period of depression, had found the easy solution in a free spending program which ran counter to everything the Republicans had believed in. Short of electing a president, the GOP won its greatest and only victory in 1946, on one issue — the country did not like wartime rationing and didn't have enough meat. One of the smartest politicians who has ever sat in the White House, Harry S. Truman, turned the tables on the GOP in 1948 and the Democratic party, with the exception of the Eisenhower honeymoon (1953-1955) has run this government most of the time since.

So the question may be asked, what good is the blueprint? The answer is not simple. Like the French revolution, other Republicans, particularly in the senate and in state offices are probably due for the political guillotine before the tide changes. This is a period in which the southern states, despite the difficulties of school integration, may sit back and laugh at the difficulties of Republicans struggling with their blueprints.

If one has an opportunity to observe the operations of government in Washington, it soon becomes apparent that no blueprint will suffice to keep either party in power for long, without hard work and good salesmanship.

The Republican case is a good one. At this time it does not seem to make much of an impression upon a nation which is intent on making money, expanding new business and looking for fresh opportunity.

Allotment Of Time Puzzling

ARGUMENT WITHOUT WORDS — A Washington lawyer is still puzzled over this letter from Civil Aeronautics Board Chief Examiner Francis W. Brown: "Consideration has been given to your request that Bonanza Air Lines be allotted twenty minutes for oral argument; however, it will not be possible to allocate Bonanza more than fifteen minutes for the presentation of its arguments in this case."

THE GETTYSBURG SERENADE — Folk Song Singer Rudy Hansen was here recently to sing for President Eisenhower at a White House musical. Officials in charge of the show met with Hansen the day before the command appearance and asked him to run through his repertoire. One of the feature numbers a current hit tune was emphatically scratched from the list. The program planners thought its lyrics had a political implication that might not sit well at the White House. Some of the chorus is as follows: "Been hanging around this town too long Winter's almost gone—Summer's on the way — Guess I'll have to travel on."

MARVEL OF METEOROLOGY Rep. Leon H. Gavin, Rep.-Pa., got the attention of the House and read them this message:

"Double, Double, toil and trouble,

Six more weeks of snow to shovel."

This was the word, Gavin explained, from the Punxsutawney (Pa.) ground hog, reputed to be the world's most expert weather forecaster. The ground hog had seen his shadow at 8:23 a.m. that day. "This means, like it or not, we have six more weeks of severe cold weather," said the Congressman.

WITH RED FACES TO MATCH Rep. Robert A. Everett, Dem.-Tenn., a member of the House V terans Affairs Committee, tells this story: A veterans hospital in one of our southern cities decided to install new fire plugs all over its sprawling grounds. The cost ran into thousands of dollars. The city fire department, responsible for protecting the hospital, sent one of its trucks out to test the new plugs. Alas and alack, the coupling on the plug was not the same size as the fire hose. So now the Government has to spend a lot more money installing a fire station at the hospital — one whose trucks will be able to connect up with the new plugs.

IT'S ONLY MONEY — Rep. chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, watches every dollar spent by Uncle Sam as though it comes from his own pocket. Cannon got to talking the other day at a hearing with Budget Director Maurice Stans. He wanted to make sure that Stans had a pretty good idea of what the $285 billion Federal debt means. Explained Cannon: If the United States set out to pay off its public debt by the year 2100, making one $8.3 billion payment annually, including 3 per cent interest, it would cost $1,205,078,709,686.40. "That is a fantastic sum," said Cannon dryly. We agree.

SHADES OF THE PAST — The Rockefeller - for - President drive is on and all the boosters have reasons of their own for wanting to see New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller move into the White House. But this unusual motive on the part of one supporter caught us by surprise: he wants the Governor to become President so that some day there will be a Rockefeller dime.

TAILS YOU WIN — Senate Majority leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas interrupted debate on the housing bill to tell this story about Bob Taylor's goat down in Tennessee: The animals held a convention and wanted to signal their approval of a matter by raising their tails. But the opossum rose and objected; he said he had a very scaly tail which would not look very good if raised in public, whereas, he said, the fox had a beautiful tail which, when raised in public, would be admired by everyone. So the opossum said, "I do not think I would cause pleasure by raising my tail in public. And, besides, Mr. Billy Goat over there had done voted."

THIRD PARTY OPPOSED

Mer Rouge, La.

To The Editor:

The movement to organize a third party, drawn mainly from the South's Democrats, is hazardous, to say the least.

Being dissatisfied with the actions of the National Democratic Party isn't of sufficient reason for us to pull away. The South, as a separate political entity, would have less influence in national affairs than it does today.

It can easily be pictured, the Roman Holiday the Republican North would have with the States Rights South, if we are so foolish as to withdraw from the larger unit.

To use Shakespeare's cliche where Hamlet says, "It is better to bear the ills we have than to fly to other of which we wot not." It is another way of using another cliche which says, "A half loaf is better than no bread."

No bread would be just what we would get if we pull out.

We split in 1860. Lincoln was elected. War followed and we were scourged worse than any country in history, without being totally destroyed.

From talk issued by the northern Republican brass (and we might add Northern Democrat brass) they are willing and probably anxious to have us repeat again.

The North has the South over a barrel. We can protest, and be more effective than being rebellious and kicking over the traces. Kicking over the traces has never been fruitful to any political party. We cite you to 1860, and again in 1912 when Teddy Roosevelt bolted the Republican Party and tried to ride the Bull Moose into the White House. Teddy lost more than the White House, when he formed his new party, which died almost aborning.

How can we expect to fare better than the Bull Moose? We have no leader of the caliber of Teddy. Even though we had such a leader he could lead us only to ignominous defeat.

George Washington couldn't be elected on any Southern ticket. Choose the lesser evil and we will fare better.

Let's assume you are a charter member of the P.T.A. Later you think the P.T.A. is working contrary to your superior ideas. You get frustrated to the point that you drop your membership and persuade about 1-3 of the members to follow in your footsteps. Can you see yourself and the 1-3 bolted members having any influence on the parent organization, or with the school board. Not if I know the members as well as I think I do.

Yes, it's true I voted for Eisenhower in his first race, and for quite a while I was "Smart Alex" and thought I had performed a brilliant act. Pray, believe me, for a long time, I've been ashamed of that vote, and now wish it had been cast to the catfish.

I'll regret that vote as long as I live and probably the thing's aura will hang above my grave until it sods over.

To the Editor:

As a charter member of the United Council of Church Women in the United States, I am writing this letter as a vigorous protest against the tone of your editorial in the morning's paper. It has the over-all result of vilifying the observance of the World Day of Prayer, whatever your purpose may have been in writing it.

As individuals of various denominations, nationalities, and races enter into prayer on the same day they are not only brought nearer to God, but they are also brought nearer to each other, so that they come to have greater understanding of each other, and greater concerr for each other's needs. There are so few agencies in the world operating to seek understanding, that I am thankful for one which is.

If you had taken time to investigate the women who are leaders of the Council of Church Women in the Twin Cities, you would have found them women of intelligence and devotion. The same is true on a state - wide level. I do not have any personal experience nation-wide, but I am sure you can find persons right in the Twin Cities who do know some of the national leadership. If these women promote any policy, it is because it is their Christian conviction, rather than something "swallowed."

You do not give the source of your information, except in one place, where you attribute a statement to the American Council of Christian Laymen. I do not know this group, but judging from the nature of the quotations, it sounds as if it is dedicated to creating animosities and hatreds. Certainly your statement in the first column, near the bottom of the page that "the sponsor of The World Day of Prayer is an interracial group dedicated to destroying the natural racial differences . . . and to bringing about a mongrelization of the whole human race" is a vicious untruth.

Your statements on the teachings of the Bible show a surprising unfamiliarity with the teachings of the New Testament. Our relationships with other people and the quality of them is made the very indication of our relationship to God, as I understand the teachings of Jesus. Christians differ as to their viewpoint on racial integration, but they can never differ on the necessity for a real concern for the other person, whoever he may be.

FLOOD OF SYMPATHY

Europeans Learn Of Dulles' Illness

LONDON (UPI)—The announcement tnat John Foster Dulles has cancer drew expressions of sorrow and sympathy from European officials Saturday, even those who have bitterly opposed him.

A 37-word dispatch from the Soviet Tass News Agency brought news of Dulles' illness to Moscow. Speculation that Dulles would not return to work, was bound to cause reaction in the Kremlin, which has denounced Dulles for years as a symbol of "imperialist aggression."

However, despite the flood of sympathetic statements from Western officials, it was considered unlikely there would be any immediate Russian reaction.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, who had conferred with Dulles only last week during the Secretary of State's hasty European tour to deal with the regret." He wished Dulles "a speedy recovery." Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, Dulles' British counterpart, also expressed sympathy.

In Bonn, Dulles' good friend, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, expressed the hope and belief that the American diplomat would recover.

"I believe Mr. Dulles will be able to take up his foreign political work very soon again," Adenauer said.

He said he had spoken to "several doctors" who did not believe Dulles' illness was "very dangerous."

The West German Socialist Party, which has long opposed Dulles on foreign affairs, said the news of his illness in Washington was "tragic" and caused great sorrow.

In the Vatican, Roman Catholic Church officials expressed "grave sorrow and consternation." They said Pope John XXIII would be informed of Dulles' condition.

SMALL JET TESTED

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — McDonnell Aircraft Corp. announced Thursday its small, four-engine jet transport, the MacDonnell 119 was in the air for 45 minutes on its first test flight. The plane cruises at 550 mph carrying 10 passengers.

TO ADDRESS ATTORNEYS

'Bama Governor To Speak In N.O.

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Alabama Gov. John Patterson, the attorney general who cleaned up corrupt Phenix City, Ala., will address Louisiana district attorneys in New Orleans Friday.

Patterson is featured speaker at the second annual attorney general's conference for district attorneys. The two-day meeting ends Saturday.

The Alabama official will discuss "Current problems facing us in the South."

Patterson was inaugurated as governor last month. He was elected attorney general in 1954 after the gangland style slaying of his father, Albert L. Patterson, then Democratic nominee for attorney general.

As attorney general the younger Patterson led the drive to clean up corruption in Phenix City and was active in the state's fight to recall racial segregation.

Patterson joined Louisiana and other states bounding the Gulf of Mexico in the tidelands dispute.

Louisiana Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion said this year the district attorneys probably would not discuss segregation. "We talked about that at length last year."

However, the civil rights controversy will come up in a discussion of laws applicable to registrars of voters and how district attorneys can assist the registrars.

One member of this discussion group is W. M. Shaw of Homer, counsel for the legislative segregation committee which is leading the drive for tighter enforcement of registration laws.

Gremillion, designated by the 1958 Legislature as legal advisor to registrars facing federal action, said he had asked the district attorneys also to help registrars and "practically all have agreed to do so."

Basic purpose of the conference, he said, is a workshop type meeting to help the state's prosecuting officials with "a sounder, fairer and better administration of justice."

"I consider the district attorney one of the most powerful officials in the state," the Gremillion said. "The Constitution delegates to him power to prosecute or not to prosecute as he sees fit."

Work Started On 2 Schools In Crossett

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special)—As the initial work began this week on Crossett's new half-million dollar high school, the School Board began discussions about adding four new classrooms to the T. W. Daniel School.

According to Superintendent. M. H. Russell, the Negro school is overcrowded, and at least two new classrooms are needed now, and by this time next year two more will be needed. In making their plans the Board decided to seek estimates on adding four slassrooms at once in order to realize a total savings.

Preliminary ertimates indicate the work will cost about $25,000, Mr. Russell said.

According to Mr. Russell, the addition to the Negro school has become necessary because the Negro school population is increasing, and the Negro pupils are staying in school much longer than in the past.

W. C. Norman, President of the Board, appointed a building committee, composed of Mr Russell Lexie Woods, and John Henry Allen, to approach architects and present final plans for the work at the March meeting.

East Carroll To Broaden Vaccine Requirements

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — A resolution passed by the East Carroll Parish School Board Wednesday requires all children to receive immunization against small pox and diptheria before entering school.

M. M. Walsworth, parish superintendent stated that this resolution was brought about by the alarming news of the sky-rocket increase of diptheria in St. Tammy Parish in 1958 over the previous years. He also informed that a special meeting of the principals and representatives of the local and state health department was held on January 23rd, to discuss this health problem, and to suggest to the school board as to what should be done to prevent a possible epidemic.

Dr. Paul Cook, State Health official who was present, emphasized the definite need of an immunization program for these diseases. Those representing the local health unit, Miss Anna Tatman and Mrs. Dell Markey, both Public Health Nurses, each urged the acceptance of the program.

Mr. Walsworth stated that present plans are that the immunization program will take place at the pre-school clinic during the month of May, or prior to the opening of the fall 1959 school session, under the supervision of the local Health Unit.

Greenlease Kidnap Case Is Not Found

CHICAGO (UPI) — A partial check of a $150,000 fortune amassed by a grandmotherly ex-madam has failed to uncover a possible clue to the mystery of the missing Greenlease kidnap ransom money, police said Saturday.

Chief of Detectives Patrick Deeley ordered a serial number check of the money found after Mrs. Grace Van Scoyk, 68, was arrested as a prostitute Thursday night.

Police found $65,202 stuffed into paper bags and satchels around the dishwater blond woman's house, another $58,000 in her bank account, and $25,000 more cached in a safety deposit box.

Mrs. Van Scoyk said she acquired the money from 40 years of work as a lady of easy virtue. "My friends were good to me," she told police.

But Deeley decided to see if any of the serial numbers matched with almost $300,000 missing in the ransom money paid in the kidnaping of Bobby Greenlease in 1953.

The F B I, the Secret Service and the Internal Revenue Bureau joined in the police check under Sgt. Thomas Mulvey.

"It's a tough job and the check will take time to complete," Mulvey said. "So far we have not found any kidnap . . . money."

Bonnie Jean Heady and Carl Austin Hall, who kidnaped the Greenlease boy, received $600,000 in ransom from the boy's father, a Kansas City Millionaire. After killing the child, they fled to St. Louis, where they were captured with most of the ransom and later were executed.

But about $300,000 of the ransom disappeared between the motel where they were arrested and the St. Louis police station. A small part of the money has popped up in Federal Reserve banks.

Junior Science Club Formed At Crossett

The Junior Academy of Science is in effect the national Honor Society for the sciences, and students are tapped for membership on a basis of their science potential. According to Crosset High Science teachers Kelly Oliver and B. C. Dodson, this organization is an outgrowth of the concern of the National Science Clubs of America over the fact that the Science Fairs were failing to recognize and encourage too many students with superior research projects which don't appear in Science Fairs. It is felt that many of the better minds in the Science fields were not being sufficiently encouraged. The ultimate goal of the Academy of Science is to find the superior scientific minds and encourage their continued education toward the college level.

STUDENTS

Those students tapped for membership Thursday night are: Banks Clark, Cathy Collins, Jerry Fullerton, George Owens, Tommy Teague, Jerry Robinson, Bob Tucker, Donny Switzer, and Roddy Willis out of the 10th grade; Anthony Farque, Charles McDuffie, and Jimmy Gammel from the 11th grade; and Charles Chesley, Jerry Scriber, John Sullins, and Steve Nason from the Senior Class.

Nine of the total of 16 members are Tenth Graders. Mr. Oliver, the Tenth Grade Biology teacher, stated that he has more outstanding students this year than in several years, which has resulted in over half of the total group coming from that grade.

All National Junior Academy of Science members will be taken to the State Science Fair at Siloam Springs on March 21st., whether or not they have entries, in order that their contact with other science - minded students may broaden their base of interest.

More Voters To Be Sought By NAACP

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Delegates to the Southeastern conference of the NAACP Saturday were told they must set up house-to-house campaigns to increase the number of eligible Negro voters.

The discussion on ways of "attaining freedom through registration and voting" was part of a nationwide NAACP drive to get three million more Negroes registered as eligible voters by 1960 in order to give the race a louder voice in political affairs.

The discussion was led by John M. Brooks of Richmond, Va., who is national director of the NAACP's voter-registration program.

W. C. Patton of Atlanta, field secretary at large in the voter-registration program, outlined to the delegates from six southern states how to set up a "grass-tts" organization to get Negroes' names on the registration books.

He said local NAACP branches must have a worker on every block in Negro residential areas to constantly encourage Negroes to re ster.

FLOOD OF SYMPATHY

Europeans Learn Of Dulles' Illness

LONDON (UPI)—The announcement tnat John Foster Dulles has cancer drew expressions of sorrow and sympathy from European officials Saturday, even those who have bitterly opposed him.

A 37-word dispatch from the Soviet Tass News Agency brought news of Dulles' illness to Moscow. Speculation that Dulles would not return to work, was bound to cause reaction in the Kremlin, which has denounced Dulles for years as a symbol of "imperialist aggression."

However, despite the flood of sympathetic statements from Western officials, it was considered unlikely there would be any immediate Russian reaction.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, who had conferred with Dulles only last week during the Secretary of State's hasty European tour to deal with the regret." He wished Dulles "a speedy recovery." Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, Dulles' British counterpart, also expressed sympathy.

In Bonn, Dulles' good friend, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, expressed the hope and belief that the American diplomat would recover.

"I believe Mr. Dulles will be able to take up his foreign political work very soon again," Adenauer said.

He said he had spoken to "several doctors" who did not believe Dulles' illness was "very dangerous."

The West German Socialist Party, which has long opposed Dulles on foreign affairs, said the news of his illness in Washington was "tragic" and caused great sorrow.

In the Vatican, Roman Catholic Church officials expressed "grave sorrow and consternation." They said Pope John XXIII would be informed of Dulles' condition.

SMALL JET TESTED

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — McDonnell Aircraft Corp. announced Thursday its small, four-engine jet transport, the MacDonnell 119 was in the air for 45 minutes on its first test flight. The plane cruises at 550 mph carrying 10 passengers.

TO ADDRESS ATTORNEYS

'Bama Governor To Speak In N.O.

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Alabama Gov. John Patterson, the attorney general who cleaned up corrupt Phenix City, Ala., will address Louisiana district attorneys in New Orleans Friday.

Patterson is featured speaker at the second annual attorney general's conference for district attorneys. The two-day meeting ends Saturday.

The Alabama official will discuss "Current problems facing us in the South."

Patterson was inaugurated as governor last month. He was elected attorney general in 1954 after the gangland style slaying of his father, Albert L. Patterson, then Democratic nominee for attorney general.

As attorney general the younger Patterson led the drive to clean up corruption in Phenix City and was active in the state's fight to recall racial segregation.

Patterson joined Louisiana and other states bounding the Gulf of Mexico in the tidelands dispute.

Louisiana Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion said this year the district attorneys probably would not discuss segregation. "We talked about that at length last year."

However, the civil rights controversy will come up in a discussion of laws applicable to registrars of voters and how district attorneys can assist the registrars.

One member of this discussion group is W. M. Shaw of Homer, counsel for the legislative segregation committee which is leading the drive for tighter enforcement of registration laws.

Gremillion, designated by the 1958 Legislature as legal advisor to registrars facing federal action, said he had asked the district attorneys also to help registrars and "practically all have agreed to do so."

Basic purpose of the conference, he said, is a workshop type meeting to help the state's prosecuting officials with "a sounder, fairer and better administration of justice."

"I consider the district attorney one of the most powerful officials in the state," the Gremillion said. "The Constitution delegates to him power to prosecute or not to prosecute as he sees fit."

Work Started On 2 Schools In Crossett

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special)—As the initial work began this week on Crossett's new half-million dollar high school, the School Board began discussions about adding four new classrooms to the T. W. Daniel School.

According to Superintendent, M. H. Russell, the Negro school is overcrowded, and at least two new classrooms are needed now, and by this time next year two more will be needed. In making their plans the Board decided to seek estimates on adding four slassrooms at once in order to realize a total savings.

Preliminary ertimates indicate the work will cost about $25,000, Mr. Russell said.

According to Mr. Russell, the addition to the Negro school has become necessary because the Negro school population is increasing, and the Negro pupils are staying in school much longer than in the past.

W. C. Norman, President of the Board, appointed a building committee, composed of Mr Russell Lexie Woods, and John Henry Allen, to approach architects and present final plans for the work at the March meeting.

By noting whether or not his wife buys and reads a copy of a current book, a husband can get more than an inkling as to how he stacks up with her. The book: "How to Make Your Husband Live Longer."

East Carroll To Broaden Vaccine Requirements

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — A resolution passed by the East Carroll Parish School Board Wednesday requires all children to receive immunization against small pox and diptheria before entering school.

M. M. Walsworth, parish superintendent stated that this resolution was brought about by the alarming news of the sky-rocket increase of diptheria in St. Tammy Parish in 1958 over the previous years. He also informed that a special meeting of the principals and representatives of the local and state health department was held on January 23rd, to discuss this health problem, and to suggest to the school board as to what should be done to prevent a possible epidemic.

Dr. Paul Cook, State Health official who was present, emphasized the definite need of an immunization program for these diseases. Those representing the local health unit, Miss Anna Tatman and Mrs. Dell Markey, both Public Health Nurses, each urged the acceptance of the program.

Mr. Walsworth stated that present plans are that the immunization program will take place at the pre-school clinic during the month of May, or prior to the opening of the fall 1959 school session, under the supervision of the local Health Unit.

Greenlease Kidnap Case Is Not Found

CHICAGO (UPI) — A partial check of a $150,000 fortune amassed by a grandmotherly ex-madam has failed to uncover a possible clue to the mystery of the missing Greenlease kidnap ransom money, police said Saturday.

Chief of Detectives Patrick Deeley ordered a serial number check of the money found after Mrs. Grace Van Scoyk, 68, was arrested as a prostitute Thursday night.

Police found $65,202 stuffed into paper bags and satchels around the dishwater blond woman's house, another $58,000 in her bank account, and $25,000 more cached in a safety deposit box.

Mrs. Van Scoyk said she acquired the money from 40 years of work as a lady of easy virtue. "My friends were good to me," she told police.

But Deeley decided to see if any of the serial numbers matched with almost $300,000 missing in the ransom money paid in the kidnaping of Bobby Greenlease in 1953.

The F B I, the Secret Service and the Internal Revenue Bureau joined in the police check under Sgt. Thomas Mulvey.

"It's a tough job and the check will take time to complete," Mulvey said. "So far we have not found any kidnap . . . money."

Bonnie Jean Heady and Carl Austin Hall, who kidnaped the Greenlease boy, received $600,000 in ransom from the boy's father, a Kansas City Millionaire. After killing the child, they fled to St. Louis, where they were captured with most of the ransom and later were executed.

But about $300,000 of the ransom disappeared between the motel where they were arrested and the St. Louis police station. A small part of the money has popped up in Federal Reserve banks.

Junior Science Club Formed At Crossett

The Junior Academy of Science is in effect the national Honor Society for the sciences, and students are tapped for membership on a basis of their science potential. According to Crosset High Science teachers Kelly Oliver and B. C. Dodson, this organization is an outgrowth of the concern of the National Science Clubs of America over the fact that the Science Fairs were failing to recognize and encourage too many students with superior research projects which don't appear in Science Fairs. It is felt that many of the better minds in the Science fields were not being sufficiently encouraged. The ultimate goal of the Academy of Science is to find the superior scientific minds and encourage their continued education toward the college level.

STUDENTS

Those students tapped for membership Thursday night are: Banks Clark, Cathy Collins, Jerry Fullerton, George Owens, Tommy Teague, Jerry Robinson, Bob Tucker, Donny Switzer, and Roddy Willis out of the 10th grade; Anthony Farque, Charles McDuffie, and Jimmy Gammel from the 11th grade; and Charles Chesley, Jerry Scriber, John Sullins, and Steve Nason from the Senior Class.

Nine of the total of 16 members are Tenth Graders. Mr. Oliver, the Tenth Grade Biology teacher, stated that he has more outstanding students this year than in several years, which has resulted in over half of the total group coming from that grade.

All National Junior Academy of Science members will be taken to the State Science Fair at Siloam Springs on March 21st., whether or not they have entries, in order that their contact with other science - minded students may broaden their base of interest.

More Voters To Be Sought By NAACP

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Delegates to the Southeastern conference of the NAACP Saturday were told they must set up house-to-house campaigns to increase the number of eligible Negro voters.

The discussion on ways of "attaining freedom through registration and voting" was part of a nationwide NAACP drive to get three million more Negroes registered as eligible voters by 1960 in order to give the race a louder voice in political affairs.

The discussion was led by John M. Brooks of Richmond, Va., who is national director of the NAACP's voter-registration program.

W. C. Patton of Atlanta, field secretary at large in the voter-registration program, outlined to the delegates from six southern states how to set up a "grass-tts" organization to get Negroes' names on the registration books.

He said local NAACP branches must have a worker on every block in Negro residential areas to constantly encourage Negroes to re ster.

Wind Whistle No Lullaby

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — This is tornado country where the whistle of the wind in the middle of the night is no lullaby.

The tornadic winds have started again. So have the jitters as St. Louis digs out from under its worst tornado in 32 years.

Nor have the jitters been helped by a long-range weather prophet who bases his forecasts on sun-spot activity. He is Dr. Edward M. Brooks, professor of geophysics at St. Louis University.

"This is a rough tornado year," he said.

The tornado country stretches from the plains of Texas to the Dakotas. St. Louis is in the heart of this country. Since its earliest day it has been lashed.

But only two those in 1896 and 1927—were more deadly than the one that caught it asleep before dawn Tuesday and left 21 dead, 300 injured and 12 million dollars in property destruction.

The storm struck with all its fury at 2:12 a.m. No warning had been sounded. The Weather Bureau simply had said earlier to be on the alert for severe weather, with possible hail.

The Civil Defense, supposedly the nerve center for all-out emergencies, went into action three hours late. It was the first time it had been called upon since it was organized eight years ago.

Birg. Gen. Francis P. Hardaway (Ret.), director of civil defense blamed the Weather Bureau for his late start; it should have notified him. George M. Brancato, chief government meteorologist, insisted there had been no understanding that was to alert Civil Defense. He also said the Weather Bureau had no advanced sign of the tornado; it simply had slipped into town.

Brancato said modern radar equipment might have provided an hour's warning. A forecaster saw a "hook-like shape"—the tornado danger signal—on the radar screen but it vanished and he discounted it.

Brancato said the tornado was reported to have been seen at Sullivan, Mo., 66 miles away. The Weather Bureau has ordered a $100,000 radar tornado-tracker.

Just 10 days before the tornado hit the Air Force discontinued its defense filter center. Its ground observers have spotted tornadoes before and its weather chief, Sam C. Olmstead, said they might have done it again.

Tuesday's tornado followed almost the identical path of one in 1927 in which 78 perished. Both bore northeastward through central St. Louis about three miles west of the downtown district.

The daddy of all St. Louis tornadoes hit May 27, 1896. The death toll was 306. But the biggest of all in the area crashed into southern Illinois on a sultry March day in 1925. It ripped through West Frankfort, Murphysboro and other towns 150 miles southeast of St. Louis. Before it quit 800 persons were dead.

Dr. Brooks says tornadoes can strike any month and at any hour. He warned St. Louis that it is not immune from another.

"Tornadoes are not like measles," he said. "You can have them again and again."

Car-Truck Crash Fatal For Pair In Mississippi

Charles Rupert Newman, 27, and Mrs. Dianne Brown Newman, 17, who was expecting a baby in April, were identified as the victims.

Willis Spencer of Crystal Springs, Miss., driver of the truck, was hospitalized with minor injuries.

The Highway Patrol said the collision occured about 2 a.m. on Highway 51 seven miles south of here.

The recent break in the price of coffee at the wholesale level might give those who take coffee breaks a break if there were any effective way to break the news of the break to those who serve coffee to the public.

Son Is Informed Diplomat Father Cancer Stricken

ROME (UPI) —The Rev. Avery Dulles, a Jesuit priest and son of John Foster Dulles, learned only Saturday night that his father was suffering from cancer again.

The priest, who was a convert to Roman Catholicism, said he had known previously only that his diplomat father was undergoing "certain tests."

There was sadness in his voice when U P I contacted him by phone at a Jesuit residence here.

"I would rather not make any comment on my father's condition until I hear more from home," the priest said. "I imagine I will get a cable soon."

"No, I did not know my father had cancer," he said. "I only knew that they were making certain tests."

Told that physicians had reported his father's condition good, the younger Dulles said he had no immediate plans for flying home.

He last saw his father when the secretary came to Rome for the funeral of Pope Pius XII last October.

The priest has been studying in Europe since June, 1957. He came to Rome last September to enroll as a graduate student of dogmatic theology in the Gregorian University.

Wind Whistle No Lullaby

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — This is tornado country where the whistle of the wind in the middle of the night is no lullaby.

The tornadic winds have started again. So have the jitters as St. Louis digs out from under its worst tornado in 32 years.

Nor have the jitters been helped by a long-range weather prophet who bases his forecasts on sunspot activity. He is Dr. Edward M. Brooks, professor of geophysics at St. Louis University.

"This is a rough tornado year," he said.

The tornado country stretches from the plains of Texas to the Dakotas. St. Louis is in the heart of this country. Since its earliest day it has been lashed.

But only two—those in 1896 and 1927—were more deadly than the one that caught it asleep before dawn Tuesday and left 21 dead, 300 injured and 12 million dollars in property destruction.

The storm struck with all its fury at 2:12 a.m. No warning had been sounded. The Weather Bureau simply had said earlier to be on the alert for severe weather, with possible hail.

The Civil Defense, supposedly the nerve center for all-out emergencies, went into action three hours late. It was the first time it had been called upon since it was organized eight years ago.

Birg. Gen. Francis P. Hardaway (Ret.), director of civil defense blamed the Weather Bureau for his late start; it should have notified him. George M. Brancato, chief government meteorologist, insisted there had been no understanding that was to alert Civil Defense. He also said the Weather Bureau had no advanced sign of the tornado; it simply had slipped into town.

Brancato said modern radar equipment might have provided an hour's warning. A forecaster saw a "hook-like shape"—the tornado danger signal—on the radar screen but it vanished and he discounted it.

Brancato said the tornado was reported to have been seen at Sullivan, Mo., 66 miles away. The Weather Bureau has ordered a $100,000 radar tornado-tracker.

Just 10 days before the tornado hit the Air Force discontinued its defense filter center. Its ground observers have spotted tornadoes before and its weather chief, Sam C. Olmstead, said they might have done it again.

Tuesday's tornado followed almost the identical path of one in 1927 in which 78 perished. Both bore northeastward through central St. Louis about three miles west of the downtown district.

The daddy of all St. Louis tornadoes hit May 27, 1896. The death toll was 306. But the biggest of all in the area crashed into southern Illinois on a sultry March day in 1925. It ripped through West Frankfort, Murphysboro and other towns 150 miles southeast of St. Louis. Before it quit 800 persons were dead.

Dr. Brooks says tornadoes can strike any month and at any hour. He warned St. Louis that it is not immune from another.

"Tornadoes are not like measles," he said. "You can have them again and again."

Son Is Informed Diplomat Father Cancer Stricken

ROME (UPI) —The Rev. Avery Dulles, a Jesuit priest and son of John Foster Dulles, learned only Saturday night that his father was suffering from cancer again.

The priest, who was a convert to Roman Catholicism, said he had known previously only that his diplomat father was undergoing "certain tests."

There was sadness in his voice when U P I contacted him by phone at a Jesuit residence here.

"I would rather not make any comment on my father's condition until I hear more from home," the priest said. "I imagine I will get a cable soon."

WEATHERMEN BELIEVE

Lengthy Warming Trend In Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — New information gathered in the antarctic tends to confirm the belief of weathermen that the world is in the midst of a long-term warming trend.

This was reported Saturday by U.S. Weather Bureau scientists. They said the temperature rise all over the world is estimated at no more than two or three degrees every 100 years.

During the International Geophysical Year, bureau meteorologists collected extensive records on the antarctic continent.

Dr. H. E. Landsberg, director of the bureau's Office of Climatology, said that while the new antarctic temperature data is not conclusive, it is consistent with the hypothesis that the entire world is slowly getting warmer. The present trend dates from about the beginning of this century.

The cause?

"We don't know," Landsberg said. "We know only the effect. One theory is that the change is man-made, that a blanket of carbon dioxide given off by the burning of coal and oil retards the radiation of heat by the earth. Another possible explanation is an increase in the sun's radiation."

Referring to the antarctic temperature research, Landsberg said:

"What comparable figures we do have do not contradict the idea of a general (temperature) uptrend in the antarctic, Landsberg said. "Our information as to what is happening near the other (North) pole is much more conclusive. Besides temperature figures, we have physical evidence."

The weather expert added that there has been a spectacular warming trend in the last two or three years along the Pacific Coast, from California to British Columbia.

WITH UNION BAD BOYS

Labor Federation Changes Technique

By NORMAN WALKER
AP Labor Writer

Organized labor seems to be dealing more gingerly nowadays with union bad boys caught raiding the cookie jar.

Leaders of America's big union federation, the AFL - CIO, are steering clear of the drastic type of punishment meted out when Dave Beck Sr. and the Teamsters Union were exiled from the rest of labor.

In San Juan, Puerto Rico, AFL-CIO chiefs of the federation's policy-making executive council open their winter sessions Monday. On the agenda is a batch of new union scandals dished up by the Senate Labor - Management Committee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, (D-Ark).

Two of the unions involved in the disclosures are the Carpenters and Sheet Metal Workers, both key organizations in the AFL-CIO's internal structure.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, has been experimenting with a sort of woodshed technique in dealing with corruption. It amounts to trying to get unions to correct malpractices and oust corrupt leaders without expelling them from the AFL-CIO.

Federation leaders are fed up with ouster as a remedy. They feel it hasn't solved anything particularly in the three unions already expelled — the Teamsters, Laundry Workers and Bakery Workers. They say it has merely reduced AFL - CIO membership and effectiveness.

The trouble with Meany's woodshed method—bringing in a scandal-tainted union's leaders and telling them what they have to do to clean up—is that success depends upon just how much the recalcitrant union is willing to be punished. This leads to compromise.

In fact, the sole AFL-CIO power to police its affiliated unions is the same as in most other organization. Expulsion is the only weapon if persuasion won't work. Unions realize this, and the bigger ones won't yield an inch.

This seems to be the case in the Carpenters Union. Its president, Maurice Hutcheson, is under indictment in an Indiana highway land scandal. He has refused to answer McClellan committee questions about union spending.

Meany has tried the woodshed technique on Hutcheson in a series of secret conferences. But Hutcheson reportedly just isn't buying Meany's reform suggestions.

AFL-CIO leaders fear that ousting the Carpenters could throw them into an alliance with the Teamsters, the expelled Bakery Workers and other ousted unions and set up a potent rival labor center, or union federation. So union politics and policies are heavily involved in how corruption problems are handled.

This doesn't mean that many positive accomplishments haven't been made in ridding unions of gangster and hoodlum influences and plain and fancy stealing of members' dues money. Much has been done.

Director Cites Reason For Drop In Park Visitors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Travel to 179 areas administered by the National Park Service dropped slightly in 1958, but park director Conrad L. Wirth has an explanation for it.

Wirth said visits to the Millerton Lake recreation area in California were not counted by the park service last year because administration of the area was transferred to the state. Hence, the more than 900,000 visitors to Millerton, were not included in the 58,677,000 who sought out national park service areas. In 1957, the NPS visitors totaled 59,285,000.

The 29 big national parks, such as Acadia, Great Smoky Mountain, Shenandoah, and Yellowstone, upped their visitor total in 1958 by 3.7 per cent to a total of 21,672,000 persons. The 83 national monuments gained 4.1 per cent for a total of 9,734,000 visitors last year. Two of the four national parkways notched a 3.1 per cent increase in use for a total of 8,130,000 visitors.

WEATHERMEN BELIEVE

Lengthy Warming Trend In Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — New information gathered in the antarctic tends to confirm the belief of weathermen that the world is in the midst of a long-term warming trend.

This was reported Saturday by U.S. Weather Bureau scientists. They said the temperature rise all over the world is estimated at no more than two or three degrees every 100 years.

During the International Geophysical Year, bureau meteorologists collected extensive records on the antarctic continent.

Dr. H. E. Landsberg, director of the bureau's Office of Climatology, said that while the new antarctic temperature data is not conclusive, it is consistent with the hypothesis that the entire world is slowly getting warmer. The present trend dates from about the beginning of this century.

The cause?

"We don't know," Landsberg said. "We know only the effect. One theory is that the change is man-made, that a blanket of carbon dioxide given off by the burning of coal and oil retards the radiation of heat by the earth. Another possible explanation is an increase in the sun's radiation."

Referring to the antarctic temperature research, Landsberg said:

"What comparable figures we do have do not contradict the idea of a general (temperature) uptrend in the antarctic, Landsberg said. "Our information as to what is happening near the other (North) pole is much more conclusive. Besides temperature figures, we have physical evidence."

The weather expert added that there has been a spectacular warming trend in the last two or three years along the Pacific Coast, from California to British Columbia.

WITH UNION BAD BOYS

Labor Federation Changes Technique

By NORMAN WALKER
AP Labor Writer

Organized labor seems to be dealing more gingerly nowadays with union bad boys caught raiding the cookie jar.

Leaders of America's big union federation, the AFL - CIO, are steering clear of the drastic type of punishment meted out when Dave Beck Sr. and the Teamsters Union were exiled from the rest of labor.

In San Juan, Puerto Rico, AFL-CIO chiefs of the federation's policy - making executive council open their winter sessions Monday. On the agenda is a batch of new union scandals dished up by the Senate Labor - Management Committee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, (D-Ark).

Two of the unions involved in the disclosures are the Carpenters and Sheet Metal Workers, both key organizations in the AFL-CIO's internal structure.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, has been experimenting with a sort of woodshed technique in dealing with corruption. It amounts to trying to get unions to correct malpractices and oust corrupt leaders without expelling them from the AFL-CIO.

Federation leaders are fed up with ouster as a remedy. They feel it hasn't solved anything particularly in the three unions already expelled — the Teamsters, Laundry Workers and Bakery Workers. They say it has merely reduced AFL - CIO membership and effectiveness.

The trouble with Meany's woodshed method—bringing in a scandal-tainted union's leaders and telling them what they have to do to clean up—is that success depends upon just how much the recalcitrant union is willing to be punished. This leads to compromise.

In fact, the sole AFL-CIO power to police its affiliated unions is the same as in most other organization. Expulsion is the only weapon if persuasion won't work. Unions realize this, and the bigger ones won't yield an inch.

This seems to be the case in the Carpenters Union. Its president, Maurice Hutcheson, is under indictment in an Indiana highway land scandal. He has refused to answer McClellan committee questions about union spending.

Meany has tried the woodshed technique on Hutcheson in a series of secret conferences. But Hutcheson reportedly just isn't buying Meany's reform suggestions.

AFL-CIO leaders fear that ousting the Carpenters could throw them into an alliance with the Teamsters, the expelled Bakery Workers and other ousted unions and set up a potent rival labor center, or union federation. So union politics and policies are heavily involved in how corruption problems are handled.

This doesn't mean that many positive accomplishments haven't been made in ridding unions of gangster and hoodlum influences and plain and fancy stealing of members' dues money. Much has been done.

Director Cites Reason For Drop In Park Visitors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Travel to 179 areas administered by the National Park Service dropped slightly in 1958, but park director Conrad L. Wirth has an explanation for it.

Wirth said visits to the Millerton Lake recreation area in California were not counted by the park service last year because administration of the area was transferred to the state. Hence, the more than 900,000 visitors to Millerton, were not included in the 58,677,000 who sought out national park service areas. In 1957, the NPS visitors totaled 59,285,000.

The 29 big national parks, such as Acadia, Great Smoky Mountain, Shenandoah, and Yellowstone, upped their visitor total in 1958 by 3.7 per cent to a total of 21,672,000 persons. The 83 national monuments gained 4.1 per cent for a total of 9,734,000 visitors last year. Two of the four national parkways notched a 3.1 per cent increase in use for a total of 8,-13?,000 visitors.

Four-State Storm Alert Is Withdrawn

ern California from Oregon. Storm warnings were hoisted along the northern and central California coast.

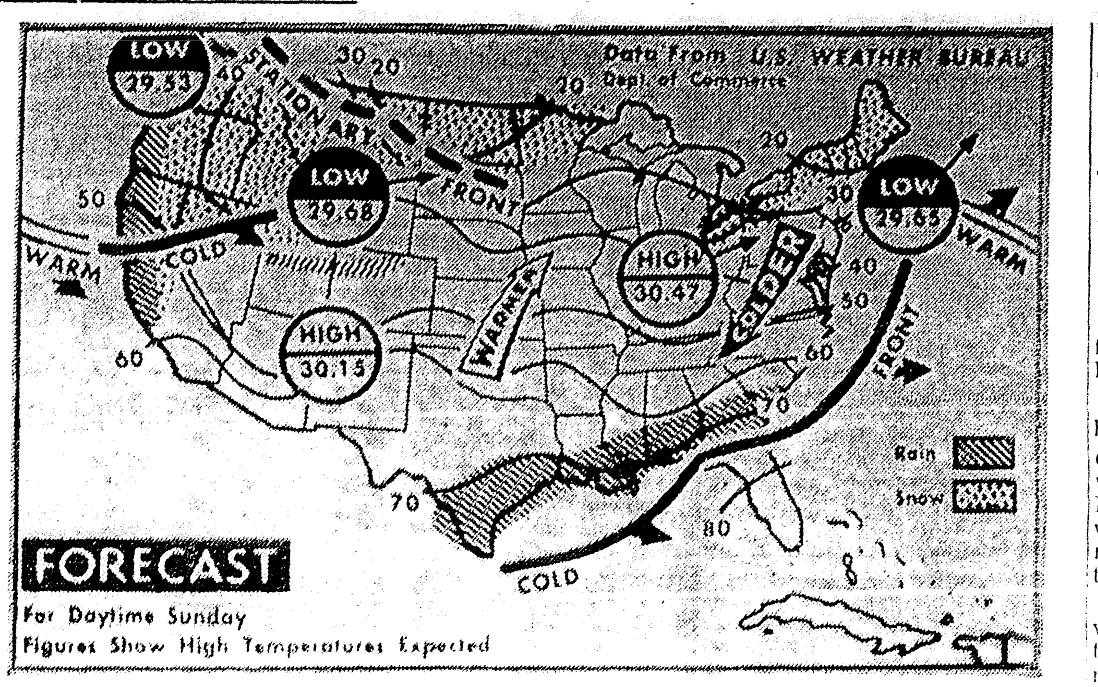
The rains, which measured two to three inches over Oregon, were mixed with snow as they moved inland. At Mount Shasta, Calif., about 14 inches of snow piled up since Friday, and travelers were warned of additional heavy snows by Sunday.

FLOODS

Mild temperatures over the Midwest, meanwhile, spawned floods and threat of floodwaters in many states. The maverick Wabash, on a week - long rampage across Indiana, pounded toward its crest at West Terre Haute, Ind., where flood fighters plugged a levee break with sandbags. The fate of West Terre Haute hung on a sandbagged stretch of the levee, which collapsed last June and was not repaired.

Over the northern Great Lakes region, cooler air brought up snow, rain and freezing rain from the Dakotas through the upper Mississippi Valley into Wisconsin and Michigan. Highways were snow - packed and glazed with ice, resulting in hazardous driving for motorists.

The southern wind storm hit Shreveport, La., and Overton, Tex., just before dawn Saturday. At the same time, heavy rains over East Texas posed a possible flood threat on the Sabine River as far south as Mineola, and on Lake Fork Creek, a Sabine tributary.



WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are forecast Sunday for Gulf Coast and southern Atlantic states. Snow flurries are expected in eastern Lakes, northern Appalachians and northern New England. It will snow also in northern Mississippi Valley, northern plains and Rockies and higher places of northern plateau. Rain is slated for Pacific Coast area from central California northward changing to snow in higher coastal ranges. It will be colder from Texas eastward and northward to Atlantic states. It will be warmer for southern Rockies and central plains. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Rev. Hayward Dies; Service Is Scheduled

ward's name is being maintained at Grace Church.

Active in civic work, Fr. Hayward had served as president of the Civic Music, Rotary Club of Monroe, Little Theatre, and on the boards of the Juvenile Association for 15 years, Crippled Children organization, Community Chest Board and was Grand Prelate of the Grand Commandery.

During his tenure of office in Monroe, the membership of the Episcopal Church grew from 200 to 600. The present church of Gothic structure was erected on the corner of North Fourth and Glenmar streets, and foundations were laid for the organization of the three current missions in the Twin Cities, St. Thomas in the College area, St. Albans on Morris and Jackson street, and St. Patrick's in West Monroe.

Two years after his arrival in Monroe the Grace Church building on the present site of the Wright-Bendel Clinic, St. John and Oak streets, burned, and preparations were begun immediately for the present building. On Easter Sunday of 1926, the first services in the present church were held. Under his guidance, the church grew continually until when he retired in 1949, the membership had tripled.

EDUCATION

Born in Philadelphia April 10, 1882, Fr. Hayward received his education at Brown Preparatory School and Temple University and graduated from the Philadelphia Divinity School in June of 1906. Immediately upon graduation, he went to Camden, N. J., where he served for six years. From there, he went to Christ Church in Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin from 1912 to 1917. The next two years he served St. Andrews Church, Enid, Oklahoma, then at St. Andrew's Church, Houston, Texas, from 1919 to 1921 when he accepted a call to Grace Church Monroe.

The Rev. and Mrs. Hayward, the former Henrietta H. Alexander, were married on September 9, 1908 in Camden, New Jersey. Last September, the fiftieth Anniversary of their wedding, the couple celebrated their golden Anniversary with special services at the church and a coffee hour in the church parish house. In honor of the occasion, a stained glass window was installed in Grace Church.

Also as a memorial to the minister, the church maintains a library dedicated in his honor in October of 1953.

Fr. Hayward is survived by his widow; five children, Edward F. Hayward, Jr., Monroe; James E. Hayward, Memphis, Tenn., Mrs. Floyd Stone Jr., Monroe; Mrs. Bernard Webb, Gainesville, Fla.; and Mrs. Frank Morgan, Miami, Fla.; one sister, Mrs. A. W. White of Houston, Tex.; a niece Mrs. Claude Blanchard, also of Houston, and 18 grandchildren.

Serving as pallbearers will be Frank Maxwell, John Eby, George Holt, Francis Steele Walter Kellog, Clyde Brown, Dr. C. T. Yancey and Joe Washburn.

Tunisia Charges French Attack

TUNIS, Tunisia (UPI)—Tunisia charged Saturday night that three French fighter planes carried out a low-level strafing attack against a small Tunisian village along the Algerian border.

An Information Ministry communique said that two Tunisians were killed and eight others injured in the attack Saturday morning. Two other persons were listed as "missing."

Navy's Chief Worries Over Sneak Attack

tack on the United States, Burke said, "it could not possibly catch all the submarines." Burke apparently spoke as though the Navy has Polaris-firing craft in operation.

Burke also told the senators that no matter how many underground shelters the Soviet Union might build, in a general nuclear war from 20 to 40 per cent of their people "would die in an all-out hydrogen bomb attack" in retaliation.

Sen. Humphrey suggested the United States would have a difficult time making a missile attack on the Soviet Union except on "the Pacific Coast, that is Siberia and Vladivostok."

That would depend on the number of submarines we wanted to place and where we wanted to place them," Burke said. "The Arctic Ocean is a very good place because there are holes in the arctic ice, and you can put a submarine into holes, and it launches through them or it can come up next to the coast line, and it is very difficult to detect.

Demo Senators Plan New Drive On Racketeers

Kennedy (D-Mass) already have put in rival measures.

McClellan said in an interview: "My bill will go further than either of the present bills in one respect: The unions will have to comply with certain standards and keep in compliance with them in order to be eligible 1. as bargaining representatives, 2. to file unfair labor practice complaints and 3. for tax exemptions."

Barden announced he was summoning his House committee to a session Tuesday at which he said he would call for prompt consideration of the labor measures.

Barden said in a statement his bill "will deal fully in detail with the skulduggery and misuse of union funds and property by those in the labor movement who are only concerned with personal gain."

A Senate Labor subcommittee headed by Sen. Kennedy already has finished hearings and is expected to start drafting labor legislation next week.

While critical of some aspects of the Kennedy bill, the AFL-CIO supports it generally. The big labor federation is opposed to the administration's proposals, which the AFL-CIO has called complicated, confusing and "patently antilabor."

School On Hilltop Symbol For South

from dozens of states. Norfolk is "home" to thousands of sailors and their families.

Front Royal is the opposite. It is a small town, much like the hundreds that dot other Deep South states. A sharp young business executive summed it up.

"You hardly know your neighbor in those big cities. Here, you know everybody and everybody talks about it," he said.

Most of Front Royal's people, some 3,000 of them, depend on the big American Viscose rayon manufacturing plant for a living. Agriculture still plays an important part in the economy.

Warren County sought a delay in the reopening of the high school, shut down last fall by Gov. J. Lindsay Almond under the state's defunct "massive resistance" laws. The county contends the administrative difficulties alone would be tremendous on such short notice.

Twenty-six of the high school teachers quit and went to work for the foundation which runs the private classes.

When the immediate reopening was ordered, the county agreed to comply and School Supt. Q. D. Gasque said the high school's doors will open Wednesday "regardless of how many children are there"

The white parents have decided to place their faith in the private schools as a last defense. Many other Virginia towns likely will do the same to avoid integration.

The rest of the South will be watching.

Flowers

In case you haven't been noticing the spring flowers are coming out. The Japanese quince is in bloom, and other spring shrubs however we are told that the Yankee Robin is still here, for it is too cold for him to return home. It seems that there is a Robin that migrates from the north and a Robin that remains here the year round. How anyone can tell which is which, is more than we know. A bird, looks like a bird to us.

Featured

Two Northeast State music instructors will be featured today in a concert presented by the Mississippi Southern Band in Hattiesburg. Joe Barry Mullins, associate professor, will conduct the college musicians when they play "Sonata in F, written by Eloy Fominaya, assistant professor.

The performance is part of the Composers Forum which opened yesterday for a two-day program. Mullins also conducted the Mississippi Southern Band Saturday.

Fominaya's composition was premiered last year by the local college band and was played by the University of Texas Symphonic Band in a spring program.

Speculation Begins Over Replacement

"The fluid evacuated at surgery contained free cancer cells on cytological examination.

"No further surgery is contemplated. In the immediate future, radiation therapy will be used."

Eisenhower issued the announcement through aides at Walter Reed after visiting Dulles for 37 minutes.

It was during that visit, he said, that doctors had discussed "the existence of malignancy not fully determined at this time as to its extent but certain to require further treatment."

"I express the thoughts and prayers of all of us that the results of his operation and the further course of treatment will be successful," the President added. "In order to allow time for this purpose, the secretary continues on leave of absence. I will, of course, be in close touch with him constantly."

The medical bulletin said Dulles was in good spirits, with blood pressure at 125 over 70, pulse at 70, and temperature normal since the operation.

State Department press officer White said the radiation treatment would start this week. But he said he did not know how long it would last or what amount of radiation would be used. He said Dulles will be in the hospital for several weeks.

At the State Department, officials pondered the effect of Dulles' illness on such matters as a tentatively scheduled meeting of Allied foreign ministers in mid-March and the 10th anniversary session of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's Ministerial Council April 2-4 in Washington.

Allied planning also had looked toward a possible conference with the Soviet Union this spring, perhaps before May 27, generally considered the Soviet deadline for turning over East Berlin to Communist East Germany.

Eisenhower thus was faced with a decision on whether to postpone such meetings, send a substitute for Dulles, or replace Dulles with a new secretary.

Mrs. Wheaton said Dulles' illness will not interfere with the President's projected trip to Mexico Feb. 19-20 for talks with Mexican President Lopez Mateos.

She added that Eisenhower had no plans to see Undersecretary of State Christian Herter Saturday when Herter returns from a South Carolina vacation.

Herter was designated acting secretary. Until his return, the task went to Undersecretary C. Douglas Dillon, the department's economic affairs expert.

Both men are being mentioned in speculation about a possible successor to Dulles, with Dillon perhaps getting more attention. Herter suffers from arthritis.

Levee Holds As Crest Of Wabash Ebbs

flood crest through the West Terre Haute area.

Residents of West Terra Haute had feared the worst when the driving river tore through the levee shortly after Friday midnight. But 30 minutes after the break was discovered, National Guardsmen and volunteers had plugged the hole.

The situation was further alleviated at West Terre Haute by the cessation of rains, and the arrival of sub - freezing temperatures.

Along the weakened levee in this city of 3,000 near the Illinois border, many residents had fled their homes or were prepared to evacuate at a moment's notice. The reinforced section of the levee collapsed under the weight of floodwaters last June and had not been repaired. The June floods, which inundated about 40 per cent of the town, forced a third of the residents to flee to dry ground.

During its rampage of the past week, the Wabash forced about 2,000 families from their homes, killed at least three persons and caused damage estimated at 45 million dollars.

Meanwhile, two new Indiana counties were hit by flood crises as the Tippecanoe River rose at Winamac and Buffalo. Nearly 50 families in the area were forced to flee their homes.

At Buffalo, about 50 house trailers were inundated, and an ice gorge four miles long piled up at the city bridge. A main bridge on Winamac was closed by high water.

Floods and threats of floods were spawned over many sections of the Midwest as mild temperatures increased the run - off thaw after a severe cold and snowy winter.

In Missouri, special warnings were issued by the U. S. Weather Bureau that most streams in the central sector of the state were rising, reaching about one half to three quarters bankful. Continuing rains, weathermen said, could trigger floods on at least seven rivers and streams in Missouri.

The Sandusky River in northwestern Ohio also was on the rise, and ice jams on the Portage River posed a threat for Pemberville. Between Definance and Florida, Ohio, a 10 - mile stretch of U. S. 24 was closed by high waters.

plosion, or series of explosions.

"It was a blazing inferno, with panic-stricken people jumping everywhere," Patrolman Curtis Keeton, one of the first to reach the scene, said.

Twenty persons were in the apartments and sleeping rooms on the building's second floor when the fire started just before 1 a.m.

Keeton said he and patrolmen Kenneth Craft were two blocks away when they got the first report.

Craft said, "I looked up at the window facing Greenup Avenue and saw a woman standing there with flames behind her. I said, 'please jump.' She shook her head and called out, 'help me honey.' She then stepped backwards and screamed and I heard a muffled explosion, and flames shot out the windows.

"The next thing I knew, I was struck by the body of a man,' he added. The man later was identified as Charles Fraley, who suffered a leg injury.

The officers said people were jumping so fast that it was some 10 minutes before they realized that no firetrucks had arrived. They quickly called the fire station some three blocks away and several units rushed to the scene.

At Reno, Nev., three persons apparently suffocated when fire destroyed the second and third floors of a downtown hotel. Three others were injured, one critically and two seriously.

Cause of the blaze was not known, but fire officials said the flames must have climbed an open stairwell "in no time at all." The fire department learned of the blaze from a hotel guest who said the fire began in a bathroom. The caller did not identify himself.

At Montreal, Canada, a fire raged out of control for more than an hour through the top floor of a three-story apartment building, killing at least two persons. Sixteen others were injured, and more than 100 other residents were forced to flee to safety in sub-freezing weather.

At Eureka, Calif., 2-year-old Glenn Mello was fatally burned when his parents' home was destroyed by fire.

Two elderly men also perished in a blaze that swept a rooming house at Purcell, Okla. Authorities said the fire, confined to several rooms at the rear of the two-story structure, might have been caused by someone smoking in bed.

Another fire in Canada, at Kingston, Ont., injured 20 persons, three of them seriosly. Authorities said the blaze was touched off when two brawling teen-agers knocked over an oil stove at a rock 'n roll dance. More than 150 screaming youngsters were thrown into a panic by the fire, and several tenn-agers were injured in a stampede to the exits.

Four-State Storm Alert Is Withdrawn

ern California from Oregon. Storm warnings were hoisted along the northern and central California coast.

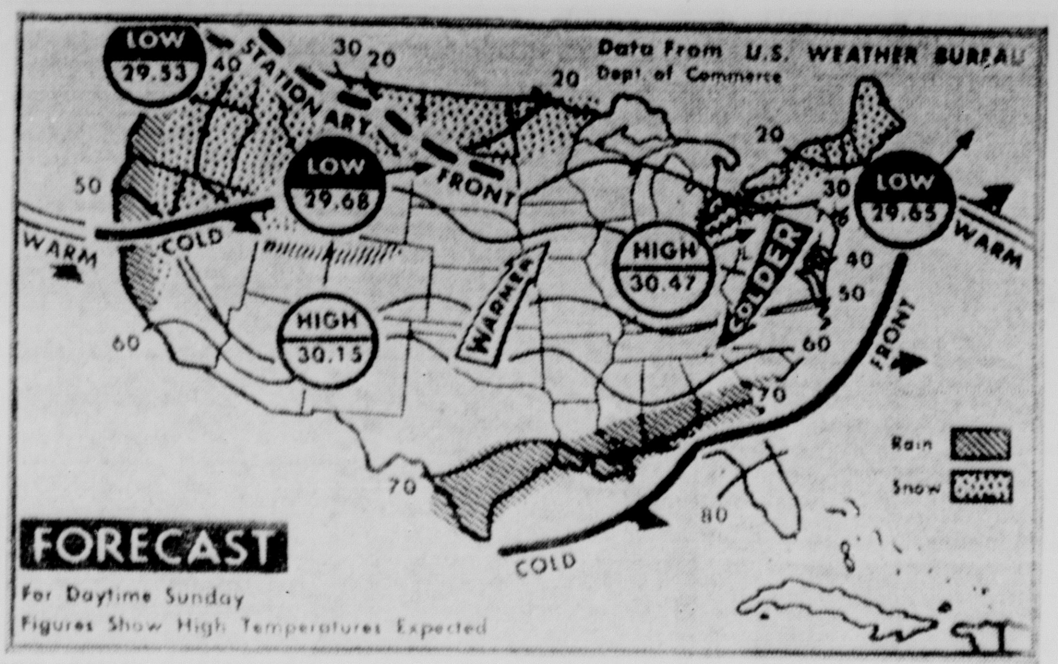
The rains, which measured two to three inches over Oregon, were mixed with snow as they moved inland. At Mount Shasta, Calif., about 14 inches of snow piled up since Friday, and travelers were warned of additional heavy snows by Sunday.

FLOODS

Mild temperatures over the Midwest, meanwhile, spawned floods and threat of floodwaters in many states. The maverick Wabash, on a week - long rampage across Indiana, pounded toward its crest at West Terre Haute, Ind., where flood-fighters plugged a levee break with sandbags. The fate of West Terre Haute hung on a sandbagged stretch of the levee, which collapsed last June and was not repaired.

Over the northern Great Lakes region, cooler air brought up snow, rain and freezing rain from the Dakotas through the upper Mississippi Valley into Wisconsin and Michigan. Highways were snow - packed and glazed with ice, resulting in hazardous driving for motorists.

The southern wind storm hit Shreveport, La., and Overton, Tex., just before dawn Saturday. At the same time, heavy rains over East Texas posed a possible flood threat on the Sabine River as far south as Mineola, and on Lake Fork Creek, a Sabine tributary.



WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are forecast Sunday for Gulf Coast and southern Atlantic states. Snow flurries are expected in eastern Lakes, northern Appalachians and northern New England. It will snow also in northern Mississippi Valley, northern plains and Rockies and higher places of northern plateau. Rain is slated for Pacific Coast area from central California northward changing to snow in higher coastal ranges. It will be colder from Texas eastward and northward to Atlantic states. It will be warmer for southern Rockies and central plains. (AP Wirephoto Map) from dozens of states. Norfolk is "home" to thousands of sailors and their families.

School On Hilltop Symbol For South

Front Royal is the opposite. It is a small town, much like the hundreds that dot other Deep South states. A sharp young business executive summed it up.

"You hardly know your neighbor in those big cities. Here, you know everybody and everybody talks about it," he said.

Most of Front Royal's people, some 3,000 of them, depend on the big American Viscose rayon manufacturing plant for a living. Agriculture still plays an important part in the economy.

Warren County sought a delay in the reopening of the high school, shut down last fall by Gov. J. Lindsay Almond under the state's defunct "massive resistance" laws. The county contends the administrative difficulties alone would be tremendous on such short notice.

Twenty-six of the high school teachers quit and went to work for the foundation which runs the private classes.

When the immediate reopening was ordered, the county agreed to comply and School Supt. Q. D. Gasque said the high school's doors will open Wednesday "regardless of how many children are there"

The white parents have decided to place their faith in the private schools as a last defense. Many other Virginia towns likely will do the same to avoid integration.

The rest of the South will be watching.

JES' Ramblin'

Assemble today in the West Monroe Masonic Temple at 2 p.m. Announcement was made by James H. Humphrey, secretary of the West Monroe chapter. It is expected that 100 people will attend, or at least 10 or 15 chapters.

Nominated

Page Faulk, grandson of Mrs. Clarence E. Faulk Sr. of West Monroe and son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Faulk Jr. of Ruston, La., is one of the Nominees from the University of the South in Swanee, Tennessee to be in Who's Who in Colleges and Universities. This is quite an honor and we do congratulate this young man!

Session

The Visiting Teachers of the 5th District are looking forward to their regular meeting, Tuesday, Feb. 17, which will be at Northeast College. The speaker of the day is Dwight D. Vines, a faculty member who will talk on the Tax Structure of the State of Louisiana. The group is also looking forward with pleasure to being luncheon guests of President and Mrs. George T. Walker.

Youth Code

Lawrence Higgins from Baton Rouge, will be the guest speaker at the Sherrouse P. T. A., February 19, at 7:30 when he will talk on Parent and Youth Code of Social Conduct.

Flowers

In case you haven't been noticing the spring flowers are coming out. The Japanese quince is in bloom, and other spring shrubs however we are told that the Yankee Robin is still here, for it is too cold for him to return home. It seems that there is a Robin that migrates from the north and a Robin that remains here the year round. How anyone can tell which is which, is more than we know. A bird, looks like a bird to us.

Featured

Two Northeast State music instructors will be featured today in a concert presented by the Mississippi Southern Band in Hattiesburg. Joe Barry Mullins, associate professor, will conduct the college musicians when they play "Sonata in F, written by Eloy Fominaya, assistant professor.

The performance is part of the Composers Forum which opened yesterday for a two-day program. Mullins also conducted the Mississippi Southern Band Saturday.

Fominaya's composition was premiered last year by the local college band and was played by the University of Texas Symphonic Band in a spring program.

Speculation Begins Over Replacement

the hernia sac was removed with the excess sac during the course of the operative procedure.

"The fluid evacuated at surgery contained free cancer cells on cytological examination.

"No further surgery is contemplated. In the immediate future, radiation therapy will be used."

It was during that visit, he said, that doctors had discussed "the existence of malignancy not fully determined at this time as to its extent but certain to require further treatment."

"I express the thoughts and prayers of all of us that the results of his operation and the further course of treatment will be successful," the President added. "In order to allow time for this purpose, the secretary continues on leave of absence. I will, of course, be in close touch with him constantly."

The medical bulletin said Dulles was in good spirits, with blood pressure at 125 over 70, pulse at 70, and temperature normal since the operation.

State Department press officer White said the radiation treatment would start this week. But he said he did not know how long it would last or what amount of radiation would be used. He said Dulles will be in the hospital for several weeks.

At the State Department, officials pondered the effect of Dulles' illness on such matters as a tentatively scheduled meeting of Allied foreign ministers in mid-March and the 10th anniversary session of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's Ministerial Council April 2-4 in Washington.

Allied planning also had looked toward a possible conference with the Soviet Union this spring, perhaps before May 27, generally considered the Soviet deadline for turning over East Berlin to Communist East Germany.

Eisenhower thus was faced with a decision on whether to postpone such meetings, send a substitute for Dulles, or replace Dulles with a new secretary.

Mrs. Wheaton said Dulles' illness will not interfere with the President's projected trip to Mexico Feb. 19-20 for talks with Mexican President Lopez Mateos.

She added that Eisenhower had no plans to see Undersecretary of State Christian Herter Saturday when Herter returns from a South Carolina vacation.

Herter was designated acting secretary. Until his return, the task went to Undersecretary C. Douglas Dillon, the department's economic affairs expert.

Both men are being mentioned in speculation about a possible successor to Dulles, with Dillon perhaps getting more attention. Herter suffers from arthritis.

flood crest through the West Terre Haute area.

Residents of West Terra Haute had feared the worst when the driving river tore through the levee shortly after Friday midnight. But 30 minutes after the break was discovered, National Guardsmen and volunteers had plugged the hole.

The situation was further alleviated at West Terre Haute by the cessation of rains, and the arrival of sub - freezing temperatures.

Along the weakened levee in this city of 3,000 near the Illinois border, many residents had fled their homes or were prepared to evacuate at a moment's notice. The reinforced section of the levee collapsed under the weight of floodwaters last June and had not been repaired. The June floods, which inundated about 40 per cent of the town, forced a third of the residents to flee to dry ground.

During its rampage of the past week, the Wabash forced about 2,000 families from their homes, killed at least three persons and caused damage estimated at 45 million dollars.

Meanwhile, two new Indiana counties were hit by flood crises as the Tippecanoe River rose at Winamac and Buffalo. Nearly 50 families in the area were forced to flee their homes.

At Buffalo, about 50 house trailers were inundated, and an ice gorge four miles long piled up at the city bridge. A main bridge on Winamac was closed by high water.

Floods and threats of floods were spawned over many sections of the Midwest as mild temperatures increased the run - off thaw after a severe cold and snowy winter.

In Missouri, special warnings were issued by the U. S. Weather Bureau that most streams in the central sector of the state were rising, reaching about one half to three quarters bankful. Continuing rains, weathermen said, could trigger floods on at least seven rivers and streams in Missouri.

The Sandusky River in northwestern Ohio also was on the rise, and ice jams on the Portage River posed a threat for Pemberville. Between Definance and Florida, Ohio, a 10 - mile stretch of U. S. 24 was closed by high waters.

plosion, or series of explosions.

"It was a blazing inferno, with panic-stricken people jumping everywhere," Patrolman Curtis Keeton, one of the first to reach the scene, said.

Twenty persons were in the apartments and sleeping rooms on the building's second floor when the fire started just before 1 a.m.

Keeton said he and patrolmen Kenneth Craft were two blocks away when they got the first report.

Craft said, "I looked up at the window facing Greenup Avenue and saw a woman standing there with flames behind her. I said, 'please jump.' She shook her head and called out, 'help me honey.' She then stepped backwards and screamed and I heard a muffled explosion, and flames shot out the windows.

"The next thing I knew, I was struck by the body of a man,' he added. The man later was identified as Charles Fraley, who suffered a leg injury.

The officers said people were jumping so fast that it was some 10 minutes before they realized that no firetrucks had arrived. They quickly called the fire station some three blocks away and several units rushed to the scene.

At Reno, Nev., three persons apparently suffocated when fire destroyed the second and third floors of a downtown hotel. Three others were injured, one critically and two seriously.

Cause of the blaze was not known, but fire officials said the flames must have climbed an open stairwell "in no time at all." The fire department learned of the blaze from a hotel guest who said the fire began in a bathroom. The caller did not identify himself.

At Montreal, Canada, a fire raged out of control for more than an hour through the top floor of a three-story apartment building, killing at least two persons. Sixteen others were injured, and more than 100 other residents were forced to flee to safety in sub-freezing weather.

At Eureka, Calif., 2-year-old Glenn Mello was fatally burned when his parents' home was destroyed by fire.

Two elderly men also perished in a blaze that swept a rooming house at Purcell, Okla. Authorities said the fire, confined to several rooms at the rear of the two-story structure, might have been caused by someone smoking in bed.

Another fire in Canada, at Kingston, Ont., injured 20 persons, three of them seriously. Authorities said the blaze was touched off when two brawling teen-agers knocked over an oil stove at a 'rock 'n roll dance.' More than 150 screaming youngsters were thrown into a panic by the fire, and several teen-agers were injured in a stampede to the exits.

Rev. Hayward Dies; Service Is Scheduled

ward's name is being maintained at Grace Church.

Active in civic work, Fr. Hayward had served as president of the Civic Music, Rotary Club of Monroe, Little Theatre, and on the boards of the Juvenile Association for 15 years, Crippled Children organization, Community Chest Board and was Grand Prelate of the Grand Commandery.

During his tenure of office in Monroe, the membership of the Episcopal Church grew from 200 to 600. The present church of Gothic structure was erected on the corner of North Fourth and Glenmar streets, and foundations were laid for the organization of the three current missions in the Twin Cities, St. Thomas in the College area, St. Albans on Morris and Jackson street, and St. Patrick's in West Monroe.

Two years after his arrival in Monroe, the Grace Church building on the present site of the Wright-Bendel Clinic, St. John and Oak streets, burned, and preparations were begun immediately for the present building. On Easter Sunday of 1926, the first services in the present church were held. Under his guidance, the church grew continually until when he retired in 1949, the membership had tripled.

EDUCATION

Born in Philadelphia April 10, 1882, Fr. Hayward received his education at Brown Preparatory School and Temple University and graduated from the Philadelphia Divinity School in June of 1906. Immediately upon graduation, he went to Camden, N. J., where he served for six years. From there, he went to Christ Church in Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin from 1912 to 1917. The next two years he served St. Andrews Church, Enid, Oklahoma, then at St. Andrew's Church, Houston, Texas, from 1919 to 1921 when he accepted a call to Grace Church Monroe.

The Rev. and Mrs. Hayward, the former Henrietta H. Alexander, were married on September 9, 1908 in Camden, New Jersey. Last September, the fiftieth Anniversary of their wedding, the couple celebrated their golden Anniversary with special services at the church and a coffee hour in the church parish house. In honor of the occasion, a stained glass window was installed in Grace Church.

Also as a memorial to the minister, the church maintains a library dedicated in his honor in October of 1953.

Fr. Hayward is survived by his widow; five children, Edward F. Hayward, Jr., Monroe; James E. Hayward, Memphis, Tenn., Mrs. Floyd Stone Jr., Monroe; Mrs. Bernard Webb, Gainesville, Fla.; and Mrs. Frank Morgan, Miami, Fla.; one sister, Mrs. A. W. White of Houston, Tex.; a niece Mrs. Claude Blanchard, also of Houston, and 18 grandchildren.

Serving as pallbearers will be Frank Maxwell, John Eby, George Holt, Francis Steele Walter Kellog, Clyde Brown, Dr. C. T. Yancey and Joe Washburn.

tack on the United States, Burke said, "it could not possibly catch all the submarines." Burke apparently spoke as though the Navy has Polaris-firing craft in operation.

Burke also told the senators that no matter how many underground shelters the Soviet Union might build, in a general nuclear war from 20 to 40 per cent of their people "would die in an all-out hydrogen bomb attack" in retaliation.

Sen. Humphrey suggested the United States would have a difficult time making a missile attack on the Soviet Union except on "the Pacific Coast, that is Siberia and Vladivostok."

That would depend on the number of submarines we wanted to place and where we wanted to place them," Burke said. "The Arctic Ocean is a very good place because there are holes in the arctic ice, and you can put a submarine into holes, and it launches through them or it can come up next to the coast line, and it is very difficult to detect.

Kennedy (D-Mass) already have put in rival measures.

McClellan said in an interview:

"My bill will go further than either of the present bills in one respect: The unions will have to comply with certain standards and keep in compliance with them in order to be eligible 1. as bargaining representatives, 2. to file unfair labor practice complaints and 3. for tax exemptions."

Barden announced he was summoning his House committee to a session Tuesday at which he said he would call for prompt consideration of the labor measures.

Barden said in a statement his bill "will deal fully in detail with the skulduggery and misuse of union funds and property by those in the labor movement who are only concerned with personal gain."

A Senate Labor subcommittee headed by Sen. Kennedy already has finished hearings and is expected to start drafting labor legislation next week.

While critical of some aspects of the Kennedy bill, the AFL-CIO supports it generally. The big labor federation is opposed to the administration's proposals, which the AFL-CIO has called complicated, confusing and "patently antilabor."

Tunisia Charges French Attack

TUNIS, Tunisia (UPI)—Tunisia charged Saturday night that three French fighter planes carried out a low-level strafing attack against a small Tunisian village along the Algerian border.

An Information Ministry communique said that two Tunisians were killed and eight others injured in the attack Saturday morning. Two other persons were listed as "missing."

'FOR GOOD OF CUBA'

Castro Accepts Role Of Premier

HAVANA (UPI) — Fidel Castro said Saturday he regretted he had to take over as premier of Cuba but the welfare of the country demanded it. Outgoing Premier Jose Miro Cardona agreed.

The two men appeared at a news conference together and gave no indication of any friction between them.

The 32-year-old Castro was named to replace Miro Cardona Friday night. Saturday it was announced he would take leave from his post as commander of the armed forces. Informed sources said his younger brother, Raul, now second in command, would move to the top military spot.

Castro said it was personally "distressing" for him to have to accept premiership but that it was "necessary for the revolution."

Miro Cardona said the job was tailored for Castro, leader of the revolution which ousted Dictator Fulgencio Batista:

"At last, for the good of Cuba, the vexatious duality of powers has ended," Miro Carona said.

He was referring to the fact that while he was premier, Castro was shaping the policies of the country.

Informed sources in the revolutionary army said the death sentence imposed on Col. Jesus Sosa Blanco after a spectacular war crimes trial in the Havana sports arena would be annulled Monday and a new trial would start that night.

Sosa Blanco has been referred to as the "No. 1 war criminal" of the Batista regime. His trial was criticized because of the public clamor attending it.

In other war crimes trials developments, three persons were executed in Manzanillo in Oriente Province, three others were condemned to death and three were sentenced to terms ranging from 10 to 43 years in prison.

In an unusual action, two accused men were absolved of murder charges in revolutionary trials in Havana's Cabana Fortress.

The prosecutor had demanded death for them and a third man but only the third was found guilty.

House To Get Reforms Bill For Unions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Graham A. Barden of the House Labor Committee disclosed Saturday he would introduce his own anti-racketeering labor union reform program in the House next week.

Barden, who previously had predicted House approval of a strong anti-rackets bill this year, said he would sponsor a "complete" two part package to provide "a labor reform program for which no one need apologize."

Two House labor subcommittees are expected to launch joint hearings by March 1 on Barden's bills as well as those sponsored by the Eisenhower administration and others.

Barden, North Carolina Deocrat, said his program consisted of two phases—a "labor bill of rights act" and "needed amendments" to the Taft-Hartley labor-management act. He did not spell these amendments.

He said in the statement that his first bill would deal with internal workings of unions "and would return to the rank and file trade union member control over our great trade union movement." He said this bill would seek to eliminate the "skullduggery and misuse of union funds and property by those in the labor movement who are only concerned with personal gain."

The measure would list the rights of union members and provide a "meaningful" procedure for protecting them, he said. He said it also would establish financial responsibility for those entrusted with union property and deal "adequately" with trusteeship problems.

Barden described his program as one to "cure the disease and not treat the symptoms." He said he would reveal exact provisions later.

Whooping Crane Preparing For New Offspring

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Josephine, the only living whooping crane ever to produce offspring in captivity, laid another egg Saturday — her first this year but sixth since 1957.

George Douglass, superintendof the Audubon Zoo, said if Jo follows her usual pattern she will lay the second of her clutch Monday or Tuesday.

Douglass said he may place the egg laid Saturday in an incubator in an attempt to get Jo to lay a batch of two next week.

Jo and the male, Crip, produced four eggs last year and two the previous year.

The two from 1957 hatched and are growing well. One of the four she laid last year alto hatched and the chick is developing, but the other three apparently were not fertile.

The five whoopers in the New Orleans zoo are the only ones in captivity.

Widow Of Late State Governor Dies At Franklin

FRANKLIN, La. (AP) — Mrs. Rose Routh Ker Foster, 97, widow of former Gov. Murphy J. Foster, died Saturday at her home on Dixie Plantation at Franklin.

Her husband served as governor for two terms from 1892 to 1900. Foster later served in the U.S. Senate and became collector of customs, dying while still collector in 1921.

Mrs. Foster had been ill from a stroke suffered more than two years ago. Funeral services will be held at the family home Sunday in Franklin cemetery.

Mrs. Foster was a native of North Louisiana, the daughter of attorney John Ker of Natchez and Mrs. Rose Routh Ker.

She was married at 18 and is survived by seven daughters and a son.

HAVANA (UPI) — Fidel Castro said Saturday he regretted he had to take over as premier of Cuba but the welfare of the country demanded it. Outgoing Premier Jose Miro Cardona agreed.

The two men appeared at a news conference together and gave no indication of any friction between them.

The 32-year-old Castro was named to replace Miro Cardona Friday night. Saturday it was announced he would take leave from his post as commander of the armed forces. Informed sources said his younger brother, Raul, now second in command, would move to the top military spot.

Castro said it was personally "distressing" for him to have to accept premiership but that it was "necessary for the revolution."

Miro Cardona said the job was tailored for Castro, leader of the revolution which ousted Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

"At last, for the good of Cuba, the vexatious duality of powers has ended," Miro Carona said.

He was referring to the fact that while he was premier, Castro was shaping the policies of the country.

Informed sources in the revolutionary army said the death sentence imposed on Col. Jesus Sosa Blanco after a spectacular war crimes trial in the Havana sports arena would be annulled Monday and a new trial would start that night.

Sosa Blanco has been referred to as the "No. 1 war criminal" of the Batista regime. His trial was criticized because of the public clamor attending it.

In other war crimes trials developments, three persons were executed in Manzanillo in Oriente Province, three others were condemned to death and three were sentenced to terms ranging from 10 to 43 years in prison.

In an unusual action, two accused men were absolved of murder charges in revolutionary trials in Havana's Cabana Fortress.

The prosecutor had demanded death for them and a third man but only the third was found guilty.

Japan Shifts Repatriation To Red Cross

TOKYO (UPI) — The Japanese government, in an obvious move to avert an armed clash with South Korea, Saturday called on the International Red Cross to handle the planned repatriation of Korean residents to Communist North Korea.

The government requested IRC aid through the Japanese Red Cross. It asked the IRC to supply the ships for the repatriation and made it clear Japanese ships would not be used.

The United States was so concerned over the possibility of armed conflict between two of its Far East allies that Ambassador to Korea Walter C. Dowling, now on vacation in Europe, was reported ordered to return at once to his post in Seoul.

The South Korean government of President Syngman Rhee urged the IRC to refuse assistance to the Japanese to carry out what it called the "deportation" of the Koreans.

Republic of Korea government spokesman Chung Sung Chun also called on the United Nations to "take timely measures and punitive actions" to stop the repatriation.

Rhee's government broke off negotiations with Japan aimed at establishing normal diplomatic relations between the two old enemies. This action came immediately after the Japanese cabinet Friday endorsed the repatriation plan.

The Seoul government ordered Ben C. Limb, its ambassador to the United Nations, to leave Monday for New York to seek support from U. N. members against the repatriation.

Japanese Foreign Minister Aiichiro Fujiyama went ahead with the plan, however, asking the IRC to first deterine which Koreans living in Japan wish to go to North Korea.

Of the 600,000 Koreans now in Japan it is not known exactly how many wish repatriation but estimates range from 1,000 to 170,000.

The note to the Red Cross made it clear Japan would not furnish vessels for the repatriation. It was also understood the government opposed use of North Korean ships for fear they would be intercepted by ROK forces.

The international committee of the Red Cross said in Geneva it was ready to aid in any humanitarian action such as the repatriation, providing it is "completely voluntary."

It was assumed that if the Red Cross does agree to take over the machinery of repatriation from Japan.

Gayest get-ups seen hereabouts in months were out at the Bayou DeSiard country club Mardi Gras ball last Saturday night. With awide-open theme like "Mardi Gras", masquers could do no wrong, as every conceivable type of costume is seen out on that day.

Winning the prize for the best costumed group were the "Bar-Flies". This group was composed of those on the commitee which decorated the club bar, and they looked like flies — black leotards, black faces, black stocking caps complete with antenna. Green gauze was used for the wings. In the group were the IVY JORDANS, the AMOS SMELSERS, the JOHN EBYS, HELEN CAMPBELL, EVELYN AMMAN, the J. L. ADAMS, the "DOC" MILAMS, and the CHARLES LEDOUX.

Judges were hard pushed to reach a decision, and so awarded an Honorable Mention another group, all in Chinese attire. The sixteen "Chinese" brought their own dragon — a forbidding looking papier mache figure with long teeth and glowing red eyes. 'Twas a particularly seasonal idea, that evening being the Chinese New Year's Eve. This group was made up of the MILES SAGERS, the JACK EASTERLINGS, the EDMUND BROWNS, the JIM EWINGS, the THEO TERZIAS, the JERRY RYANS, the C. D. OAKLEYS, JR., and the ARMAND M'HENRYS JR.

And still another outstanding group were the playing cards. Leading the way was BELLE OAKLEY as the Jack of Spades. She rolled a bicycle labeled "Full House" . . . HARRY OLIVER and ENOLA ROGERS were the King and Queen of Hearts . . . The CLYDE BROWNS, the King and Queen of Spades . . . King of Diamonds was CLARENCE OAKLEY, with FLORA POTTS as the Queen . . . BLANCHE OLIVER and BESSIE BIEDENHARN were King and Queen of Clubs . . . Utilizing some old draperies, white painted masks, yarn hair and cardboard crowns, these masquers achieved an amazing resemblance to the figures on the cards.

Best couple was judged to be FRED MARX as a brilliant absent - minded scientist with his suitcase labeled "Cape Cannibal or Bust", and wife LIL as the Atlas Rocket . . . An honorable mention was awarded to MARY ANN and BISH JOHNSON, who were a pair of Far Eastern snake charmers.

GLORIA ROBERTSON was awarded the lady's costume prize for her three - sided mask representing the Three Faces of Eve . . . Best man was LANDRY DUCOTE, who was a ballerina in black leotard, tutu, and rhinestone tiara . . . The GILBERT FAULKS were in Scotch tartans . . . SOPHIE LAUDENHEINER wore an ante - bellum dress of rose lace and pleated chiffon . . . The ANDY ANDREWS were Indians . . . CHRIS COLLINS was a ballerina in a yellow wig.

Mardi Gras always needs clowns, and we saw the DUKE SHACKELFORDS down from Jones in their clown attire . . . A perfect disguise was the clown make-up on the FRED MILLSAPS and the BUB CALLOWAYS . . . The BURCHALL LILES were clowns — four of them. The fifth Liles, Arthur, was one of the pages in the court.

ERNEST MARCHMAN really LOOKS like Matt Dillon. MILDRED was Miss Kitty in a big-plumed hat . . . McVEA OLIVER was a real courtier in silk tights, lace - cuffed coat, and plumed hat . . . The EC WHEELERS were a pair of Dalmatian dogs . . . The street vendors were LOUIS MASUR, selling pralines, and ESTHER, peanuts . . . TOM SIMONTON and KING STUBBS were in red plaid pleated skirts, very short; and their dates, CONNIE WHEELER and LANDREA DUCOTE, wore red plaid little boy shorts . . . CAROLYN SAVAGE was fresh from Tahiti in her grass skirt, while husband JOHN wore an Island print shirt with several leis . . . Yellow wigs and wooden shoes changed the ALLEN TURPINS into a Dutch couple.

A number of out - of - towners were in for the Mardi Gras ball, including MISS KATIE CLARK of Mer Rouge; JANE and ALLEN BARHAM, and the JOE MICHAUDS of Bastrop; the BENTON WAKEFIELDS, SR., and the JOHN BARR FOSTERS of Jackson, Mississippi; the LESLIE RICHARDSONS of Rayville; LIZ and RUSSELL CUMMINGS, the JIM SHERMANS, and the KEN MINARDS of Columbia; LAMAR LOE from Tallulah; and WILL PECK from Sicily Island . . . MRS. JOE KELLEY of Oak Grove was here to see her daughter BETTY in the queen's court. Betty's father is in South America on a hunting trip.

A goodly number of the college set were in town for the Mardi Gras ball. Coming from Mississippi State College for Women were LINDA EBY, who was in the court, and MALISE MAPP. Their guests for the weekend were CAROL BURKHALTER of Hammond, Indiana; SARALEA DEATON of Grenada, Mississippi, and DRETA M'KEE of Memphis, Tennessee. A number of small parties were planned for these visitors . . . On Friday night, the JOHN EBYS had a buffet supper for eight girls. Red candles in a long nine - branched candelabra decorated the table. The meal featured turkey, stuffed tomatoes and assorted relishes, and ended with German chocolate cake.

Saturday afternoon SUE GROWER was hostess at a conversational hour from four-thirty until five-thirty, honoring the three visitors. She entertained at the home of MRS. R. S. MONTCALM on Erin. Red flowers and red birds used with greenery carried out a Valentine theme in the decorations. Red camellias and philodendron centered the dining table. The large heart - shaped cake was iced with white and outlined with cherries. Red and white sandwiches and soft drinks were also served. Fifteen girls attended the party.

Preceding the ball Saturday night, fourteen of the college young people met for dinner with the MARCUS MAPPS. The guests were seated at two tables which were covered with red cloths and centered with red and white Valentine arrangement. Red carnations were used with holly, and scattered through the flowers were paper lace hearts and tiny birds and bees. The menu included barbecued chicken; cauliflower, shrimp, and almond casserole; stuffed avocado; and strawberry shortcake.

Sunday morning Elise Mapp drove the girls to Greenville, where they were honored at a luncheon hosted by MRS. RAY TALLEY at her home. They returned to MSCW late Sunday afternoon.

DR. and MRS. EDGAR HULL of New Orleans were guests of the FELIX WILLEYS on Thursday and Friday. Dr. Hull, who has just returned from a year's stay on Formosa as a visiting professor of medicine, was speaker at the Ouachita Parish Medical Society dinner meeting . . . Mrs. Hull was honored with a "progressive luncheon" Thursday at noon. Fourteen ladies gathered at the home of CHE CHE LILES for the first course, then proceeded to the Rendezvous where Velma Willey was hostess for the entree. Dessert and coffee were the treat of JUDY TURPIN, at her home.

Guests last week end in the JOE DIXON home were Teedee's brother, DR. TOM KRAMER and DR. JERRY PATTON from New Orleans. On Friday night the Dixons had a few old friends over for a visit with these visitors. Also named guests of honor were POOKIE and M. J. M'NULTY, JR., of Franklin, who were in town in connection with the Jaycee meeting. The M'Nultys are Teedee's cousins.

Claiming a great deal of attention today is the wedding in Ruston of ROSEMARY ROACH and JOHN HUNT. Many Monroyans plan to motor over this afternoon for the reception, and a number of parties have honored Rosemary here this week.

On Wednesday the HAROLD WOODS, SR., and the HAROLD WOODS, JR., invited friends for an evening at the Woods' camp, honoring Rosemary and John. The Valentine was carried out all through the house. On either side of the entrance were brass jardinieres filled with magnolia branches tied with red satin bows. Lovebirds were placed in the greenery . . . Quince and Purple Dawn camellias were used with vigil lights on the living room mantel. Hanging from the ceiling was a figure of Cupid, tied with red satin and holding red roses. A red cloth covered the corner table, where long stemmed C. M. Hovey camellias were used in a mass arrangement.

A pyramid of red camellias centered the red - covered dining table. Camellias ringed the large flat baskets which held popcorn on the buffet. Brass baskets tied with red satin were used to pass the hot cheese biscuits and other goodies.

Over a hundred guests called between the hours of eight and ten, including a number from out of town. Among these were DR. and MRS. R. U. PARROTT and MR. and MRS. LEDOUX PROUSTY of Alexandria; MR. and MRS. JOHN MORRIS of Rayville; MISS EULAINE ELLIS of New York City (houseguest of the Woods, and one of Rosemary's bridesmaids); DR. and MRS. FELTON GREEN, MR. and MRS. A. B. HARRIS, SR., MR. and MRS. GEORGE NICOL, MR. AND MRS. JAMES CLINTON, and MR. and MRS. A. B. HARRIS, JR., MR. and MRS. GLYNN LASKEY, MR. and MRS. JACK RICHIE, all of Ruston; and MR. and MRS. R. O. GOULD of Long Beach, California. Mrs. Gould is the groom's sister.

To close our little series of Valentine poems, here is a bittersweet little thing that has rather a "morning after" ring, admirably suited to the day after Valentine's. 'Tis by Edna St. Vincent Millay:

Pity me not because the light of day
At close of day no longer walks the sky;
Pity me not for beauties passed away
From field and thicket as the year goes by;
Pity me not the waning of the moon,
Nor that the ebbing tide goes out to sea,
Nor that a man's desire is hushed so soon,
And you no longer look with love on me.
This have I known always: love is no more
Than the wide blossom which the wind assails;
Than the great tide that treads the shifting shore,
Strewing fresh wreckage gathered in the gales.
Pity me that the heart is slow to learn

Coffee Honors Miss Lolley, Rev. Andrews

Mrs. Jesse Lolley was hostess in her home to a coffee hour in honor of Miss Fannie Lolley and the Rev. D. F. Andrews who are to be wed this afternoon in the West Monroe Methodist Church.

Pink roses in crystal containers were noted at vantage points in the living room. The service table was laid with an Italian cutwork cloth and held as a central decor, a large arrangement of pink carnations and silvered foliage flanked by pink burning tapers.

Alternating at the silver service placed at one end of the table were Mrs. J. C. Lolley and Mrs. R. T. Lolley.

Miss Lolley was radiant in a mauve dress accented by a corsage of pink carnations, a gift of the hostess. The hostess was pretty in a navy model trimmed in white.

Twenty - five guests called between the appointed hours of seven to nine o'clock in the evening.

Outstanding event on the Twin City social calendar is the annual Mardi Gras ball at the Bayou DeSiard country club. The 1959 ball was held at the club last Saturday evening, carrying out a theme of "Mardi Gras."

In the foyer, large figures of jesters were attached to the walls, and dozens of balloons in the Mardi Gras colors of purple, gold and green hung from the ceiling. Cutouts of masks and dominoes were used against a purple background in the teen age room. Serpentine and balloons were suspended from each light throughout the club.

The dining room represented a street scene in New Orleans, with a lamp - post designating the spot as the corner of Bourbon and Conti streets. Glimpses into the houses and courtyards were seen through the painted windows and wrought iron gates. In the lounge and on the porch, three dimensional champagne glasses were attached to walls and windows, along with more gold, green and purple balloons.

The main ballroom was a Mardi Gras parade, with large cutouts of floats on three walls. Dozens of paper flowers covered each float and large flambeaux were attached to the wall between them. On the fourth wall was the three - step royal dais, covered with gold lame. The double throne was of gilded wood and purple velvet. The canopy over the throne was in the shape of a golden crown with large red and purple "stones", and hangings of purple velvet.

Joe Powell acted as master of ceremonies and announced the entrance of the ribbon bearers at 9:30 p.m. These young ladies were Misses Margaret Moore, Jeannie Clark of Mer Rouge, Jodie Biedenharn, Connie Cudd, Louise Amman, Laura Allen, Maureen Kelly, Helen Touchstone, Doll Burgoyne, Gretchen Masur, Betty Calvert of Rayville, Shirley Dean, Dottie Amman, Mignon Scogin, Sally Barham of Bastrop, Minta Goyne, Anne Hemphill, Linda Crow and Linda Collet.

After the ribbon bearers had taken their positions, King W. J. Riley, Jr., entered to the strains of the Coronation Waltz. Holding the king's purple velvet mantle were his pages, Edmund and Mac Brown, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund G. Brown.

The maids of the court entered next, escorted by the dukes who presented them to the king. All of the maids wore bouffant white ball gowns and carried nosegays of the carnival colors: yellow roses with heather, encircled with purple and gold maline. First to ' r was Miss Sally Ryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kusin. A freshman at the University of Alabama, Miss Ryan was escorted by Duke G. L. Morgan.

Duke Lee Vanderpool presented Miss Linda Eby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Eby, and a freshman at Mississippi State College for Women. Miss Mary Lynn Scogin entered with Duke King Stubbs. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Scogin and a freshman at Northeast State College.

Miss Anne McDonald, a freshman at Sophie Newcomb College, was escorted by Duke Brewer Godfrey. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McDonald. Miss Margaret Minard, a sophomore at Sophie Newcomb College, was presented by Duke Jack Rogers. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Minard of Columbia.

Duke Clay Wilson entered with Miss Carolyn Cummings, a freshman at L. S. U. and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Cummings. Miss Susan Wilson, a freshman at Louisiana Tech, was escorted by Duke Fred Fudickar, Jr. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wilson.

Miss Joyce Turpin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Turpin, was presented by Duke John Sherrouse, Jr. She is a freshman at Stephens College. Duke Foster Wallace escorted Miss Louise Ormond Gray. She is a freshman at L. S. U. and the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Gray, Jr. Miss Betty Kelley entered with Duke Fred Petty. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe T. Kelley of Oak Grove Miss Kelley is a sophomore at Sophie Newcomb College.

After the presentation of the maids, the crown and sceptre bearers entered and took their places beside the king. These were Mike Sager, son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Sager, Jr., and Bill Husted, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Husted, Jr.

A fanfare announced the entrance of the queen, Miss Jacquelyn Masur, who was escorted by E. J. Seymour, Sr., king of the 1958 Mardi Gras ball. The queen wore a ball gown of white peau de soie embroidered with seed pearls and iridescent sequins and a purple velvet mantle embossed with silver lame fleur de lis. Her pages were Douglas Cookston, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Cookston, Jr., and Arthur Liles, son of Dr. and Mrs. Burchall Liles. A freshman at Southern Methodist University, Miss Masur is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Masur.

The king greeted the queen, crowned her, and gave her her sceptre. After the traditional champagne toast, the king and queen and the court danced a waltz. The maskers' parade before the monarchs followed the dance. The court made its exit after the maskers' parade, but dancing continued for several hundred club members present.

Outstanding event on the Twin City social calendar is the annual Mardi Gras ball at the Bayou DeSiard country club. The 1959 ball was held at the club last Saturday evening, carrying out a theme of "Mardi Gras."

In the foyer, large figures of jesters were attached to the walls, and dozens of balloons in the Mardi Gras colors of purple, gold and green hung from the ceiling. Cutouts of masks and dominoes were used against a purple background in the teen age room. Serpentine and balloons were suspended from each light throughout the club.

The dining room represented a street scene in New Orleans, with a lamp - post designating the spot as the corner of Bourbon and Conti streets. Glimpses into the houses and courtyards were seen through the painted windows and wrought iron gates. In the lounge and on the porch, three dimensional champagne glasses were attached to walls and windows, along with more gold, green and purple balloons.

The main ballroom was a Mardi Gras parade, with large cutouts of floats on three walls. Dozens of paper flowers covered each float and large flambeaux were attached to the wall between them. On the fourth wall was the three - step royal dais, covered with gold lame. The double throne was of gilded wood and purple velvet. The canopy over the throne was in the shape of a golden crown with large red and purple "stones", and hangings of purple velvet.

Joe Powell acted as master of ceremonies and announced the entrance of the ribbon bearers at 9:30 p.m. These young ladies were Misses Margaret Moore, Jeannie Clark of Mer Rouge, Jodie Biedenharn, Connie Cudd, Louise Amman, Laura Allen, Maureen Kelly, Helen Touchstone, Doll Burgoyne, Gretchen Masur, Betty Calvert of Rayville, Shirley Dean, Dottie Amman, Mignon Scogin, Sally Barham of Bastrop, Minta Goyne, Anne Hemphill, Linda Crow and Linda Collet.

After the ribbon bearers had taken their positions, King W. J. Riley, Jr., entered to the strains of the Coronation Waltz. Holding the king's purple velvet mantle were his pages, Edmund and Mac Brown, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund G. Brown.

The maids of the court entered next, escorted by the dukes who presented them to the king. All of the maids wore bouffant white ball gowns and carried nosegays of the carnival colors: yellow roses with heather, encircled with purple and gold maline. First to ' r was Miss Sally Ryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kusin. A freshman at the University of Alabama, Miss Ryan was escorted by Duke G. L. Morgan.

Kelley of Oak Grove Miss Kelley is a sophomore at Sophie Newcomb College.

After the presentation of the maids, the crown and sceptre bearers entered and took their places beside the king. These were Mike Sager, son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Sager, Jr., and Bill Husted, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Husted, Jr.

A fanfare announced the entrance of the queen, Miss Jacquelyn Masur, who was escorted by E. J. Seymour, Sr., king of the 1958 Mardi Gras ball. The queen wore a ball gown of white peau de soie embroidered with seed pearls and iridescent sequins and a purple velvet mantle embossed with silver lame fleur de lis. Her pages were Douglas Cookston, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Cookston, Jr., and Arthur Liles, son of Dr. and Mrs. Burchall Liles. A freshman at Southern Methodist University, Miss Masur is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Masur.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 NT.	Pass	3 NT.	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♠.

If a touchy contract can be placed on the right side of the ledger without resort to a finesse it is frequently wise to avoid it.

South, holding 22 points, opened with two no trump, and North raised to three. The opening lead was the six of spades, and East played the ten. South won the trick and being in the right hand for it, lazily drifted into the club finesse. East won and continued the jack of spades. Declarer ducked, but the suit was continued and cleared. Since South could not bring in enough tricks without trying the diamonds, the finesse had to be essayed, and West got in to cash the setting tricks.

A simple precautionary measure would have rendered the hand safe against any holding. It should have been apparent to declarer that the diamond finesse was not essential to the success of the contract. Three diamonds, three clubs two spades and a heart add up to three no trump. The danger in the hand, of course, lies in the possibility that West will establish a certain number of spade tricks and run them. But the only card that West can use effectively for quick entry is the king of diamonds, if he has it. Extraction of that card will render him completely impotent.

The proper play is the immediate lead of the ace of diamonds followed by the queen, with complete indifference as to who wins it. When the spade is returned it is ducked and the suit will be cleared but now the club finesse can be taken with complete safety, because East will have no more spades to lead to his partner. If he should have one left it will mean that West originally had only four, and the opposition can cash no more than two tricks in spades plus the two kings.

HDC Members Given Valuable Information

Cadeville HDC members received valuable information on how to care and beautify floors, from a demonstration given by home management leader, Mrs. Lee Wilder, assisted by Mrs. Ellis Flower, when they held a meetin in the home of Mrs. C. White for the February meeting.

Mrs. J. A. Sturdivant opened by giving the thought for the day. The Club Collect was given and the Pledge to the Flag. Mrs. C. R. Wilder gave a poem entitled "To Talk With God."

In business, there was a discussion on what club members want in 1959.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Paul North on March fourth at nine-thirty in the morning.

Plans Underway District PTA Spring Meeting

Plans are underway for the spring meeting of the 13th district PTA, according to word received by Mrs. Eugene S. Cox, publicity chairman.

Date for the meeting has been set for March 6, in Lake Providence at the American Legion Hall. Presiding will be Mrs. C. T. DeLoach of Delhi, director.

The 13th district is comprised of Morehouse Parish, East Carroll Parish, and Richland Parish. A report of the nominating committee for officers for the next two years will be given.

All units are reminded to send their publicity books to Mrs. J. B. McIntosh of Pioneer, assistant director. Awards will be presented at the meeting and winners will be sent to the State Convention in New Orleans in April. Membership awards will also be presented at this time.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 NT.	Pass	3 NT.	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♠.

If a touchy contract can be placed on the right side of the ledger without resort to a finesse it is frequently wise to avoid it.

South, holding 22 points, opened with two no trump, and North raised to three. The opening lead was the six of spades, and East played the ten. South won the trick and being in the right hand for it, lazily drifted into the club finesse. East won and continued the jack of spades. Declarer ducked, but the suit was continued and cleared. Since South could not bring in enough tricks without trying the diamonds, the finesse had to be essayed, and West got in to cash the setting tricks.

A simple precautionary measure would have rendered the hand safe against any holding. It should have been apparent to declarer that the diamond finesse was not essential to the success of the contract. Three diamonds, three clubs two spades and a heart add up to three no trump. The danger in the hand, of course, lies in the possibility that West will establish a certain number of spade tricks and run them. But the only card that West can use effectively for quick entry is the king of diamonds, if he has it. Extraction of that card will render him completely impotent.

The proper play is the immediate lead of the ace of diamonds followed by the queen, with complete indifference as to who wins it. When the spade is returned it is ducked and the suit will be cleared but now the club finesse can be taken with complete safety, because East will have no more spades to lead to his partner. If he should have one left it will mean that West originally had only four, and the opposition can cash no more than two tricks in spades plus the two kings.

MARBLE ARCHWAY, GREY LANDSCAPE AT UNIQUE AREA CEMETERY

Shades Of Colorful Era Swirl Out Of Mystic Past

FEATURES

By RECA JONES
State Editor

A bygone era swirls out of the mystic past and seems almost to be the living present as you visit a unique cemetery near Newellton.

Close your eyes and you can visualize charming Southern ladies reigning over mansions, fields stretching for miles with slaves gathering the snowy cotton and the master of the plantation busily directing his vast holdings and creating out of a swampland the great state of Louisiana.

As you drive along a striking 14-foot marble archway, blending with a grey landscape, catches the eye. Carved across the top is the family name, Newell. The ornamental Arc de Newell was erected 15 years ago by a descendant of Edward Drumgould Newell, Dr. Edward Dunbar Newell of Chattanooga, Tenn., who died about three years ago.

The tiny graveyard plot is on Newell's ridge, a mite portion of what was once a 10,000 acre cotton plantation. The stately archway is an entrance to a path lined with English Holly leading to a cemetery plot containing the graves.

Carved on Arc de Newell is a history of the founder of Newellton and the family tree. It bespeaks of a time when a giant of a man carved out of the wilderness a castle and surrounded himself with a loving family and faithful slaves. One of his slaves, who he called "beloved and faithful" is buried in the family plot.

Newell worked to improve the ginning of King Cotton and invented the Newell Screw Cotton Bale Press which is still being used in this day.

In quaint prose it relates the following tale of an era of travel by flatboat, Indians, higher infant mortality, more intermarriage:

Edward Drumgould Newell, 1810 to 1888, born February 22, 1810 in North Carolina, died June 10, 1888 at Cypress Plantation, Newell's Ridge, Tensas Parish, La.

"Grandson of Lucy and John Newell of Virginia and North Carolina, son of Sallie Stokes Moody and Edward Newell born 1770 in North Carolina. He and family moved to Clarksville, Montgomery County, Tenn., about 1830.

"He and his brother, Dr. Thomas Newell, left Clarksville in a flat boat with slaves and floated down the Cumberland, Ohio and Mississippi rivers to Grand Gulf, Mississippi, where they established a mercantile business. In 1832, guided by Indians, he and his brother explored the forest in what is now known as Newell's Ridge and entered about 10,000 acres of government land. He erected his home on Cypress Plantation.

"In 1834 he married at Port Gibson, Miss., Celia Ann Dorsey, granddaughter of Nathen Dorsey of Baltimore and daughter of Samuel Dorsey of Port Gibson, Miss.

"Of this marriage there were: John David Stokes, who married his first cousin, Nannie Newell; Annette, who married Captain Udolpho Wolfe; Edward Henry, who married Catherine Wade of Prospect Hill, Jefferson County, Miss.; Ann Elizabeth, who married Louis Buckner of Natchez, Miss., and Lula Newell, who died quite young.

"Celia Ann, his wife, died Sept. 4, 1856, at Cypress Plantation. He married secondly Elizabeth Nugent Moody, a widow, of which marriage there was one issue, a girl, Aphra Boyd, who died in childhood.

"His third wife was Jennie Yates, of Schenectady, N.Y., and their children were Mrs. Josie N. Fultz, wife of John D. Fultz; Robert Yates, who married Bessie Young, Edgar Farrar, who married Belle Young; and Jennie, who died in childhood.

"He served in the Louisiana Senate and was a member of the session convention of Louisiana.

"In 1875 with his two sons, Captain J. D. S. Newell and Edward H. Newell, he founded the town of Newellton.

"He was one of the largest cotton planters in Louisiana and was inventor of the Newell Screw Cotton Bale Press.

"This memorial was erected in grateful appreciation of a revered ancestor by his namesake, Dr. Edward Dunbar Newell of Chattanooga, Tenn."

"The following are buried in this cemetery:

"Tensora Ellan Newell, wife of Louis Buckner; Ann Elizabeth Newell and Lula Newell, daughters of Edward Drumgould and Celia Ann Newell;

"Aphra Boyd Newell, daughter of Edward Drumgould and Ann Elizabeth Newell; Jennie Yates Newell, youngest daughter of Edward Drumgould and Jeannie Yates Newell; infant son of Edward Drumgould and Jeannie Yates Newell.

"Edward Newell Wolfe, infant son of Udolpho and Annette Newell Wolfe; Allison Newell Wolfe, son of Edward H. and Kate Wade Newell.

"Jeannie Yates Newell, daughter of Robert Y. and Bessie Young Newell; John D. Fultz, infant son of John D. and Jozia Newell Fultz.

"Edward Thomas Newell, eldest son of David S. and Marie C. Jordan Newell; G. Harper Jordon, brother-in-law of David S. Newell;

"Mary Buckner, daughter of Tensora Ellen Buckner and Louis Buckner.

"Bill Chase, a beloved and faithful slave, the last burial in this cemetery."

In the neighboring parish of Catahoula is another graveyard which is as shrouded in secrecy as the Newell family plot is steeped in history.

Quitely reposing on the banks of the sleepy Black Lake one chances upon a grove of oaks and cottonwood lying between a narrow strip blanked by the lake and a gravel road leading to Parhams landing.

There one beholds a strange sight, a huge cottonwood, 14½-feet in circumference growing over a grave. Five ornamental iron post jut out of the trunk of the tree while the trunk has rooted away to expose one post in the center of the dark cave. A marble slab, with the engraving hidden by roots, is seen.

Nearby an oak has grown through an iron fence which once surrounded a family plot. The only clue to the past history is a marble slab, broken and lying on the ground with the engraving, "Benjamin McCluer, born Sept. 29, 1825, and died Nov. 19, 1869."

A search through a quadrangle map in the office of Wayne Huckaby, Fifth District Engineer, reveals that many years ago, before Black River was rerouted and a portion dammed up to create Black Lake there was a "McClure Landing," with the family name spelled differently.

The countryside of Norfheast Louisiana is filled with historical cemeteries. It behooves us to keep them intact for future generations.

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

BERLIN (AP)—It was Monday morning.

The elderly doctor got out of bed and thought: "My God! It's happening to us."

What was happening to the doctor and his family happens to about 600 people who flee Communist East Germany each day.

At 8:30 a.m. the doctor embraced his 15-year-old daughter and sent her out of the house. To fool the Communist police spies, the girl carried her school books.

But instead of going to school, the daughter went to the railway station. She got a train for Berlin.

Next went the wife with her 78-year-old mother. Only once did the wife look back at the neat house and garden. She wept.

Hours later, riding his bicycle as if he were calling on patients, the doctor reached the railway station.

The plan was for the family to reunite in free West Berlin and fly out to West Germany—if they eluded the Communist patrols aboard the East German trains.

To get by the police unnoticed, the family took with them only the clothes they wore.

Twenty-five years after he had set up practice in that East German communisty, the doctor abandoned his house, medical instruments and life savings.

It was just five days since a patient had tipped off the doctor, a known anti-Communist, that the secret police intended to arrest him.

This is how a typical middle class family joined one of history's most phenomenal mass flights of population.

More than 4,000 refugees keep flooding out every week.

West Germany has found the influx of refugees to be a blessing and a burden. It has provided a priceless labor supply to sustain the economic boom. But it has also cost the Bonn government about half a billion dollars a year to receive and care for the refugee stream.

With an eye to the future, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has told the East Germans to stay where they are.

"All those who can hold out should do so," urged Adenauer. "Those who cannot stand it, can come to us and we will do all that can be done to help them. But that section of Germany must not be depopulated.

"It must be held for Germany."

For the rulers of East Germany the refugees statistics are statistics of impending disaster.

The satellite nation literally is running out of people. The population of 18 million is shrinking by more than a quarter of a million annually.

DRAINING

The refugee tide is draining away the brain and muscle power needed to meet East Germany's expanding economic plan.

This is one big reason that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has sprung his power squeeze on West Berlin — the chief escape hatch for the refugees.

The East Germans have not yet been able to seal off the border between East and West Berlin because the city remains under four power occupation.

Khrushchev may have acted because the exodus of skilled workders and key professional men from the satellite reached crippling proportions during 1958.

The Professionals defected in unprecedented numbers although the Communists, desperate for their services, tended to pamper them with high salaries.

More than 1,200 medical doctors and 2,400 engineers went West in 1958.

The doctor shortage became so critical that the Reds began to beg physicians to stay, promising professional freedom and an end to political persecution.

But the Communists have failed to keep these promises, according to that elderly doctor who fled with his family on a recent Monday morning.

Interviewed together with his family after they were reunited in West Berlin, the doctor told a story that illustrated the plight of many professional men in East Germany.

"My trouble with the Communists began when I refused to join a state clinic and insisted on continuing in private practice.

"I got into trouble again when I treated a patient and found he had gotten food poisoning from a sausage that he had bought in the state food shop. As usual, I wrote in my diagnosis where the poisoning came from.

"The next day an official came to see me and demanded that I change my diagnosis. I refused to do it.

"It became harder and harder for me to carry on my practice because doctors in private practice could not get the same deliveries of medicine and equipment as the state clinics. . . .

"To take care of my patients, my wife and I began to smuggle in medicine from West Berlin.

"Then the Communists found out. A patient told me they were getting ready to move against me.

"So we left and abandoned everything we owned to the Communists."

As the interview ended, the doctor's wife asked: "Do you think my husband will be able to find a position in a hospital?"

The wife apparently didn't know that there was such a glut of refugee doctors in West Germany that many were working as male nurses.

"I looked at the frail 66-year-old doctor and said reassuringly:

"At least in West Germany you'll be free."

The doctor nodded.

Jet Age In Warfare Is Fleeting

By BEM PRICE
AP Staff Writer

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Down here where the desert echoes daily to the rockets' roar, the Army makes no bones about its belief that in warfare the jet age has come — and gone.

One swift look at the "kill" chart for the now outmoded Nike-Ajax alone shows you that the Army apparently has solid grounds for so believing.

Brig. Gen. Stephen M. Mellnik, assistant commandant of the U.S. Army Air Defense School at Ft. Bliss here, said in an interview, "we can knock down anything that breathes air which is now operational or which is on the drawing boards."

In brief, the Army believes it can shoot down anything with wings.

It also appears that the Army is ahead of schedule in developing its antimissile missile, the Nike-Zeus.

One result of the Army's belief is a formally correct, but cool relationship between the Army school and the Strategic Air Command's neighboring Biggs Air Force base.

There is almost no fraternization between the two services here — a fact which may be explained by the enthusiasm with which the Army's missilemen discuss knocking down aircraft.

In truth, the Army just about run out of targets against which to test its mighty Nike-Hercules missile.

RECORD

The Hercules already has knocked down a ramjet drone plane traveling in excess of 2,100 miles per hour at 100,000-plus feet. There are reports that the Hercules can reach upward to 180,000 feet—about 32 miles—with ease.

Col. Fred H. Meinart, chief of the high altitude missile section of the school, said in an interview, "the Hercules has never had to stretch its muscles. We just don't know its full capabilities."

So hard up is the Army for challenging targets that it is seriously contemplating firing the Nike-Hercules against its little brother, the Nike-Ajax.

If the Army carries through with its Hercules-Ajax shoot, it will be the first known attempt in this country to intercept one guided missile with another.

The Hercules is a larger, more powerful and more accurate version of the Ajax, which it will supplant ultimately. Just how good the Hercules is has been classified secret.

Since the Ajax is being replaced, the Army has released some data on just how effective it is.

In 1955 the Ajax shot down 60 per cent of the targets against which it was pitted. The kill rate today: 79.8 per cent.

By the end of this year the Army expects the Ajax to reach maximum efficiency: 88 per cent kills. Since it first began keeping score the Army has figured that 10 per cent of the misses will be caused by equipment malfunction and 2 per cent by human fallibility.

This doesn't mean that in a wave-upon-wave attack by aircraf against a Nike defended target that 12 per cent of the aircraft necessarily will get through.

Rapid fire by battalions shooting atomic warheads is expected to compensate for the error and malfunction factors.

The heart of any guided missile system is radar. At present the relatively ancient Ajax system picks up and begins tracking targets about 200 miles away.

Cannot a plane carry devices to jam the radar? "My engineers tell me," said Gen. Mellnik, "that for every jamming measure there is a counterjamming measure. What is to prevent us from homing on the jamming device itself?"

As if the pilot didn't have troubles enough in the Ajax and Hercules, there is the new missile Hawk, designed to protect troops, cities and field installations against aircraft flying anywhere from tree-top level to 50,000 feet.

The Hawk employs a completely new system of radar, and to date it has been so accurate that the Army boasts nothing can evade it.

OPERATIONS

While the actual operation of the Hawk is highly classified, this much is known: it has a homing device in its nose which, if it misses on intercept, will cause the missile to turn and chase its victim.

All of the controls for the Hawk are built into its nose. There is a radar device on the ground called an illuminator which bounces radar waves off the target.

This illuminator doesn't bother with stationary objects. It will pick up and "illuminate" only moving objects, no matter at what speed or what evasive action it takes.

The whole business is something like shining a flashlight beam on a moving mirror and shooting for the mirror. There is something in the Hawk's nose which permits it to set a course for the reflected beams.

A bygone era swirls out of the mystic past and seems almost to be the living present as you visit a unique cemetery near Newellton.

Close your eyes and you can visualize charming Southern ladies reigning over mansions, fields stretching for miles with slaves gathering the snowy cotton and the master of the plantation busily directing his vast holdings and creating out of a swampland the great state of Louisiana.

As you drive along a striking 14-foot marble archway, blending with a grey landscape, catches the eye. Carved across the top is the family name, Newell. The ornamental Arc de Newell was erected 15 years ago by a descendant of Edward Drumgould Newell, Dr. Edward Dunbar Newell of Chattanooga, Tenn., who died about three years ago.

The tiny graveyard plot is on Newell's ridge, a mite portion of what was once a 10,000 acre cotton plantation. The stately archway is an entrance to a path lined with English Holly leading to a cemetery plot containing the graves.

Carved on Arc de Newell is a history of the founder of Newellton and the family tree. It bespeaks of a time when a giant of a man carved out of the wilderness a castle and surrounded himself with a loving family and faithful slaves. One of his slaves, who he called "beloved and faithful" is buried in the family plot.

Newell worked to improve the ginning of King Cotton and invented the Newell Screw Cotton Bale Press which is still being used in this day.

In quaint prose it relates the following tale of an era of travel by flatboat, Indians, higher infant mortality, more intermarriage:

Edward Drumgould Newell, 1810 to 1888, born February 22, 1810 in North Carolina, died June 10, 1888 at Cypress Plantation, Newell's Ridge, Tensas Parish, La.

"Grandson of Lucy and John Newell of Virginia and North Carolina, son of Sallie Stokes Moody and Edward Newell born 1770 in North Carolina. He and family moved to Clarksville, Montgomery County, Tenn., about 1830.

"He and his brother, Dr. Thomas Newell, left Clarksville in a flat boat with slaves and floated down the Cumberland, Ohio and Mississippi rivers to Grand Gulf, Mississippi, where they established a mercantile business. In 1832, guided by Indians, he and his brother explored the forest in what is now known as Newell's Ridge and entered about 10,000 acres of government land. He erected his home on Cypress Plantation.

"In 1834 he married at Port Gibson, Miss., Celia Ann Dorsey, granddaughter of Nathen Dorsey of Baltimore and daughter of Samuel Dorsey of Port Gibson, Miss.

"Of this marriage there were: John David Stokes, who married his first cousin, Nannie Newell; Annette, who married Captain Udolpho Wolfe; Edward Henry, who married Catherine Wade of Prospect Hill, Jefferson County, Miss.; Ann Elizabeth, who married Louis Buckner of Natchez, Miss., and Lula Newell, who died quite young.

"Celia Ann, his wife, died Sept. 4, 1856, at Cypress Plantation. He married secondly Elizabeth Nugent Moody, a widow, of which marriage there was one issue, a girl, Aphra Boyd, who died in childhood.

GIANT COTTONWOOD roots shroud secret of those who "sleep".

"His third wife was Jennie Yates, of Schenectady, N.Y., and their children were Mrs. Josie N. Fultz, wife of John D. Fultz; Robert Yates, who married Bessie Young, Edgar Farrar, who married Belle Young; and Jennie, who died in childhood.

"He served in the Louisiana Senate and was a member of the session convention of Louisiana.

"In 1875 with his two sons, Captain J. D. S. Newell and Edward H. Newell, he founded the town of Newellton.

"He was one of the largest cotton planters in Louisiana and was inventor of the Newell Screw Cotton Bale Press.

"This memorial was erected in grateful appreciation of a revered ancestor by his namesake, Dr. Edward Dunbar Newell of Chattanooga, Tenn."

"The following are buried in this cemetery:

"Tensora Ellan Newell, wife of Louis Buckner; Ann Elizabeth Newell and Lula Newell, daughters of Edward Drumgould and Celia Ann Newell;

"Aphra Boyd Newell, daughter of Edward Drumgould and Ann Elizabeth Newell; Jennie Yates Newell, youngest daughter of Edward Drumgould and Jeannie Yates Newell; infant son of Edward Drumgould and Jeannie Yates Newell.

"Edward Newell Wolfe, infant son of Udolpho and Annette Newell Wolfe; Allison Newell Wolfe, son of Edward H. and Kate Wade Newell.

"Jeannie Yates Newell, daughter of Robert Y. and Bessie Young Newell; John D. Fultz, infant son of John D. and Jozia Newell Fultz.

"Edward Thomas Newell, eldest son of David S. and Marie C. Jordan Newell; G. Harper Jordon, brother-in-law of David S. Newell;

"Mary Buckner, daughter of Tensora Ellen Buckner and Louis Buckner.

"Bill Chase, a beloved and faithful slave, the last burial in this cemetery."

In the neighboring parish of Catahoula is another graveyard which is as shrouded in secrecy as the Newell family plot is steeped in history.

Quitely reposing on the banks of the sleepy Black Lake one chances upon a grove of oaks and cottonwood lying between a narrow strip blanked by the lake and a gravel road leading to Parhams landing.

There one beholds a strange sight, a huge cottonwood, 14½-feet in circumference growing over a grave. Five ornamental iron post jut out of the trunk of the tree while the trunk has rooted away to expose one post in the center of the dark cave. A marble slab, with the engraving hidden by roots, is seen.

Nearby an oak has grown through an iron fence which once surrounded a family plot. The only clue to the past history is a marble slab, broken and lying on the ground with the engraving, "Benjamin McCluer, born Sept. 29, 1825, and died Nov. 19, 1869."

A search through a quadrangle map in the office of Wayne Huckaby, Fifth District Engineer, reveals that many years ago, before Black River was rerouted and a portion dammed up to create Black Lake there was a "McClure Landing," with the family name spelled differently.

The countryside of Northeast Louisiana is filled with historical cemeteries. It behooves us to keep them intact for future generations.

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

BERLIN (AP)—It was Monday morning.

The elderly doctor got out of bed and thought: "My God! It's happening to us."

What was happening to the doctor and his family happens to about 600 people who flee Communist East Germany each day.

At 8:30 a.m. the doctor embraced his 15-year-old daughter and sent her out of the house. To fool the Communist police spies, the girl carried her school books.

But instead of going to school, the daughter went to the railway station. She got a train for Berlin.

Next went the wife with her 78-year-old mother. Only once did the wife look back at the neat house and garden. She wept.

Hours later, riding his bicycle as if he were calling on patients, the doctor reached the railway station.

The plan was for the family to reunite in free West Berlin and fly out to West Germany—if they eluded the Communist patrols aboard the East German trains.

To get by the police unnoticed, the family took with them only the clothes they wore.

Twenty-five years after he had set up practice in that East German communisty, the doctor abandoned his house, medical instruments and life savings.

It was just five days since a patient had tipped off the doctor, a known anti-Communist, that the secret police intended to arrest him.

More than 4,000 refugees keep flooding out every week.

West Germany has found the influx of refugees to be a blessing and a burden. It has provided a priceless labor supply to sustain the economic boom. But it has also cost the Bonn government about half a billion dollars a year to receive and care for the refugee stream.

With an eye to the future, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has told the East Germans to stay where they are.

"All those who can hold out should do so," urged Adenauer, "Those who cannot stand it, can come to us and we will do all that can be done to help them. But that section of Germany must not be depopulated.

"It must be held for Germany."

For the rulers of East Germany the refugees statistics are statistics of impending disaster.

The satellite nation literally is running out of people. The population of 18 million is shrinking by more than a quarter of a million annually.

DRAINING

The refugee tide is draining away the brain and muscle power needed to meet East Germany's expanding economic plan.

This is one big reason that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has sprung his power squeeze on West Berlin — the chief escape hatch for the refugees.

The East Germans have not yet been able to seal off the border between East and West Berlin because the city remains under four power occupation.

Khrushchev may have acted because the exodus of skilled workders and key professional men from the satellite reached crippling proportions during 1958.

The Professionals defected in unprecedented numbers although the Communists, desperate for their services, tended to pamper them with high salaries.

More than 1,200 medical doctors and 2,400 engineers went West in 1958.

The doctor shortage became so critical that the Reds began to beg physicians to stay, promising professional freedom and an end to political persecution.

But the Communists have failed to keep these promises, according to that elderly doctor who fled with his family on a recent Monday morning.

Interviewed together with his family after they were reunited in West Berlin, the doctor told a story that illustrated the plight of many professional men in East Germany.

"My trouble with the Communists began when I refused to join a state clinic and insisted on continuing in private practice.

"I got into trouble again when I treated a patient and found he had gotten food poisoning from a sausage that he had bought in the state food shop. As usual, I wrote in my diagnosis where the poisoning came from.

"The next day an official came to see me and demanded that I change my diagnosis. I refused to do it.

"It became harder and harder for me to carry on my practice because doctors in private practice could not get the same deliveries of medicine and equipment as the state clinics. . . .

"To take care of my patients, my wife and I began to smuggle in medicine from West Berlin.

"Then the Communists found out. A patient told me they were getting ready to move against me.

"So we left and abandoned everything we owned to the Communists."

As the interview ended, the doctor's wife asked: "Do you think my husband will be able to find a position in a hospital?"

The wife apparently didn't know that there was such a glut of refugee doctors in West Germany that many were working as male nurses.

"I looked at the frail 66-year-old doctor and said reassuringly:

"At least in West Germany you'll be free."

The doctor nodded.

Jet Age In Warfare Is Fleeting

By BEM PRICE
AP Staff Writer

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Down here where the desert echoes daily to the rockets' roar, the Army makes no bones about its belief that in warfare the jet age has come — and gone.

One swift look at the "kill" chart for the now outmoded Nike-Ajax alone shows you that the Army apparently has solid grounds for so believing.

Brig. Gen. Stephen M. Mellnik, assistant commandant of the U.S. Army Air Defense School at Ft. Bliss here, said in an interview, "we can knock down anything that breathes air which is now operational or which is on the drawing boards."

In brief, the Army believes it can shoot down anything with wings.

It also appears that the Army is ahead of schedule in developing its antimissile missile, the Nike-Zeus.

One result of the Army's belief is a formally correct, but cool relationship between the Army school and the Strategic Air Command's neighboring Biggs Air Force base.

There is almost no fraternization between the two services here — a fact which may be explained by the enthusiasm with which the Army's missilemen discuss knocking down aircraft.

In truth, the Army just about run out of targets against which to test its mighty Nike-Hercules missile.

RECORD

The Hercules already has knocked down a ramjet drone plane traveling in excess of 2,100 miles per hour at 100,000-plus feet. There are reports that the Hercules can reach upward to 180,000 feet—about 32 miles—with ease.

Col. Fred H. Meinart, chief of the high altitude missile section of the school, said in an interview, "the Hercules has never had to stretch its muscles. We just don't know its full capabilities."

So hard up is the Army for challenging targets that it is seriously contemplating firing the Nike-Hercules against its little brother, the Nike-Ajax.

If the Army carries through with its Hercules-Ajax shoot, it will be the first known attempt in this country to intercept one guided missile with another.

The Hercules is a larger, more powerful and more accurate version of the Ajax, which it will supplant ultimately. Just how good the Hercules is has been classified secret.

Since the Ajax is being replaced, the Army has released some data on just how effective it is.

In 1955 the Ajax shot down 60 per cent of the targets against which it was pitted. The kill rate today: 79.8 per cent.

By the end of this year the Army expects the Ajax to reach maximum efficiency: 88 per cent kills. Since it first began keeping score the Army has figured that 10 per cent of the misses will be caused by equipment malfunction and 2 per cent by human fallibility.

This doesn't mean that in a wave-upon-wave attack by aircraf against a Nike defended target that 12 per cent of the aircraft necessarily will get through.

Rapid fire by battalions shooting atomic warheads is expected to compensate for the error and malfunction factors.

The heart of any guided missile system is radar. At present the relatively ancient Ajax system picks up and begins tracking targets about 200 miles away.

Cannot a plane carry devices to jam the radar? "My engineers tell me," said Gen. Mellnik, "that for every jamming measure there is a counterjamming measure. What is to prevent us from homing on the jamming device itself?"

As if the pilot didn't have troubles enough in the Ajax and Hercules, there is the new missile Hawk, designed to protect troops, cities and field installations against aircraft flying anywhere from tree-top level to 50,000 feet.

The Hawk employs a completely new system of radar, and to date it has been so accurate that the Army boasts nothing can evade it.

OPERATIONS

While the actual operation of the Hawk is highly classified, this much is known: it has a homing device in its nose which, if it misses on intercept, will cause the missile to turn and chase its victim.

All of the controls for the Hawk are built into its nose. There is a radar device on the ground called an illuminator which bounces radar waves off the target.

This illuminator doesn't bother with stationary objects. It will pick up and "illuminate" only moving objects, no matter at what speed or what evasive action it takes.

The whole business is something like shining a flashlight beam on a moving mirror and shooting for the mirror. There is something in the Hawk's nose which permits it to set a course for the reflected beams.

Rifles Vs. Bells

The confines of a gymnasium amplify sound. The cow bell at Northeast State games, or a hunter's horn now and then for basketball contests here are enough to convince any cage fan of what Kentucky was up against when Adolph Rupp's mighty 'Cats were knocked off by Cow College to a chorus of cow bells.

Cow College — that's the pet name for Mississippi State, like Ole War Skule for LSU — crushed Kentucky the past week to take command of the Southeastern Conference race toward an NCAA tourney berth. A chorus of cow bells drowned out all other sound at crucial moments.

It's understandable, if you've ever heard the clang of bells in gyms hereabouts, what sports writer Larry Boeck of the Louisville Courier - Journal had in mind when he wrote Bernie Moore, SEC commissioner, about the mental hazards of basketball.

COACH C. L. WINK

Boeck's letter, in humorous vein, hints that if Cow College can use cow bells to addle the opposition, then Kentucky, where Daniel Boone brought fame to the long rifle, may "get a platoon of long rifles to blast off blanks before, during or after the game, firing a volley especially when our opponents go up to the free throw line." Boeck said he heard the rifle idea from a Kentucky fan.

So he writes Moore:

"Bernie, as a friend and a coward, I appeal to you. Call a meeting quick. Stop this masive retaliation before it starts. Put in a rule that nowhere in the SEC can artificial noisemakers be used—bells, long rifles or sirens."

If you have no idea what a mass of cow bells can sound like in a gymnasium, attend a Northeast State game where we've only had to hear the clang of that ONE bell at contests we've seen this season.

C. L. Wink

Remember C. L. Wink, a tackle on the last Ouachita Parish High team to be coached here by George Riser and also on the first coached by Jim Hodgins?

You'll be happy to learn of honors heaped upon Wink in the Lafayette area as football coach at Breaux Bridge where his teams haven't lost more than two games in any of the three seasons he had been head coach.

Wink has just been named "coach of the year" in Class A circles by the Lafayette Advertiser's All - Area poll for his job in steering Breaux Bridge to a district championship last season.

The 30-year-old native of West Monroe played three years of varsity football for Ouachita. He was with Hodgins' first 1946 club that included E. J. Sievers, "Sonny" Webb, Fred Huenefeld, Robert Kirby, Eddie Moss, Mark Boatright, Charles Vecchio, Kendall Bailey, "Buster" King, Fay Duchesne, Lawson Fleming, Clark Matkins, Quinn Becker, and James Perry. He had played on Riser's fine '45 outfit that included some of his '46 mates plus Dan Wilensky, Billy Hargiss, Carlton Potier, Charles Johnson, J. E. Tripp, Sam Brothers, Tommy Moncrief, Miller Frey, and Maurice "Red" Rawls.

He entered SLI in 1947, lettered four years at guard, made All-GSC, graduated at mid-term of '51, entered the army, and played two years for the Fort Leavenworth team. In 1953 he became an assistant coach at Covington's St. Paul's College (a high school), became head coach at Pine High in '54 to start that school's first football program, and then took the Breaux Bridge job in '56. In between he has found time to earn his master's degree at Mississippi Southern.

"This is the first honor I've ever won," said Wink when acclaimed by coaches of his area of the state as the man to do the most with his boys in the Lafayette district during the '58 season. "I'm pleased and proud."

BIG 8 PLANS

The Big Eight Baseball League may start its 14th season this year with only four clubs — Minden, Bernice, Homer, and Ruston, a powerhouse four that has turned out mighty strong contenders for Louisiana's oldest continually operated amateur baseball circuit.

"Many changes have been made since the league started back in 1946 with eight clubs," says L. J. Fox, Ruston, league president. "Bernice and Ruston are the only clubs (from '46) still in the league. Financial problems may keep El Dorado and Bastrop out of the league this season, but the managers voted to continue with only four clubs if two or more teams cannot be secured."

The Big Eight managers, in a meeting Monday, voted to limit the out - of - town players and also play only during the months of June and July. Issues relative to the number of games per week, major college players, umpires, Shaughnessy playoff, and date of opening will be considered at a meeting scheduled in Ruston on March 2.

DODSON TOURNEY

Independent basketball teams will be interested in a tournament to be sponsored by Dodson High School where Coach Buddy Bates says independents will be invited to a three - day event on the calendar for February 26-27-28.

The entry deadline is 8 a.m., February 23, a fee of $10 per team will be charged, clubs will be allowed up to 10 players, the teams nearer Dodson will play the first and second nights of the meet, cash awards of $20, $15, and $10 will be given the top three teams to help pay their expenses, and all teams desiring to enter must contact Coach Bates.

Thomas Clears Seven-Foot Mark

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—John Thomas, the amazing 17-year-old from Boston University high jumped 7 feet for the second time in three weeks and Ron Delany got the scare of his life when he won the half-mile in 1:52.2 in the New York Athletic Club Games Saturday night.

Young Thomas, who became the first jumper in history to make 7 feet in the Millrose Games several weeks ago, cleared the height on his second try.

On his first attempt, he didn't come close, and it appeared that this wasn't his night.

But over he sailed just as smooth as could be on the second try. The bar jiggled a little and he watched it as he lay on his back holding his breath.

The bar held, though, and he had another 7-footer—the only jumper in the world to hit the magic height indoors.

A few minutes later, officials raised the height to 7 feet, 1¼ inches, and he missed on three tries. On the second however, his entire body was over and he barely touched the cross bar.

"This was just as big a thrill as the first time I did it," said the 6-4½ freshman.

No sooner did Thomas go over the 7-foot mark than a horde of AAU officials descended on the crossbar to measure it.

When he made his first 7-footer, they forgot to remeasure it—as required by the rules—in the confusion. AAU chief Dan Ferris said earlier in the week that there was a chance that the mark would not be recognized.

But there was no doubt of this one.

Delany finished inches ahead of Tom Murphy of the host club is the 880.

Jewelers Defeat House Of David

Clutch-shooting Chester Coker dropped in two foul shots in the final five seconds of play to give Monroe's independent R & A Jewelers a 79-77 victory over the colorful House of David professionals in a rowdy crowd pleaser in the Neville gym last night.

Coker, who wound up the evening with 13 points, was fouled by the visitors' Billy Ray Denney with the score tied after a seesaw last quarter in which neither team led by more than four points.

Bob Winterburn, a three-year pro veteran before joining the David quint, tossed in 14 points in the first period and finished up as the top scorer of the game with 25 points. Denney, a former Georgia footballer, collected 19 and Ed Grim sank 15 points.

Lanky Frank Mancil tossed in 7 fielders and 7 charity tosses for 21 points to lead R & A, while teammates L. V. Norris and Jerry Lovett followed with 16 each.

Billed as the "clown of all clowns," little Bobby Roth of the invaders reached deep into his bag of ball-handling tricks to provide the crowd with added entertainment. Roth almost sent the game into overtime with a desperation shot from half court just as the game ended.

House of David, with only five men, had the personal foul limit waived to keep the game interesting. Denney chalked up 8 personals and Roth 6.

The visitors scored first and remained in front until Norris hit a long set with 3:20 left in the second quarter to put the Jewelers in front, 33-32. The bearded David squad took a 41-37 lead as the half ended, and it was nip and tuck from that point on.

With the score tied at 75-all and 1:35 remaining in the game, Denney sank a two-pointer to put the House of David ahead, 77-75. Coker came back to knot it up with a field goal and then sank the game-winning foul shots.

Howell Scores 43 As State Beats Florida

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Bailey Howell, the nation's fifth highest scorer, led Mississippi State to an easy 105-68 victory over Florida Saturday night and kept the Maroons in contention for the Southeastern Conference championship.

Howell hit 15 field goals in 21 attempts and scored 43 points—a Florida gym record. In addition, he led both teams in rebounds with 20.

So magnificent was his performance that the partisan Florida crowd of 4,000 gave Howell a tremendous ovation when he left the game with just under five minutes to play.

He had scored 41 points, equaling the gym record set by Florida's Joe Hobbs last year. Two minutes later Howell came back and sank two free throws for a new record.

Mississippi State led throughout and Florida's inexperienced quintet was unable to match the Maroons' hot shooting pace. Mississippi State hit 65 per cent of its field goal attempts.

The Maroons were in front 50-21 at halftime and held a comfortable margin through the final 20 minutes.

Howell's performance overshadowed the fine play of Florida's Bob Sherwood, who hit 32 points—the best a Florida player has done this season.

The victory for Mississippi State, ranked 10th in the nation even before upsetting Kentucky Monday, gave the Maroons a conference record of nine victories and one loss—that loss to Auburn.

Florida has won only one conference game in 10 starts.

James Stars As Mustangs Defeat Rice

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Southern Methodist turned back a late Rice rally to defeat the Owls Saturday 60-57 in a regionally televised Southwest Conference basketball game.

Four free throws by Williams put the Mustangs in front, 60-53, before Rice scored on late goals by David Craig and Tom Robitaille.

Rice took an 8-2 lead but three goals by James and a pair by Kim Nash shot the Mustangs ahead, 15-8. Six more points by James and four by Williams gave SMU its widest margin, 29-14, but five free throws and two field goals by Ball led a Rice rally that cut the Mustang advantage to 31-27 at the half.

Three baskets by Wilbur Marsh returned the Mustangs to a 42-29 edge early in the second half but Rice threatened at 49-46 with seven minutes to play on two goals each by Robitaille and Craig.

Williams hit twice from the field and Steve Strange hit on a tip-in and a hook to make it 56-49. Rice made its final bid at 56-53 on goals by Craig and Ball.

Williams and Ball each had 19 points. James had 17.

SMU hit 22 of 52 shots for 42 per cent, Rice 22 of 59 for 37 per cent.

194 Total Is Lowest Since 1955

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Joe Campbell of Knoxville, Tenn., shot his way into a three-stroke lead at the end of Saturday's third round of the $15,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament with a 15-under-par 194.

PGA officials said the 23-year-old Campbell's 65-64-65—194 for the par 35-35—70, 434-yard El Rio Course was the lowest 54-hole tournament total since 1955.

Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa., was three strokes behind with 66-64-67—197.

Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N.C., started the third round tied with Campbell. The best he could do was an even-par 70 and an 11-under-par 199.

Gene Littler, San Diego, Calif.; Walter Burkemo, Franklin Hills, Mich., and Henry Williams Jr., Fleetwood, Pa., were grouped six strokes behind Campbell with 200s.

Five pros were bunched at 201, including Jerry Barber, Los Angeles, who lost a place higher up on the last hole.

His second shot on the 18th stuck nine feet up in a tree. Barber is only 5-5. When he yanked the tree, the ball fell behind the trunk. By the time he was through, he had a 2-over-par seven and even-par for the round.

Campbell, a former Walker Cup player trying the pro circuit for the first time, carded 33-32—65.

He had birdies on one, seven, nine, 10, 17 and 18. A poor drive on the short 186-yard No. 4 hole sent him over par. In his three rounds he has had 17 birdies.

The leaders:

Joe Campbell	65-64-65—194
Art Wall Jr.	66-64-67—197

NEW PRO GRID LOOP

Weather Grounds Key Organizers

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Bad flying weather grounded "key" men supposed to be here for a meeting Saturday to organize a new professional football league. Delegates at the initial talks set a new meeting date in Miami Feb. 28 for the actual awarding of franchise options.

Reports from the meeting room at Hotel Peabody were that delegates from Denver, Columbus, Indianapolis and Atlanta were grounded by soupy flying weather.

David Cheses of Columbus took an early flight and made it here. But Virgil Pierson of Birmingham, the league's public relations man said Robert Hoag of Columbus flew as far as Cincinnati where he was stranded.

Others unable to get here because of weather conditions were Ernie Troutman of Atlanta and Murray Dulberger of Indianapolis.

Pierson said delegates were given a picture of the cost breakdown to field a team. One source said it might take about $139,000 to get a team in the field, that is the annual cost.

Under plans proposed, two sections, an eastern and western conference, would be organized.

Latest realignment showed that the eastern cities involved would include Atlanta, Miami, Charlotte, N.C., Shreveport, La., Louisville, Buffalo, Columbus, Brooklyn and Dallas.

The western conference possibilities would include Denver, Memphis, St. Louis, Indianapolis, El Paso, San Antonio, Tulsa, Houston and Minneapolis.

Out of this list, six teams from each section will enter the league, to be selected at the Miami meeting.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Rifles Vs. Bells

The confines of a gymnasium amplify sound. The cow bell at Northeast State games, or a hunter's horn now and then for basketball contests here are enough to convince any cage fan of what Kentucky was up against when Adolph Rupp's mighty 'Cats were knocked off by Cow College to a chorus of cow bells.

Cow College — that's the pet name for Mississippi State, like Ole War Skule for LSU — crushed Kentucky the past week to take command of the Southeastern Conference race toward an NCAA tourney berth. A chorus of cow bells drowned out all other sound at crucial moments.

COACH C. L. WINK

It's understandable, if you've ever heard the clang of bells in gyms hereabouts, what sports writer Larry Boeck of the Louisville Courier - Journal had in mind when he wrote Bernie Moore, SEC commissioner, about the mental hazards of basketball.

Boeck's letter, in humorous vein, hints that if Cow College can use cow bells to addle the opposition, then Kentucky, where Daniel Boone brought fame to the long rifle, may "get a platoon of long rifles to blast off blanks before, during or after the game, firing a volley especially when our opponents go up to the free throw line." Boeck said he heard the rifle idea from a Kentucky fan.

So he writes Moore:

"Bernie, as a friend and a coward, I appeal to you. Call a meeting quick. Stop this masive retaliation before it starts. Put in a rule that nowhere in the SEC can artificial noisemakers be used—bells, long rifles or sirens."

If you have no idea what a mass of cow bells can sound like in a gymnasium, attend a Northeast State game where we've only had to hear the clang of that ONE bell at contests we've seen this season.

C. L. Wink

Remember C. L. Wink, a tackle on the last Ouachita Parish High team to be coached here by George Riser and also on the first coached by Jim Hodgins?

You'll be happy to learn of honors heaped upon Wink in the Lafayette area as football coach at Breaux Bridge where his teams haven't lost more than two games in any of the three seasons he had been head coach.

Wink has just been named "coach of the year" in Class A circles by the Lafayette Advertiser's All - Area poll for his job in steering Breaux Bridge to a district championship last season.

The 30-year-old native of West Monroe played three years of varsity football for Ouachita. He was with Hodgins' first 1946 club that included E. J. Sievers, "Sonny" Webb, Fred Huenefeld, Robert Kirby, Eddie Moss, Mark Boatright, Charles Vezoble, Kendall Bailey, "Buster" King, Fay Duchesne, Lawson Fleming, Clark Matkins, Quinn Becker, and James Perry. He had played on Riser's fine '45 outfit that included some of his '46 mates plus Dan Wilensky, Billy Hargiss, Carlton Potier, Charles Johnson, J. E. Tripp, Sam Brothers, Tommy Moncrief, Miller Frey, and Maurice "Red" Rawls.

He entered SLI in 1947, lettered four years at guard, made All-GSC, graduated at mid-term of '51, entered the army, and played two years for the Fort Leavenworth team. In 1953 he became an assistant coach at Covington's St. Paul's College (a high school), became head coach at Pine High in '54 to start that school's first football program, and then took the Breaux Bridge job in '56. In between he has found time to earn his master's degree at Mississippi Southern.

"This is the first honor I've ever won," said Wink when acclaimed by coaches of his area of the state as the man to do the most with his boys in the Lafayette district during the '58 season. "I'm pleased and proud."

BIG 8 PLANS

The Big Eight Baseball League may start its 14th season this year with only four clubs — Minden, Bernice, Homer, and Ruston, a powerhouse four that has turned out mighty strong contenders for Louisiana's oldest continually operated amateur baseball circuit.

"Many changes have been made since the league started back in 1946 with eight clubs," says L. J. Fox, Ruston, league president. "Bernice and Ruston are the only clubs (from '46) still in the league. Financial problems may keep El Dorado and Bastrop out of the league this season, but the managers voted to continue with only four clubs if two or more teams cannot be secured."

The Big Eight managers, in a meeting Monday, voted to limit the out - of - town players and also play only in the months of June and July. Issues relative to the number of games per week, major college players, umpires, Shaughnessy playoff, and date of opening will be considered at a meeting scheduled in Ruston on March 2.

REPEAT PERFORMANCE

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—John Thomas, the amazing 17-year-old from Boston University high jumped 7 feet for the second time in three weeks and Ron Delany got the scare of his life when he won the half-mile in 1:52.2 in the New York Athletic Club Games Saturday night.

Young Thomas, who became the first jumper in history to make 7 feet in the Millrose Games several weeks ago, cleared the height on his second try.

At the time, he was the only competitor left and all eyes were upon him.

On his first attempt, he didn't come close, and it appeared that this wasn't his night.

But over he sailed just as smooth as could be on the second try. The bar jiggled a little and he watched it as he lay on his back holding his breath.

The bar held, though, and he had another 7-footer—the only jumper in the world to hit the magic height indoors.

A few minutes later, officials raised the height to 7 feet, 1¼ inches, and he missed on three tries. On the second however, his entire body was over and he barely touched the cross bar.

"This was just as big a thrill as the first time I did it," said the 6-4½ freshman.

No sooner did Thomas go over the 7-foot mark than a horde of AAU officials descended on the crossbar to measure it.

When he made his first 7-footer, they forgot to remeasure it—as required by the rules—in the confusion. AAU chief Dan Ferris said earlier in the week that there was a chance that the mark would not be recognized.

But there was no doubt of this one.

Delany finished inches ahead of Tom Murphy of the host club is the 880.

Jewelers Defeat House Of David

Clutch-shooting Chester Coker dropped in two foul shots in the final five seconds of play to give Monroe's independent R & A Jewelers a 79-77 victory over the colorful House of David professionals in a rowdy crowd pleaser in the Neville gym last night.

Coker, who wound up the evening with 13 points, was fouled by the visitors' Billy Ray Denney with the score tied after a seesaw last quarter in which neither team led by more than four points.

Bob Winterburn, a three-year pro veteran before joining the David quint, tossed in 14 points in the first period and finished up as the top scorer of the game with 25 points. Denney, a former Georgia footballer, collected 19 and Ed Grim sank 15 points.

Lanky Frank Mancil tossed in 7 fielders and 7 charity tosses for 21 points to lead R & A, while teammates L. V. Norris and Jerry Lovett followed with 16 each.

Billed as the "clown of all clowns," little Bobby Roth of the invaders reached deep into his bag of ball-handling tricks to provide the crowd with added entertainment. Roth almost sent the game into overtime with a desperation shot from half court just as the game ended.

House of David, with only five men, had the personal foul limit waived to keep the game interesting. Denney chalked up 8 personals and Roth 6.

The visitors scored first and remained in front until Norris hit a long set with 3:20 left in the second quarter to put the Jewelers in front, 33-32. The bearded David squad took a 41-37 lead as the half ended, and it was nip and tuck from that point on.

With the score tied at 75-all and 1:35 remaining in the game, Denney sank a two-pointer to put the House of David ahead, 77-75. Coker came back to knot it up with a field goal and then sank the game-winning foul shots.

Howell Scores 43 As State Beats Florida

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Bailey Howell, the nation's fifth highest scorer, led Mississippi State to an easy 105-68 victory over Florida Saturday night and kept the Maroons in contention for the Southeastern Conference championship.

Howell hit 15 field goals in 21 attempts and scored 43 points—a Florida gym record. In addition, he led both teams in rebounds with 20.

So magnificent was his performance that the partisan Florida crowd of 4,000 gave Howell a tremendous ovation when he left the game with just under five minutes to play.

He had scored 41 points, equalling the gym record set by Florida's Joe Hobbs last year. Two minutes later Howell came back and sank two free throws for a new record.

Mississippi State led throughout and Florida's inexperienced quintet was unable to match the Maroons' hot shooting pace. Mississippi State hit 65 per cent of its field goal attempts.

The Maroons were in front 50-21 at halftime and held a comfortable margin through the final 20 minutes.

Howell's performance overshadowed the fine play of Florida's Bob Sherwood, who hit 32 points—the best a Florida player has done this season.

The victory for Mississippi State, ranked 10th in the nation even before upsetting Kentucky Monday, gave the Maroons a conference record of nine victories and one loss—that loss to Auburn.

Florida has won only one conference game in 10 starts.

James Stars As Mustangs Defeat Rice

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Southern Methodist turned back a late Rice rally to defeat the Owls Saturday 60-57 in a regionally televised Southwest Conference basketball game.

Four free throws by Williams put the Mustangs in front, 60-53, before Rice scored on late goals by David Craig and Tom Robitaille.

Rice took an 8-2 lead but three goals by James and a pair by Kim Nash shot the Mustangs ahead, 15-8. Six more points by James and four by Williams gave SMU its widest margin, 29-14, but five free throws and two field goals by Ball led a Rice rally that cut the Mustang advantage to 31-27 at the half.

Three baskets by Wilbur Marsh returned the Mustangs to a 42-29 edge early in the second half but Rice threatened at 49-46 with seven minutes to play on two goals by Robitaille and Craig.

Williams hit twice from the field and Steve Strange hit on a tip-in and a hook to make it 56-49. Rice made its final bid at 56-53 on goals by Craig and Ball.

Williams and Ball each had 19 points. James had 17.

SMU hit 22 of 52 shots for 42 per cent, Rice 22 of 59 for 37 per cent.

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Joe Campbell of Knoxville, Tenn., shot his way into a three-stroke lead at the end of Saturday's third round of the $15,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament with a 15-under-par 194.

PGA officials said the 23-year-old Campbell's 65-64-65—194 for the par 35-35—70, 434-yard El Rio Course was the lowest 54-hole tournament total since 1955.

Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa., was three strokes behind with 66-64-67—197.

Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N.C., started the third round tied with Campbell. The best he could do was an even-par 70 and an 11-under-par 199.

Gene Littler, San Diego, Calif.; Walter Burkemo, Franklin Hills, Mich., and Henry Williams Jr., Fleetwood, Pa., were grouped six strokes behind Campbell with 200s.

Five pros were bunched at 201, including Jerry Barber, Los Angeles, who lost a place higher on the last hole.

His second shot on the 18th stuck nine feet up in a tree. Barber is only 5-5. When he yanked the tree, the ball fell behind the trunk. By the time he was through, he had a 2-over-par seven and even-par for the round.

Campbell, a former Walker Cup player trying the pro circuit for the first time, carded 33-32—65.

He had birdies on one, seven, nine, 10, 17 and 18. A poor drive on the short 186-yard No. 4 hole sent him over par. In his three rounds he has had 17 birdies.

The leaders:

Joe Campbell	65-64-65—194
Art Wall Jr.	66-64-67—197
Julius Boros	65-64-70—199
Gene Littler	65-67-68—200
Walter Burkemo	67-66-67—200

NEW PRO GRID LOOP

Weather Grounds Key Organizers

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Bad flying weather grounded "key" men supposed to be here for a meeting Saturday to organize a new professional football league. Delegates at the initial talks set a new meeting date in Miami Feb. 28 for the actual awarding of franchise options.

Reports from the meeting room at Hotel Peabody here showed that delegates from Denver, Columbus, Indianapolis and Atlanta were grounded by soupy flying weather.

David Cheses of Columbus took an early flight and made it here. But Virgil Pierson of Birmingham, the league's public relations man said Robert Hoag of Columbus flew as far as Cincinnati where he was stranded.

Others unable to get here because of weather conditions were Ernie Troutman of Atlanta and Murray Dulberger of Indianapolis.

Pierson said delegates were given a picture of the cost breakdown to field a team. One source said it might take $139,000 to get a team in the field, that is the annual cost.

Under plans proposed, two sections, an eastern and western conference, would be organized.

Latest realignment showed that the eastern cities involved would include Atlanta, Miami, Charlotte, N.C., Shreveport, La., Louisville, Buffalo, Columbus, Brooklyn and Dallas.

The western conference possibilities would include Denver, Memphis, St. Louis, Indianapolis, El Paso, San Antonio, Tulsa, Houston and Minneapolis.

From each of this list, six teams from each section will enter the league, to be selected at the Miami meeting.

Pierson said John Belk of Charlotte, chairman of the athletic affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce had designated Archie Hoss here to represent Charlotte at the meeting.

Johnny Oxford led Ruston with 24 points while John Porter got 18, Jerry Hood 15 and Allen Herbert 12. Millican scored 27 to pace El Dorado and Simpson contributed 15.

MADE VICE-PRESIDENT

Macauley Signs Lucrative 3-Year Pact As Hawk Coach

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Easy Ed Macauley, coach of the St. Louis Hawks the last 90 days, signed an unprecedented and lucrative three-year contract Saturday at a reported $20,000 a year and was made a vice president of the National Basketball Assn. club.

Macauley, a nine-year veteran of NBA play, became coach of the Hawks just three months ago when owner Ben Kerner—a man who has changed coaches frequently—fired Andy Phillip, in his first year at the helm of the Hawks.

Last year Kerner dropped Alex Hannum even though Hannum brought a world championship to St. Louis. Hannum wanted something longer than a one-year contract.

Kerner recently offered Macauley a five - year contract that would have brought him $100,000 — with bonuses — over that span. Macauley said he would have to think it over and Saturday he gave Kerner his answer.

The 6-9 Macauley said he needed time because he wasn't certain his future was in basketball. He indicated he preferred a two or three-year pact instead of the five-year term.

"I formerly felt that if coaching was the end of the line, there perhaps would be a greater future elsewhere, such as in my insurance work," Easy Ed said. "But this generous contract has revised my thinking, at least for the present."

Macauley, popular here since his All-America college days at St. Louis University and professional play with the old St. Louis Bombers said:

"At least for the present all my other business interests will suffer and be secondary for the three years of this contract." Macauley has an insurance business in St. Louis, plus other ventures.

Since Macauley took over the Hawks he coached them to a 34 and 12 record—and an impressive 17 and 1 mark before the home fans.

Kerner, expansive as always, told a press conference that Macauley's vice president job would not be a wooden title.

"He'll be able to assist me," Kerner said, "in the handling of league matters and when a decision is needed he will have full authority to make it."

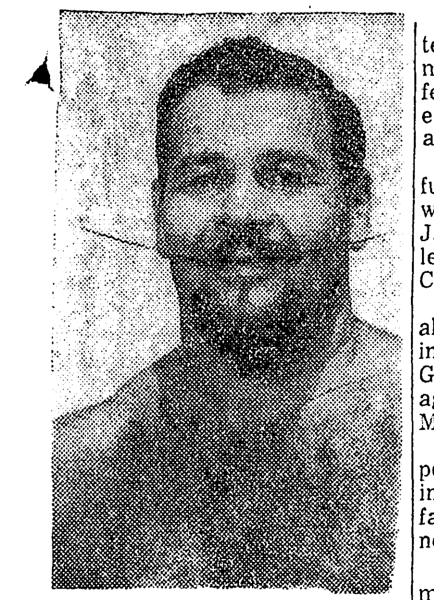
Kerner said that to his knowledge this was the first time any coach has been made a vice president of a club in the NBA. One thing was certain—it was the first time that Kerner had ever offered one of his coaches anything longer than a one-year pact.

Kerner termed Macauley "the top individual we need in the executive end of this business."

Kerner noted that the Hawks' attendance will pass the 300,000 mark this year in 38 home games. He said such an attendance would be one-quarter more than last year's crowds and double what the Hawks drew in their first season in St. Louis four years ago.

SERGE PETROFF

Russian Invader At Local Arena



SERGE PETROFF

A Russian invader and a tag team scramble feature a double main event wrestling show offered tomorrow night by Promoter Gus Baumgartner at his B. and B. Arena on Walnut street.

Comrade Serge Petroff, colorful Russian bruiser, will show his wares against the talents of big Jack Curtis, the Vicksburg athlete long a favorite with Twin Cities' mat customers.

The relay scramble, coming ahead of the Petroff-Curtis meeting on the night's card, will pair George Curtis and Billy Barney against the villainy of the Black Menace and Pretty Boy Collins.

Petroff, a Russian native, is a powerful brawler usually weighing 240 pounds or more with "no fat," according to his advanced notices.

"This Russian is one of the most colorful wrestlers in the business today," declared Promoter Baumgartner. "He has appeared in rings all over the world, worked all the principal cities, and we feel proud to be able to show him before our Twin Cities fans."

The tag scramble is expected to prove a big lure, however, since it's almost a return of last week's row that resulted in a "no contest" decision by referee Curt Englade who now is under suspension by David Silverstein, district wrestling commissioner.

George Curtis was paired with Harvey Cole against Menace and Collins last Monday. Cole, hurt by the Menace in the second fall, couldn't come back for the third, and Curtis tried to go it alone against the two villians. When things got hot for Curtis, wrestler Bill Barney, on hand as a spectator, went to the aid of his old pal. Englade was kayoed in the meantime and when he finally regained control of the situation he ruled the "no contest."

So Barney comes back this week as young Curtis' partner by special request.

"George wanted me to side him, and I'm glad to do it," declared Barney, the West Monroe automobile mechanic who is also Louisiana state heavyweight champion. Barney cancelled a south Louisiana ring appointment for Monday night in order to help Curtis.

N.C. State Cops Seventh Straight, 53-37

RALEIGH (AP)— Sixth-ranked North Carolina State chalked up its seventh straight victory Saturday, turning back Maryland 53-37 in a somewhat dull Atlantic Coast Conference basketball contest that was televised regionally.

The Wolfpack grabbed an 8-6 lead after eight minutes, led the rest of the way and broke the ragged contest wide open with 10 minutes left. The halftime score was 28-19.

The defending ACC champion Terps, who now have lost five in a row scored on only 14 of 53 attempts from the floor for a dismal 26 per cent. State, on the other hand hit on 23 out of 68 for 34 per cent.

A crowd of 9,000, watching the comedy of errors in Reynolds Coliseum, saw State's John Richter garner 13 points to run his three-year total to 1,005.

Senior George Stepanovich was high scorer for the winners with 20.

Maryland's leader was Charles McNeil who tallied 10 points—all in the first half.

State, second to North Carolina in the conference standings, ran its ACC record to 12 victories against only one defeat. Over-all the Pack has won 18 out of 20.

Cuba Chalks Up Fourth Win In Caracas Series

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Cuba chalked up its fourth victory in five games in the Caribbean baseball championship Saturday night with a 5-2 victory over winless Panama.

Venezuela (3-1) met Puerto Rico (2-2) in the second game of the doubleheader.

Two runs in the eighth inning put the game out of Cuba's reach. A double by Bob Allison, Washington rookie, started the rally. After an infield hit Sandy Amoros, Los Angeles Dodgers farmhand, drove both men in with a single.

DESPITE INTEGRATED COMPETITION

Scribe Says Public Wants Miss. State In Tournament

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — A Jackson sports editor says public sentiment in Mississippi — contrary to public policy — favors allowing Mississippi State to accept a likely invitation to compete against racially integrated teams for the national basketball championship.

State Times sports editor Jimmie McDowell asked for the views of readers after Mississippi State defeated top - ranked Kentucky Monday. The win put State in the lead for the Southeastern Conference's berth in the certain-to-be-integrated NCAA tournament.

Although there is no statute concerning competition with Negroes, there is a strong state policy against Mississippi teams competing with integrated teams.

McDowell said five of every six letters he received said the team should be allowed to go to the tourney. He printed excerpts from 19 of the letters in Sunday's State Times.

One reader described himself as "A LIFETIME Mississippian, a segregationist and a good Southern Baptist." But his letter said "arguments that State shouldn't play are childish, stupid and utterly ridiculous."

Several of the letters said integrated competition should never be permitted in Mississippi but that teams from Mississippi should be allowed to compete against Negroes outside the state.

Said one letter: "When in Rome, do as the Romans do."

One letter suggested that Mississippi's "politicians are afraid to stick their necks out on this" for fear of being regarded as favoring integration. "It would be a shame if they (the team) don't get to go," said the letter.

"When is Mississippi going to wake up to the facts of life?" asked another letter favoring the team's going.

Another letter said participation in the nationally-televised tournament "would bring well-deserved publicity to Mississippi."

"Let's dust away these old-fashioned, biased cobwebs and let Mississippi State show what they can really do," suggested one reader.

Next to Mississippi State, defending NCAA champ Kentucky is regarded as the team with the best chance of getting an invitation to the tourney from the SEC.

Filly Upsets Hillsdale In San Antonio

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Bug Brush, a fashionable filly, scored an upset victory over the favored Hillsdale Saturday and set a world record in winning the $58,100 San Antonio Handicap at Santa Anita Park.

Outfighting the Indiana - bred Hillsdale in a stirring duel down the stretch, the 4 - year -old bay beauty came out about a length in front.

The time for the mile and one-eighth, unreeled in exciting fashion before a thunderous crowd of 49,500, was 1:46 2-5, a world record.

The C. V. Whitney filly, second choice in the betting to C. W. Smith's Hillsdale, chalked up her fourth stakes victory of the meeting, something no other mare or filly has done, and picked up the winners share of $35,000.

Hillsdale was gunning for his fifth straight stakes triumph here and his seventh in a row stretching back to last fall.

The battle was a three or four horse affair for the early stages but in the final stages settled down into a real struggle between the colt and the filly.

The Poltex Stable's Terrang got third in a photo finish over Seaneen.

Bug Brush returned $15.10, $5.50 and $4.40; Hillsdale $3.20 and $2.60, and Terrang $6.

Southern Loop Slated To Open Play April 10

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Southern Association, with a brand new member in the Shreveport Sports, opens its season April 10 and league president Charlie Hurth isn't pessimistic over the outlook.

The opening day's schedule April 10 finds Shreveport at Atlanta, Memphis at Birmingham, Mobile at Nashville and Chattanooga at New Orleans.

The second round of openers is somewhat complicated because of the delay in opening Mobile's new ball park. Mobile will move on to Chattanooga while Birmingham goes to Memphis, Atlanta goes to Shreveport.

Shreveport was a charter member of the league when it was formed in 1901. After seven years in the league, the Shreveport franchise was transferred to Mobile and the Atlanta game April 17 will be the first Southern Assn. game played in Shreveport since 1907.

STRAIGHT CASH DEAL

Giants' Lockman Dealt To Orioles

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The San Francisco Giants broke another link with the past Saturday when the sold Whitey Lockman, their oldest player in point of service, to the Baltimore Orioles for an undisclosed sum.

Club secretary Eddie Brannick announced the deal.

Lee MacPhail, Baltimore's general manager, said that Lockman of proven major league ability to back up Bob Boyd."

The blond veteran completed his 14th season with the transplanted New Yorkers last year when he batted .238 as a pinch - hitter and utility player. He had come to terms with San Francisco for the 1959 season.

Whitey, 32, came to the Giants in 1945 from their Jersey City farm club and smashed a home run his first time at bat as a major leaguer. That launched an era with the team which saw him splitting his duties between first base and the outfield in the early years. Later he functioned in the utility roles.

Saturday's transaction does not mark the first time the Giants have dealt him away. In June of 1956 he was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals as part of a nine player deal. The Cards traded him back to the Giants for knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm in February of 1957.

Lockman, who runs a children's shop during the winter in native Charlotte, N. C., gave the club a lift on several occasions last season despite his low average.

He took over first base for a spell when Orlando Cepeda, the National League's rookie of the year, began to tire. Whitey came up with several fielding gems at his old position. Manager Bill Rigney later moved him over to second base late in the season as Danny O'Connell's hitting went into a spin.

Lockman was idle throughout virtually the entire 1947 season when he broke an ankle on April 8 during an exhibition game against the Cleveland Indians and only saw action on two occasions as a pinch hitter late that year.

The trim southpaw comes to the Orioles with a lifetime batting average of about .280. He had his biggest season with the Giants in 1949 when he bated .301 in 151 games.

TO SEVEN STROKES

Cooper Widens San Juan Lead

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) —Pete Cooper of Lakeland, Fla., took a commanding lead in Puerto Rico's $7,500 Open Golf Tournament Saturday when he shot the third round in three-under-par 69 for a 54-hole score of 210.

From a one-stroke lead at the halfway mark, the 44-year-old Floridian widened his margin to seven strokes. Tied for second at 217 were Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Ed Oliver of Denver and Jose Rodriguez of Puerto Rico.

The final 18 holes will be played Sunday.

Cooper currently is in second place in total points for the Caribbean circuit. He won the Panama Open and finished third in the Venezuela Tournament. The winner of the circuit's trophy, which will be decided after the Jamaica Open later this month, will pick up $1,400.

Don January of Denver, winner of the Venezuelan Open and runner-up at Panama, has 42 points as the leader and Cooper 41.

Saturday Cooper shot a two-under-par 33 on the first nine. His card included three birdies and one bogey. He was one under on the back nine.

January was even hotter on the first nine at the Berwind Country Cub. His 32 included one eagle and a birdie. But on the final nine he fell back, when he hit a ditch a couple of times and had to take two penalty shots.

Penrose, Streit Capture Mixed Tourney Crown

JUPITER, Fla. (AP) — Jack Penrose of Miami Beach and Marlene Streit of Toronto breezed through the finals of the National Amateur Mixed Foursomes Golf Tournament Saturday with a smashing 10 and 9 victory over Howard Everitt of Northfield, N. J., and Roma Neudorf of Toronto.

Penrose and Mrs Streit, both of whom have won the mixed foursomes previously with different partners, had a four-hole lead going into the last 18 holes of the 36-hole finals.

The losers were five over par for the first nine as their game fell apart. They lost the first hole when Everitt, Middle Atlantic and Pennsylvania amateur champion, missed a 15-inch putt and were six down after the third hole.

The winners took the first six holes and then halved the next three to close out the finals after 27 holes.

Techmen Face Crucial Tests In Final Tilts

SLI's sharpshooters downed Tech 70-62 in Lafayette Friday night to tighten up the race. SLC, McNeese State and Northeast are out of the race, but can easily assume spoiler's roles now.

Tech still leads the loop with a 6-1 mark with SLI and NSC deadlocked for second with 4-2 records, not counting the Demon's crucial contest with McNeese in Lake Charles Saturday night.

A loss to Southeastern Monday night could put the Techmen in a precarious position, for they go on the road to face NSC in Natchitoches Saturday night. Tech also faces Centenary here Wednesday night in a non-loop fray. The Bulldogs close out league play Feb. 28 against Northeast in Monroe.

SLI has four loop games left, two against Northeast, one at home and one away, one in Lake Charles against McNeese and one in Lafayette against the Demons. SLI and McNeese play Feb. 17.

The SLI-NSC contest in Lafayette Feb. 27 will undoubtedly eliminate one of the teams from the running, if McNeese hasn't pulled off that trick by that time. Besides the Tech tilt in Natchitoches Saturday night, the Demons must also meet SLC in Natchitoches, Feb. 25.

MADE VICE-PRESIDENT

Macauley Signs Lucrative 3-Year Pact As Hawk Coach

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Easy Ed Macauley, coach of the St. Louis Hawks the last 90 days, signed an unprecedented and lucrative three-year contract Saturday at a reported $20,000 a year and was made a vice president of the National Basketball Assn. club.

Macauley, a nine-year veteran of NBA play, became coach of the Hawks just three months ago when owner Ben Kerner—a man who has changed coaches frequently—fired Andy Phillip, in his first year at the helm of the Hawks.

Last year Kerner dropped Alex Hannum even though Hannum brought a world championship to St. Louis. Hannum wanted something longer than a one-year contract.

Kerner recently offered Macauley a five - year contract that would have brought him $100,000 — with bonuses — over that span. Macauley said he would have to think it over and Saturday he gave Kerner his answer.

The 6-9 Macauley said he needed time because he wasn't certain his future was in basketball. He indicated he preferred a two or three-year pact instead of the five-year term.

"I formerly felt that if coaching was the end of the line, there perhaps would be a greater future elsewhere, such as in my insurance work," Easy Ed said. "But this generous contract has revised my thinking, at least for the present."

Macauley, popular here since his All-America college days at St. Louis University and professional play with the old St. Louis Bombers sail:

"At least for the present all my other business interests will suffer and be secondary for the three years of this contract." Macauley has an insurance business in St. Louis, plus other ventures.

Since Macauley took over the Hawks he coached them to a 34 and 12 record—and an impressive 17 and 1 mark before the home fans.

Kerner, expansive as always, told a press conference that Macauley's vice president job would not be a wooden title.

"He'll be able to assist me," Kerner said, "in the handling of league matters and when a decision is needed he will have full authority to make it."

Kerner said that to his knowledge this was the first time any coach has been made a vice president of a club in the NBA. One thing was certain—it was the first time that Kerner had ever offered one of his coaches anything longer than a one-year pact.

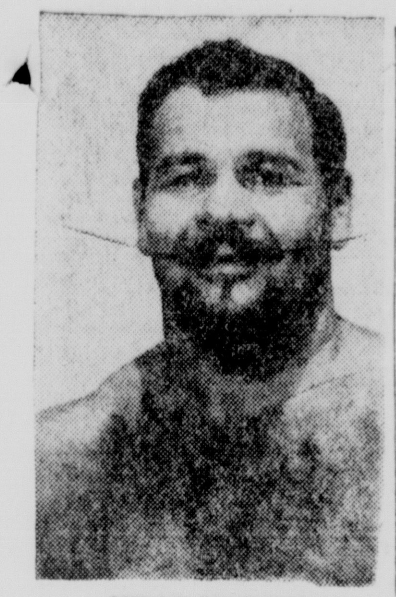
Kerner termed Macauley "the top individual we need in the executive end of this business."

Kerner noted that the Hawks' attendance will pass the 300,000 mark this year in 38 home games.

He said such an attendance would be one-quarter more than last year's crowds and double what the Hawks drew in their first season in St. Louis four years ago.

SERGE PETROFF

Russian Invader At Local Arena



SERGE PETROFF

A Russian invader and a tag team scramble feature a double main event wrestling show offered tomorrow night by Promoter Gus Baumgartner at his B. and B. Arena on Walnut street.

Comrade Serge Petroff, colorful Russian bruiser, will show his wares against the talents of big Jack Curtis, the Vicksburg athlete long a favorite with Twin Cities' mat customers.

The relay scramble, coming ahead of the Petroff-Curtis meeting on the night's card, will pair George Curtis and Billy Barney against the villainy of the Black Menace and Pretty Boy Collins.

Petroff, a Russian native, is a powerful brawler usually weighing 240 pounds or more with "no fat," according to his advanced notices.

"This Russian is one of the most colorful wrestlers in the business today," declared Promoter Baumgartner. "He has appeared in rings all over the world, worked all the principal cities, and we feel proud to be able to show him before our Twin Cities fans."

The tag scramble is expected to prove a big lure, however, since it's almost a return of last week's row that resulted in a "no contest" decision by referee Curt Englade who now is under suspension by David Silverstein, district wrestling commissioner.

George Curtis was paired with Harvey Cole against Menace and Collins last Monday. Cole, hurt by the Menace in the second fall, couldn't come back for the third, and Curtis tried to go it alone against the two villians. When things got hot for Curtis, wrestler Bill Barney, on hand as a spectator, went to the aid of his old pal. Englade was kayoed in the meantime and when he finally regained control of the situation he ruled the "no contest."

So Barney comes back this week as young Curtis' partner by special request.

"George wanted me to side him, and I'm glad to do it," declared Barney, the West Monroe automobile mechanic who is also Louisiana state heavyweight champion. Barney cancelled a south Louisiana ring appointment for Monday night in order to help Curtis.

N.C. State Cops Seventh Straight, 53-37

RALEIGH (AP)— Sixth-ranked North Carolina State chalked up its seventh straight victory Saturday, turning back Maryland 53-37 in a somewhat dull Atlantic Coast Conference basketball contest that was televised regionally.

The Wolfpack grabbed an 8-6 lead after eight minutes, led the rest of the way and broke the ragged contest wide open with 10 minutes left. The halftime score was 28-19.

The defending ACC champion Terps, who now have lost five in a row scored on only 14 of 53 attempts from the floor for a dismal 26 per cent. State, on the other hand hit on 23 out of 68 for 34 per cent.

A crowd of 9,000, watching the comedy of errors in Reynolds Coliseum, saw State's John Richter garner 13 points to run his three-year total to 1,005.

Senior George Stepanovich was high scorer for the winners with 20.

Maryland's leader was Charles McNeil who tallied 10 points—all in the first half.

State, second to North Carolina in the conference standings, ran its ACC record to 12 victories against only one defeat. Over-all the Pack has won 18 out of 20.

Cuba Chalks Up Fourth Win In Caracas Series

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Cuba chalked up its fourth victory in five games in the Caribbean baseball championship Saturday night with a 5-2 victory over winless Panama.

Venezuela (3-1) met Puerto Rico (2-2) in the second game of the doubleheader.

Two runs in the eighth inning put the game out of Cuba's reach. A double by Bob Allison, Washington rookie, started the rally. After an infield hit Sandy Amoros, Los Angeles Dodgers farmhand, drove both men in with a single.

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Bug Brush, a fashionable filly, scored an upset victory over the favored Hillsdale Saturday and set a world record in winning the $58,100 San Antonio Handicap at Santa Anita Park.

The battle was a three or four horse affair for the early stages but in the final stages settled down into a real struggle between the colt and the filly.

The Poltex Stable's Terrang got third in a photo finish over Seaneen.

Bug Brush returned $15.10, $5.50 and $4.40; Hillsdale $3.20 and $2.60, and Terrang $6.

Scribe Says Public Wants Miss. State In Tournament

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — A Jackson sports editor says public sentiment in Mississippi — contrary to public policy — favors allowing Mississippi State to accept a likely invitation to compete against racially integrated teams for the national basketball championship.

State Times sports editor Jimmie McDowell asked for the views of readers after Mississippi State defeated top - ranked Kentucky Monday. The win put State in the lead for the Southeastern Conference's berth in the certain-to-be-integrated NCAA tournament.

Although there is no statute concerning competition with Negroes, there is a strong state policy against Mississippi teams competing with integrated teams.

McDowell said five of every six letters he received said the team should be allowed to go to the tourney. He printed excerpts from 19 of the letters in Sunday's State Times.

One reader described himself as "A LIFETIME Mississippian, a segregationist and a good Southern Baptist." But his letter said "arguments that State shouldn't play are childish, stupid and utterly ridiculous."

Several of the letters said integrated competition should never be permitted in Mississippi but that teams from Mississippi should be allowed to compete against Negroes outside the state.

Said one letter: "When in Rome, do as the Romans do."

One letter suggested that Mississippi's "politicians are afraid to stick their necks out on this" for fear of being regarded as favoring integration. "It would be a shame if they (the team) don't get to go," said the letter.

"When is Mississippi going to wake up to the facts of life?" asked another letter favoring the team's going.

Another letter said participation in the nationally-televised tournament "would bring well-deserved publicity to Mississippi."

"Let's dust away these old-fashioned, biased cobwebs and let Mississippi State show what they can really do," suggested one reader.

Next to Mississippi State, defending NCAA champ Kentucky is regarded as the team with the best chance of getting an invitation to the tourney from the SEC.

Southern Loop Slated To Open Play April 10

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Southern Association, with a brand new member in the Shreveport Sports, opens its season April 10 and league president Charlie Hurth isn't pessimistic over the outlook.

The opening day's schedule April 10 finds Shreveport at Atlanta, Memphis at Birmingham, Mobile at Nashville and Chattanooga at New Orleans.

The second round of openers is somewhat complicated because of the delay in opening Mobile's new ball park. Mobile will move on to Chattanooga while Birmingham goes to Memphis, Atlanta goes to Shreveport.

Shreveport was a charter member of the league when it was formed in 1901. After seven years in the league, the Shreveport franchise was transferred to Mobile and the Atlanta game April 17 will be the first Southern Assn. game played in Shreveport since 1907.

STRAIGHT CASH DEAL

Giants' Lockman Dealt To Orioles

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The San Francisco Giants broke another link with the past Saturday when the sold Whitey Lockman, their oldest player in point of service, to the Baltimore Orioles for an undisclosed sum.

Club secretary Eddie Brannick announced the deal.

Lee MacPhail, Baltimore's general manager, said that Lockman of proven major league ability to back up Bob Boyd."

The blond veteran completed his 14th season with the transplanted New Yorkers last year when he batted .238 as a pinch - hitter and utility player. He had come to terms with San Francisco for the 1959 season.

Whitey, 32, came to the Giants in 1945 from their Jersey City farm club and smashed a home run his first time at bat as a major leaguer. That launched an era with the team which saw him splitting his duties between first base and the outfield in the early years. Later he functioned in the utility roles.

Saturday's transaction does not mark the first time the Giants have dealt him away. In June of 1956 he was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals as part of a nine player deal. The Cards traded him back to the Giants for knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm in February of 1957.

Lockman, who runs a children's shop during the winter in native Charlotte, N. C., gave the club a lift on several occasions last season despite his low average.

He took over first base for a spell when Orlando Cepeda, the National League's rookie of the year, began to tire. Whitey came up with several fielding gems at his old position. Manager Bill Rigney later moved him over to second base late in the season as Danny O'Connell's hitting went irto a spin.

Lockman was idle throughout virtually the entire 1947 season when he broke an ankle on April 8 during an exhibition game against the Cleveland Indians and only saw action on two occasions as a pinch hitter late that year.

The trim southpaw comes to the Orioles with a lifetime batting average of about .280. He had his biggest season with the Giants in 1949 when he bated .301 in 151 games.

Cooper Widens San Juan Lead

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) —Pete Cooper of Lakeland, Fla., took a commanding lead in Puerto Rico's $7,500 Open Golf Tournament Saturday when he shot the third round in three-under-par 69 for a 54-hole score of 210.

From a one-stroke lead at the halfway mark, the 44-year-old Floridian widened his margin to seven strokes. Tied for second at 217 were Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Ed Oliver of Denver and Jose Rodriguez of Puerto Rico.

The final 18 holes will be played Sunday.

Cooper currently is in second place in total points for the Caribbean circuit. He won the Panama Open and finished third in the Venezuela Tournament. The winner of the circuit's trophy, which will be decided after the Jamaica Open later this month, will pick up $1,400.

Don January of Denver, winner of the Venezuelan Open and runner-up at Panama, has 42 points as the leader and Cooper 41.

Saturday Cooper shot a two-under-par 33 on the first nine. His card included three birdies and one bogey. He was one under on the back nine.

January was even hotter on the first nine at the Berwind Country Club. His 32 included one eagle and a birdie. But on the final nine he fell back, when he hit a ditch a couple of times and had to take two penalty shots.

Penrose, Streit Capture Mixed Tourney Crown

JUPITER, Fla. (AP) — Jack Penrose of Miami Beach and Marlene Streit of Toronto breezed through the finals of the National Amateur Mixed Foursomes Golf Tournament Saturday with a smashing 10 and 9 victory over Howard Everitt of Northfield, N. J., and Roma Neudorf of Toronto.

Penrose and Mrs Streit, both of whom have won the mixed foursomes previously with different partners, had a four-hole lead going into the last 18 holes of the 36-hole finals.

The losers were five over par for the first nine as their game fell apart. They lost the first hole when Everitt, of Middle Atlantic and Pennsylvania Amateur champion, missed a 15-inch putt and were six down after the third hole.

The winners took the first six holes and then halved the next three to close out the finals after 27 holes.

Techmen Face Crucial Tests In Final Tilts

RUSTON, La (Special —Every Gulf States Conference game played by Louisiana Tech, Northwestern State and Southwestern Louisiana from now on are crucial ones, with Tech opening the week's action against Southeastern here Monday night.

SLI's sharpshooters downed Tech 70-62 in Lafayette Friday night to tighten up the race. SLC, McNeese State and Northeast are out of the race, but can easily assume spoilers's roles now.

Tech still leads the loop with a 6-1 mark with SLI and NSC deadlocked for second with 4-2 records, not counting the Demon's crucial contest with McNeese in Lake Charles Saturday night.

A loss to Southeastern Monday night could put the Techmen in a precarious position, for they go on the road to face NSC in Natchitoches Saturday night. Tech also faces Centenary here Wednesday night in a non-loop fray. The Bulldogs close out league play Feb. 28 against Northeast in Monroe.

SLI has four loop games left, two against Northeast, one at home and one away, one in Lake Charles against McNeese and one in Lafayette against the Demons. SLI and McNeese play Feb. 17. The SLI-NSC contest in Lafayette Feb. 27 will undoubtedly eliminate one of the teams from running, if McNeese hasn't pulled off that trick by that time. Besides the Tech tilt in Natchitoches Saturday night, the Demons must also meet SLC in Natchitoches, Feb. 25.

BREAKS PAR AGAIN

Louise Suggs In Five-Stroke Lead

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., whipped par Saturday for the third straight time to boost her lead to five strokes in the $7,500 St. Petersburg Women's Open Golf Tournament.

The brunette perfectionist fired a 2-under-par over the Sunset Golf and Country Club course. It matched her first round card and was one shot better thtn the 70 she turned in Friday. The final round will be played Sunday.

Jackie Pung of Daly City, Calif., clung to second place through 54 holes with a 213. Two strokes back in third was Mickey Wright, power hitter playing out of Bonita, Calif. Then came Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., at 217.

Misses Pung, Wright and Ziske all shot one-over-par 72s.

The lead piled up by Miss Suggs assured her of a large chunk of prize money. It would take a complete disaster to keep her from picking up the winner's slice of $1,200.

Ruthie Jessen of Seattle, Wash., winner of the recent Tampa Women's Open, and Patty Berg, the veteran from St. Andrews, Ill., got home in a tie for fifth at 219. Miss Jessen shot a third round 73 and Miss Berg took a 71.

GRID SCHEDULE

Wildcats To Play Two Newcomers

PINEVILLE, La. (Special) — Two new opponents are on Louisiana College's attractive 10-game 1959 football schedule, announced this week by Harold Knight, new athletic director and head gridiron mentor.

These are Southwestern Louisiana Institute's Bulldogs, who will be played in Pineville Oct. 24, and East Central Oklahoma State, which will be met at Ada, Okla., Nov. 7.

For the first time in three years, the Wildcats will open their pigskin card on the road, meeting Jacksonville State Teachers at Jacksonville, Ala., Sept. 12.

The following Saturday night (Sept. 19) will find the Knightmen prying open their Pineville slate against invading Mississippi College's Choctaws.

There will be four other home engagements, which will give the L.C.'ers one of the most attractive Pineville cards in recent years.

Besides Mississippi College, these Alumni Field adversaries include Northwestern (La.) State Oct. 3, Texas Lutheran Oct. 17, and McNeese State Oct. 31.

Other away-from-home settos will be against Corpus Christi University at Corpus Christi, Tex., Oct. 10, and Northeast Louisiana at Monroe Nov. 14. This latter tiff will again close the 1959 'Cat schedule.

The '59 schedule follows:

Sept. 12 — Jacksonville State Teachers, Jacksonville, Ala.

Sept. 19 — Mississippi College, Pineville.

Sept. 26 — Livingston State Teachers, Livingston, Ala.

Oct. 3 — Northwestern, Pineville.

Oct. 10 — Corpus Christi, Corpus Christi, Tex.

Oct. 17 — Texas Lutheran, Pineville.

Oct. 24 — Southwestern, Pineville.

Oct. 31 — McNeese, Pineville.

Nov. 7 — East Central Oklahoma, Ada, Okla.

Nov. 14 — Northeast, Monroe.

Tenacious In Mark-Setting LeComte Win

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Joe W. Brown's Tenacious cracked the Fair Grounds record for a mile and one-sixteenth Saturday with a three-length victory in the $12,275 LeComte Handicap.

The good-looking 5-year-old was timed in 1:43, four-fifths of a second better than the track standard.

T. A. Grissom's Shoerullah took runner-up honors while Reverie Knoll Farm's Jet Colonel, the second choice of the 13,518 fans, was third

Jockey Ray Broussard again rode the son of Challedon and the Brown color bearer returned $5.20 $3.60 and $2.80. Shoerullah paid $6 40 and $3.60, while Jet Colonel returned $2.80.

Broussard held Tenacious well back in the pack, as is his custom during the early running, while Jet Colonel, Shoerullah and W. Hal Bishop's Hare Raising cut out a torrid pace.

Tenacious began his move around the final turn and he caught the leaders in the stretch to pull away without any urging from Broussard.

Jet Colonel held on for a two-length margin for the place spot while Shoerullah edge Circle "K" Farm's On The Job, the field long shot, for the show position.

The victory was almost a carbon copy of last week's Louisiana Handicap when Tenacious cut down the leaders with a withering stretch charge for a two lengths triumph.

The victory Saturday was worth $8,450 to Tenacious, who now looms as the early favorite for the $50,000 added New Orleans Handicap on Feb. 28.

Hialeah Turf Cup Captured By Tudor Era

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Herbert Herff's Tudor Era led nearly all the way Saturday and won the $99,150 Hialeah Turf Cup by 3½ lengths over Hasty House Farm's Ekaba.

Mahan, stablemate of Ekaba, was third and Brae Burn Farm's General Arthur finished fourth in the field of 13 grass runners.

Time for the mile and a half race was 2:29 4-5, two seconds slower than the track and Turf Cup record set by Tartan Stable's Meeting last year.

Tudor Era, carrying 114 pounds and ridden by Pete Anderson, was past time favorite and paid $6.70, $4.00 and $3.50.

Ekaba, ridden by Kenny Church, and Mahan, with Sammy Beulmetis up, paid $4.10 and $4.30. The winner and the Hasty House two-horse entry each carried 114 pounds.

General Arthur, winner of the Bougainvillea Turf Handicap two weeks ago, and sharing top weight of 123 pounds with Anselmo A. Dorato's Petare, finished strongly to take fourth money but could not overtake the leaders.

Greentree Stable's Pop Corn was first out of the gate with Adele L. Rand's Waterford 2nd and Petare in close pursuit. Tudor Era began moving up quickly and by the time they made the far turn the first time, the 6-year-old son of Owen Tudor was in front.

Auburn Routs LSU To Set Team Record

AUBURN, Ala. (AP)—Fourth-ranked Auburn pulled all the stops and trampled Louisiana State, 115-67, setting a team scoring record for its 29th straight victory Saturday night.

Coach Joel Eaves' team broke their all-time scoring record set at 111 points against Florence State earlier this season, and erased by 16 points their previous high against an SEC opponent.

This same LSU team in 1957 and Georgia Tech last season were victims of 99-point scores by the Tigers.

Henry Hart hit 20 points for Auburn—17 of them in the first half—while Jimmy Lee added 17 points and David Vaughn and Jimmy Fibbe had 15 each.

LSU was paced by Lynn Moon, who had 21 points and Phil Raisor with 16 points. Tommy Raborn got hot late to add 15 points.

From the field, Auburn hit 59.4 per cent on 41 of 69 attempts. The losers merely kept pace in the first half with a 40.4 per fent, but dropped to 31.5 per cent at the games end.

In the early going, the score changed hands four times before Auburn went ahead to stay, 9-8 on a layup by Rex Frederick with three minutes gone. Auburn then began to pull steadily ahead, and racked up a tremendous 63-43 halftime edge.

Hart was the big first-half scorer with 17, and his fellow guard, Jimmy Lee, had 11.

The final score constituted Auburn's biggest lead, a 48-point margin.

Sub center Bill Gregory broke Auburn's previous SEC high with a hook shot that made it 100-59 with five minutes remaining.

The third team center, Tommy Henderson, put in a layup to break Auburn's all-time total at 113-67, with eight seconds remaining.

Auburn is 10-0 in SEC, and 18-0 over-all this season, and goes after its 30th victory against Tulane here Monday night.

McNeese Nips NSC, 52 To 50, In Overtime

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — Don Troutman scored eitht points in overtime Saturday night to lead McNeese to a 52-50 Gulf States Conference upset over Northwestern.

Troutman's two field goals and four free throws in overtime gave him a game total of 15 points and the scoring lead for his team. Jimmy Leach led NSC with 17.

The score was tied 42-42 at the end of regulation time.

McNeese led 19-18 after the first half, dropped behind by five points afte. eight minutes of the second half, but rallied to regain the lead at 34-31 with nine minutes left. In the final five minutes the score was tied three times.

The game left McNeese with a 4-4 conference record and NSC with a 4-3 mark.

KASKO PULLS UPSET — Eddie Kasko of the Cincinnati Reds blasts out of a sandtrap on the fourth en route to a 1-up upset of three-time winner Alvin Dark of the Cubs in the Baseball Players Golf Tournament at Miami. Kasko won on the 19th hole. (AP Wirephoto).

Dark Defeated In Ballplayers Meet

By JOE REICHLER

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Defending champion Albie Pearson advanced to the semifinal round of the Baseball Players' Golf Tournament at Miami Springs Saturday as Alvin Dark, the favorite, was upset by Eddie Kasko, a newcomer to the tourney.

Pearson, the diminutive Washington Senators outfielder, eliminated Mayo Smith 1-up when the new Cincinnati manager missed an 18-inch putt on the 18th hole.

Kasko, a former teammate of Dark at St. Louis but now with the Reds, also won 1-up, on the 19th hole, after Dark had forced the match into overtime by winning the 16th and 18th holes.

Pearson will meet Jim Hearn, Philadelphia pitcher, in the semifinal round Sunday. Hearn ousted Al Vincent, Baltimore coach, 5-4. Kasko's opponent in the other semifinal round will be Manager Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox who defeated Billy Herman, Milwaukee coach, 3-2.

The winners of the morning's semifinal round will play for the championship in the afternoon.

Dark, Chicago Cubs third baseman and a three time winner of this event, was clearly off his game while Kasko played steadily if not spectacularly.

The 26-year-old Kasko, who incidentally will celebrate his first wedding anniversary Sunday, has been playing only six years. He defeated Yogi Berra 2-1 in the first round after qualifying with an 81.

Pearson, who shot a 76, had to win the last two holes to eliminate Smith.

Moore's Goal Puts Montreal Over Boston

BOSTON (AP)—Dickie Moore's 29th goal of the National Hockey League season provided Montreal with a rugged 2-1 victory over the Boston Bruins Saturday.

Moore drove his shot into an open net midway of the final period on the power play while Boston's Leo Boivin was in the penalty box for a disputed holding penalty.

Jean Beliveau shot first and sent goalie Don Simmons down for a save. Moore then retrieved the loose puck and fired.

The goal came 17 seconds after Referee Eddie Powers sent Boivin off for holding Canadiens' Henri Richard. The Bruins and 13-336 Boston Garden fans argued violently that Richard had done the holding—but to no availa.

Bruins defenseman and Captain Fernie Flaman drew a 10-minute misconduct for his remarks to Powers on the goal.

The outcome cooled off the Boston club whose blazing pace had carried them to four triumphs and only two losses in 14 entering this internationally televised meeting.

Intramural Cage Play At College Draws To Close

Northeast's intramural basketball competition is drawing to a close with three teams still undefeated, the Tar-Shirts (6-0) of the Independent League and the Pershing Rifles (4-0) and the BSU (3-0) of the Organizational League.

Levy Redden of Farmerville and Jack Tarver of Jena are leading the Tar-Shirts' attack while Larry Tilley of Monroe is pacing BSU and Larry Furlow of West Monroe is leading the Rifles.

League play will be over Feb. 26. Champions of the two leagues will meet in a playoff for the intramural championship.

BREAKS PAR AGAIN

Louise Suggs In Five-Stroke Lead

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., whipped par Saturday for the third straight time to boost her lead to five strokes in the $7,500 St. Petersburg Women's Open Golf Tournament.

The brunette perfectionist fired a 2-under-par over the Sunset Golf and Country Club course. It matched her first round card and was one shot better thtn the 70 she turned in Friday. The final round will be played Sunday.

Jackie Pung of Daly City, Calif., clung to second place through 54 holes with a 213. Two strokes back in third was Mickey Wright, power hitter playing out of Bonita, Calif. Then came Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., at 217.

Misses Pung, Wright and Ziske all shot one-over-par 72s.

The lead piled up by Miss Suggs assured her of a large chunk of prize money. It would take a complete disaster to keep her from picking up the winner's slice of $1,200.

Ruthie Jessen of Seattle, Wash., winner of the recent Tampa Women's Open, and Patty Berg, the veteran from St. Andrews, Ill., got home in a tie for fifth at 219. Miss Jessen shot a third round 73 and Miss Berg took a 71.

Auburn Routs LSU To Set Team Record

AUBURN, Ala. (AP)—Fourth-ranked Auburn pulled all the stops and trampled Louisiana State, 115-67, setting a team scoring record for its 29th straight victory Saturday night.

Coach Joel Eaves' team broke their all-time scoring record set at 111 points against Florence State earlier this season, and erased by 16 points their previous high against an SEC opponent.

This same LSU team in 1957 and Georgia Tech last season were victims of 99-point scores by the Tigers.

Henry Hart hit 20 points for Auburn—17 of them in the first half—while Jimmy Lee added 17 points and David Vaughn and Jimmy Fibbe had 15 each.

LSU was paced by Lynn Moon, who had 21 points and Phil Raisor with 16 points. Tommy Raborn got hot late to add 15 points.

From the field, Auburn hit 59.4 per cent on 41 of 69 attempts. The losers merely kept pace in the first half with a 40.4 per fent, but dropped to 31.5 per cent at the games end.

In the early going, the score changed hands four times before Auburn went ahead to stay, 9-8 on a layup by Rex Frederick with three minutes gone. Auburn then began to pull steadily ahead, and racked up a tremendous 63-43 halftime edge.

Hart was the big first-half scorer with 17, and his fellow guard, Jimmy Lee, had 11.

The final score constituted Auburn's biggest lead, a 48-point margin.

Sub center Bill Gregory broke Auburn's previous SEC high with a hook shot that made it 100-59 with five minutes remaining.

The third team center, Tommy Henderson, put in a layup to break Auburn's all-time total at 113-67, with eight seconds remaining.

Auburn is 10-0 in SEC, and 18-0 over-all this season, and goes after its 30th victory against Tulane here Monday night.

GRID SCHEDULE

Wildcats To Play Two Newcomers

PINEVILLE, La. (Special) — Two new opponents are on Louisiana College's attractive 10-game 1959 football schedule, announced this week by Harold Knight, new athletic director and head gridiron mentor.

These are Southwestern Louisiana Institute's Bulldogs, who will be played in Pineville Oct. 24, and East Central Oklahoma State, which will be met at Ada, Okla., Nov. 7.

For the first time in three years, the Wildcats will open their pigskin card on the road, meeting Jacksonville State Teachers at Jacksonville, Ala., Sept. 12.

The following Saturday night (Sept. 19) will find the Knightmen prying open their Pineville slate against invading Mississippi College's Choctaws.

There will be four other home engagements, which will give the L.C.'ers one of the most attractive Pineville cards in recent years.

Besides Mississippi College, these Alumni Field adversaries include Northwestern (La.) State Oct. 3, Texas Lutheran Oct. 17, and McNeese State Oct. 31.

Other away-from-home settos will be against Corpus Christi University at Corpus Christi, Tex., Oct. 10, and Northeast Louisiana at Monroe Nov. 14. This latter tiff will again close the 1959 'Cat schedule.

The '59 schedule follows:

Sept. 12 — Jacksonville State Teachers, Jacksonville, Ala.
Sept. 19 — Mississippi College, Pineville.
Sept. 26 — Livingston State Teachers, Livingston, Ala.

Tenacious In Mark-Setting LeComte Win

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Joe W. Brown's Tenacious cracked the Fair Grounds record for a mile and one-sixteenth Saturday with a three-length victory in the $12,275 LeComte Handicap.

The good-looking 5-year-old was timed in 1:43, four-fifths of a second better than the track standard.

T. A. Grissom's Shoerullah took runner-up honors while Reverie Knoll Farm's Jet Colonel, the second choice of the 13,518 fans, was third

Jockey Ray Broussard again rode the son of Challedon and the Brown color bearer returned $5.20 $3.60 and $2.80. Shoerullah paid $6 40 and $3.60, while Jet Colonel returned $2.80.

Broussard held Tenacious well back in the pack, as is his custom during the early running, while Jet Colonel, Shoerullah and W. Hal Bishop's Hare Raising cut out a torrid pace.

Tenacious began his move around the final turn and he caught the leaders in the stretch to pull away without any urging from Broussard.

Jet Colonel held on for a two-length margin for the place spot while Shoerullah edge Circle "K" Farm's On The Job, the field long shot, for the show position.

The victory was almost a carbon copy of last week's Louisiana Handicap when Tenacious cut down the leaders with a withering stretch charge for a two lengths triumph.

The victory Saturday was worth $8,450 to Tenacious, who now looms as the early favorite for the $50,000 added New Orleans Handicap on Feb. 28.

Hialeah Turf Cup Captured By Tudor Era

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Herbert Herff's Tudor Era led nearly all the way Saturday and won the $99,150 Hialeah Turf Cup by 3½ lengths over Hasty House Farm's Ekaba.

Mahan, stablemate of Ekaba, was third and Brae Burn Farm's General Arthur finished fourth in the field of 13 grass runners.

Time for the mile and a half race was 2:29 4-5, two seconds slower than the track and Turf Cup record set by Tartan Stable's Meeting last year.

Tudor Era, carrying 114 pounds and ridden by Pete Anderson, was past time favorite and paid $6.70, $4.00 and $3.50.

Ekaba, ridden by Kenny Church, and Mahan, with Sammy Beulmetis up, paid $4.10 and $4.30. The winner and the Hasty House two-horse entry each carried 114 pounds.

General Arthur, winner of the Bougainvillea Turf Handicap two weeks ago, and sharing top weight of 123 pounds with Anselmo A. Dorato's Petare, finished strongly to take fourth money but could not overtake the leaders.

Greentree Stable's Pop Corn was first out of the gate with Adele L. Rand's Waterford 2nd and Petare in close pursuit. Tudor Era began moving up quickly and by the time they made the far turn the first time, the 6-year-old son of Owen Tudor was in front.

McNeese Nips NSC, 52 To 50, In Overtime

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — Don Troutman scored eitht points in overtime Saturday night to lead McNeese to a 52-50 Gulf States Conference upset over Northwestern.

Troutman's two field goals and four free throws in overtime gave him a game total of 15 points and the scoring lead for his team. Jimmy Leach led NSC with 17.

The score was tied 42-42 at the end of regulation time.

McNeese led 19-18 after the first half, dropped behind by five points afte. eight minutes of the second half, but rallied to regain the lead at 34-31 with nine minutes left. In the final five minutes the score was tied three times.

The game left McNeese with a 4-4 conference record and NSC with a 4-3 mark.

Dark Defeated In Ballplayers Meet

By JOE REICHLER

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Defending champion Albie Pearson advanced to the semifinal round of the Baseball Players' Golf Tournament at Miami Springs Saturday as Alvin Dark, the favorite, was upset by Eddie Kasko, a newcomer to the tourney.

Pearson, the diminutive Washington Senators outfielder, eliminated Mayo Smith 1-up when the new Cincinnati manager missed an 18-inch putt on the 18th hole.

Kasko, a former teammate of Dark at St. Louis but now with the Reds, also won 1-up, on the 19th hole, after Dark had forced the match into overtime by winning the 16th and 18th holes.

Pearson will meet Jim Hearn, Philadelphia pitcher, in the semifinal round Sunday. Hearn ousted Al Vincent, Baltimore coach, 5-4. Kasko's opponent in the other semifinal round will be Manager Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox who defeated Billy Herman, Milwaukee coach, 3-2.

The winners of the morning's semifinal round will play for the championship in the afternoon.

Dark, Chicago Cubs third baseman and a three time winner of this event, was clearly off his game while Kasko played steadily if not spectacularly.

The 26-year-old Kasko, who incidentally will celebrate his first wedding anniversary Sunday, has been playing only six years. He defeated Yogi Berra 2-1 in the first round after qualifying with an 81.

Pearson, who shot a 76, had to win the last two holes to eliminate Smith.

Moore's Goal Puts Montreal Over Boston

BOSTON (AP)—Dickie Moore's 29th goal of the National Hockey League season provided Montreal with a rugged 2-1 victory over the Boston Bruins Saturday.

Moore drove his shot into an open net midway of the final period on the power play while Boston's Leo Boivin was in the penalty box for a disputed holding penalty.

Jean Beliveau shot first and sent goalie Don Simmons down for a save. Moore then retrieved the loose puck and fired.

The goal came 17 seconds after Referee Eddie Powers sent Boivin off for holding Canadiens' Henri Richard. The Bruins and 13-336 Boston Garden fans argued violently that Richard had done the holding—but to no availa.

Bruins defenseman and Captain Fernie Flaman drew a 10-minute misconduct for his remarks to Powers on the goal.

The outcome cooled off the Boston club whose blazing pace had carried them to four triumphs and only two losses in 14 entering this internationally televised meeting.

Intramural Cage Play At College Draws To Close

Northeast's intramural basketball competition is drawing to a close with three teams still undefeated, the Tar-Shirts (6-0) of the Independent League and the Pershing Rifles (4-0) and the BSU (3-0) of the Organizational League.

Levy Redden of Farmerville and Jack Tarver of Jena are leading the Tar-Shirts' attack while Larry Tilley of Monroe is pacing BSU and Larry Furlow of West Monroe is leading the Rifles.

League play will be over Feb. 26. Champions of the two leagues will meet in a playoff for the intramural championship.

FEW DISCORDANT NOTES

Business Gains Hit Normal Pace

By WILLIAM FERRIS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With the sharp upsurge from recession lows over, the business recovery is now proceeding at a more leisurely pace. This is normal.

The numerous indices used to measure business showed again this week that economic conditions are healthier than at this time last year. That's not surprising because business last February had declined so steeply everyone knew there was a recession.

In the latest week department store sales ran 9 per cent above last year, power companies turned out 8 per cent more electricity, banks cleared 18½ per cent more checks, railroads loaded 6 per cent more freight cars and steel mills turned out more steel than at any time in nearly two years.

There were a few discordant items. The stock market at times continued to experience February jitters, an affliction common at this time of year to markets in which speculation is a factor. But the market displayed substantial recovery power after a Monday price break.

Stock sales totaled 14,792,690 shares compared to 16,140,757 shares in the previous week and 10,002,565 in the corresponding 1958 week.

Bond sales hit $30,560,000 in the latest week against $31,744,000 for the week before and $21,999,000 in the same week last year.

Undoubtedly the most disturbing statistic, however, was the figure on unemployment.

The government reported that unemployment in January rose by 616,000 to 4,724,000, highest for any January since before World War II. It was 230,000 higher than in January last year.

This prompted George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, to comment, "Joblessness is still America's No. 1 problem, despite other signs we are pulling out of this recession."

There could hardly be any arguing with this statement, although it should be noted that unemployment is down since last June, when it totaled 5,437,000. The basic trend, despite the seasonal upturn in January, has been down since June.

Nevertheless, it appears the belt-tightening undertaken by business during the recession means less manpower is now needed to turn out the same amount of goods—or even more goods — than before the recession.

This presents a ticklish problem in view of the government's commitment to a full employment policy.

There are happier things to look at. In the South beginning Monday about 300,000 cloth mill workers will begin receiving higher wages. Several big textile companies announced wage hikes this past week.

A portent of declining food costs came out of the livestock market in Chicago, where hog prices sank to the lowest level in two years. A big supply of cattle also is building up in the country.

The prospect of lower oil prices was enhanced when British Petroleum Co. Ltd. cut the price of Mideast crude oil. Previously, there had been cuts in parts of the United States and in Venezuela.

Marcus Aurelius, administrative vice president of U. S. Steel Co., suggested something ought to be done to iron out the peaks and valleys of business cycles, particularly as they are caused by inventory build-ups and liquidation.

"Anything that we can do to temper the inventory cycle cannot but add to the economic well-being of our nation," steel executive said. He made no concrete suggestions, but even thinking along these lines is a long way from the "let-'er-rip" policy associated with the old time steel barons.

Briefly over the business scene: Private airplane buyers paid an average of $21,048 for their planes last year... Check handlers at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York were busy this week drying out 21 million dollars worth of checks. The checks were recovered from the East River, where they crashed with an American Airlines plane last week... Quote of the week, by Walter Reuther, president of the AFL-CIO United Auto Workers: "If the stock market goes up a great deal, that's a shuffling of papers. It doesn't build any steel mills."... Four black mice completed tests at the school of aviation research at Randolph Air Force Base, Texas, and are now ready to be the first space travelers to orbit the world in a U. S. vehicle.

Grains Show Broad Gains Second Week

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market played a rare performance this week. With more bullish than bearish influences, it extended a large majority of broad gains through a second successive week for the first time in months.

Some setbacks were broad, too, but they were few and limited to the distant rye and soybean deliveries which were subjected at times to rather active speculative trading.

All gains were even broader than last week's generally firm market which had the support of considerably more export business. However, the trade seemed more inclined this week to be guided by longer range influences.

Among these were the possibility next week of a bullish government report on the amount of grains and soybeans placed in the loan program as of Jan. 31. Another was the announcement expected soon from the Department of Agriculture on the price support for soybeans under the new and lower parity formula.

At the end of the week, wheat was ¾-2½ cents a bushel higher than a week ago, March $2.00½-⅜; corn ½-1⅛ higher, March old type contract $1.14⅞; oats ⅝ lower to ½ higher, March 66 cents; rye 1⅝ higher to 2⅝ lower, March $1.38¼, and soybeans 1 cent higher to ¾ lower, March $2.20⅝-¾.

Treasury Artist Change Style On New Pennies

WASHINGTON (AP) — No, the government didn't make a mistake on the new Lincoln pennies now going into general circulation. Some folks took a look at them and decided somebody goofed.

The new penny, in production since Jan. 2, has a new "tails" side which shows the Lincoln Memorial. At the top is the legend, "United States oF America."

Because the "o" in the word "oF" is a small letter whereas all the other are capitals, some people thought an error was made.

Officials said the coin was designed that way, even though all the letters on the old Lincoln pennies were capitals.

Cotton Futures Contracts Show Gains For Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton prices moved irregularly last week, but closed in moderately firmer ground.

Futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange showed net gains of 5 cents on the October delivery to $2.05 on the nearby July.

Sustaining factors included price fixing, mill buying and demand based on the possibility of a tight "free" supply situation later in the season.

Offerings were furnished by profit taking, light hedge selling and liquidation. The latter was inspired by a further decline in weekly loan entries.

Loan entries during the week ended Feb. 6 were placed by the Commodity Credit Corp. At only 118,000 bales vs. 156,000 a week previously and 242,000 two weeks previous. For the season through Feb. 6, entries totaled 6,452,000 bales, of which 113,000 had been repossessed.

For the weekly period ended Tuesday, exports approximated only 40,000 bales, according to the New York Cotton Exchange service bureau. This compared with 42,000 bales the previous week and 130,000 bales last year. For the season through Feb. 10, exports totaled 1,650,000 bales last year. For the season through Feb. 10, exports totaled 1,650,000 bales against 3,000,000 a year ago.

Chrysler Readying Alumnium Engines

By JACK VANCENBERG
UPI Automoitve Editor

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp., will have aluminum engines ready for use on its standard-sized cars in about 18 months, suppliers of the automotive firm said Saturday.

The sources, tool and die representatives and other suppliers, said Chrysler would have both six and eight-cylinder aluminum engines ready for use on the 1961 model cars it will introduce late in 1960.

The other major auto companies will not be able to match Chrysler's aluminum engines until at least mid-1961, the sources said.

Chrysler is developing a six-cylinder aluminum engine of conventional design in hopes of using it on the small car it plans to introduce early in 1960, UPI was told.

Development of the engine could delay introduction of the Chrysler small car beyond the date its major competitors, General Motors and Ford, will introduce their smaller models, the source said. But it will give Chrysler an edge in the use of aluminum engines in standard-sized cars.

Chrysler's aluminum engine will have the cylinders arranged vertically "in line" and will be water cooled, the source said. This makes it easy to adapt this engine to eight cylinders and gives Chrysler the edge in putting aluminum engines in standard-sized cars.

General Motors also has developed an aluminum engine for its smaller car and has progressed farther than Chrysler in this respect, the sources said, but the GM aluminum engine is designed specially for the smaller car and has its six cylinders arranged in a horizontally-opposed position, with three cylinders on each side. It will be air cooled.

This makes the GM engine more difficult to adapt to use in a standard-sized car, especially with eight cylinders.

General Motors also has developed several experimental V-8 engines in aluminum. But so far these engines are only experimental and it will take longer to develop them for standard car use than it will take Chrysler to develop its aluminum engine.

Ford apparently is trailing farthest behind in the race to develop an aluminum engine.

The major advantages of an aluminum engine include lighter weight, which would result in greater economy; greater strength, which would permit higher compression ratios, and greater heat conductivity, which could result in a reduction of the size of the water jacket used to cool the engine.

Development of aluminum engines has been held back because a plentiful assured supply was not available until three or four years ago, because initially higher cost had to be overcome through improved technology in machining and handling of the metal, and because certain technical problems had to be solved.

CONGRESS CUTS PROPOSED

Oilmen To Battle For Tax Allowance

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — An expected congressional attack may not come until next year but oil operators are pushing plans to defend their tax depletion allowance.

Industry groups already are distribuitng material emphasizing the importance of the 27½ per cent income tax allowance bears to the finding and development of oil and gas reserves.

Congress has three bills to cut the allowance to 15 per cent. Full-scale development is not expected to develop until next year.

Two floor amendments proposing cuts were defeated in the Senate last September. Industry leaders hope any attacks this session will require full committee hearings. They believe their defense can be developed more effectively in this manner.

The Independent Petroleum Assn. of America (IPAA) has distributed the first of a series of pamphlets entitled "Oil and Gas Depletion Facts." The Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Assn. has authorized preparation of depletion data looking toward a congressional test in 1960.

The industry believes it has an ally in Secretary of the Treasury Robert Anderson, a former president of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Assn. But a recent letter from Anderson to Vice President Richard Nixon and House Speaker Sam Rayburn has caused some concern.

Anderson's letter pertained to a proposed change in calculating procedures for the depletion allowance for brick and cement industries. There is some fear this proposal could lead to a congressional hearing for these industries and be broadened to include oil and gas.

Gordon Simpson, IPAA president, recently said an increase of at least five cents a gallon in gasoline prices would be needed to make up capital requirements should the oil industry lose its 27½ per cent allowance.

IPAA's new pamphlet defends the tax allowance by quoting statistics from a report by the U.S. Bureau of Mines.

The report said total industry expenditures for finding, developing and producing oil and gas in 1955 exceeded the net value of oil and gas produced by 428 million dollars.

Industrywide expenditures for 1955 totaled $7,148,799,000. The net value of oil produced was estimated at $5,884,215,000, natural gas $836,324,000.

The expenditures included maintenance, supervision and general overhead but excluded charges for research, income taxes, payment on interest and principal, and return to investors.

Exploration and development costs totaled $5,128,465,000. IPAA said this was equivalent to $2.40 per barrel of crude oil produced in 1955.

"Based on the U.S. Bureau of Mines average wellhead price of crude oil for the year 1955 of $2.77 per barrel, the theoretical maximum percentage depletion could not have exceeded 76 cents per barrel," IPAA said. "Thus the domestic petroleum industry's exploration and development expenditures alone in 1955—not including lifting costs, taxes, etc. —totalled $2.40 per barrel or more than three times the maximum percentage depletion of 76 cents."

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special)—The Crossett Company has retained Opinion Research Corporation of Princeton, New Jersey, to conduct a public opinion survey in Crossett in order to determine local attitudes toward the company and the community.

Several representatives of the research organization will be here all of next week conducting interviews with a cross section of local citizens.

In announcing the survey, P. F. Watzek, President of The Crossett Company, said: "Opinion Research Corporation will be here at the request of The Crossett Company to conduct a survey of public opinion about our company and the community.

Industry

EROS, La. (Special) — A new industry for this locality, an egg farm, is just beginning to produce hatching eggs. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hethcox who came here last summer and settled in the Frantom Chapel community some five miles from Eros are managing the farm for their son, Lance Hethcox. The have 13,000 White Rock layers six months old this week. They have 2,000 roosters of same breed. The first egg at this plant was laid January 9. At this time some 800 per day are being produced.

Income

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special)—Net income, expenses and losses were all higher at Crossett Health Center during 1958 than in 1957, according to the institution's annual report issued by R. P. Meredith, Chairman of the Board of Governors.

Meredith pointed out that while net income increased by $24,384 over the previous year, expenses went up $31,221. The result was that the loss last year was $6,836 above 1957. At the same time, the number of patients admitted to the hospital and number of patient days were below the previous year's figures. There was an increase in the number of operations and births.

Seek Association

A petition for a Federal Savings and Loan Association, to be located in West Monroe, is to be filed soon with the Federal Home Loan Bank.

This new association will serve the entire area for home financing.

Organizers, some of whom will be on the board of directors, will pledge $25,000 to cover any operating losses which might occur within the first five years.

This pledge will also cover the dividends that are to be paid.

All accounts are to be insured up to $10,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, officials said.

Named as organizers are James Butler, Frank Chambliss, Hilton Heard, Ed Hislop, O. T. Lindsey, J. W. Roberson, Fred Riser, J. A. Norris and George Cox.

Some 14 months of planning and study have gone into the organization of the association.

One of the objectives is to offer local investors another safe and convenient way to invest at a reasonable rate of return. Another objective is to lend money for buying houses, remodeling, and making repairs on houses.

Several sites are under consideration for the location of this new institution but none has been selected. The location must be approved by the Federal Home Loan Bank.

MAY "EXPORT" DOCTORS

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — Israel may "export" some of its excess doctor population to underdeveloped countries in Asia and Africa and other areas, Health Ministry sources said Thursday. Israel would respond to requests for services of some of its doctors, the sources said, in view of a current surplus of physicians that was expected to grow the anticipated immigration. Israel now has the world's highest doctor population ratio—one doctor to each 450 residents. The United States has one doctor to every 790 persons, Jordan one to every 7,400 persons, according to United Nations statistics.

TRUST BUSTERS PROBING

General Motors Just Grows Big

By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — General Motors Corp., world's biggest automobile maker, is being investigated by the Department of Justice in what may result in a long-drawn-out, record-size anti - trust suit.

And no one has seemed to come up with anything that this six and a half billion dollar giant has done wrong except to grow big.

Goals of the trust busters seem to be to break up the company into at least two units and to separate it from its finance company, General Motors Acceptance Corp.

GM stock has been a favorite in the stock market since the company was formed in 1908. It is the biggest of the big three — GM, Ford, and Chrysler — which produce 95 per cent of all the passenger cars made. The others are turned out by two companies — Studebaker - Packard and American Motors Corp. Back in the early days of the auto industry there were some 180 car makers.

If you had purchased 100 shares of General Motors common stock in 1908 at the time of the founding of the company they would have cost you $1,000 a share or a total of $100,000.

Those 100 shares would have grown to 228,975 shares today if you had exercised your rights and retained the splitup stock. That bundle is worth $11,090,800 at today's prices for the stock.

And in addition, you would have received over the years, cash dividends of $6,548,960.90. That's a pretty good deal for 51 years of investing.

General Motors has 280 million shares of common stock outstanding at the present time, contrasted with less than a million when the company was formed. That's more than any other company. These 280 million shares are worth in the market the staggering sum of $13,440,000,000. The latter is almost double the figure the company carries as its total assets.

If you had that much money on July 1, 1932, the bottom of the depression, you could have bought 86 per cent of all the stock then listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Imagine this vast company on trial for anti-trust charges. That trial would dwarf the famous case of the Standard Oil trust which ended in dissolution for that combine in 1911.

John D. Rockefeller's Standard Oil empire involved 33 companies with a net value of $375 million with income of $94,500,000. After the dissolution, the value of this group of companies had shrunk to $285,400,000.

Today each of the companies broken off from the Standard group in 1911 is worth far more than the parent was. For example the biggest—Standard Oil Co. (N.J.)—has assets of nearly nine billion dollars, and is the biggest oil company in the world.

Back in 1911, when the Standard Oil trial was in progress, it was difficult to measure the market impact of the case because shortly after it was over we got an income tax through the passing of the 16th Amendment to the Constitution, and a little later World War I broke out in Europe, eventually dragging us into it.

After the war, the market moved up and down moderately until mid-1921 when it set off on its great bull movement that ended in the 1929 crash which ushered in the nation's deepest depression.

Through the period, the stocks of the Standard Oil companies that had been separated in 1911 moved higher as their companies expanded into giant corporations. Of course, they fell when the market broke. But their growth resumed after 1932 and it has paralleled the general market list or a little better ever since.

Thinking of the Standard Oil anti-trust case, and the value of the various stocks now, this department asked a Wall Street expert what he thought of the impending suit against General Motors and what could happen. He replied:

"I can see nothing to worry about. If they split up General Motors, I'll have stocks of two or three fine companies where now I have stock in one fine company."

Stock Prices Rally, Show Weekly Gain

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—In a critical week, the stock market stemmed a series of daily declines and worked higher.

A brisk rally on Friday pulled the fat out of the fire and gave the market a net gain on the week, interrupting two straight weekly setbacks.

The same stock market which fell a week ago despite bullish news rose this week when the news was only so-so.

Slashes in crude oil prices in the Middle East and Venezuela were a sharp blow for the oils. News that the government was trying to recover $20,000,000 of alleged excess profits from Boeing was a shock to that stock as well as other aircrafts which feared similar action. Reports that an antitrust investigation was being readied against General Motors was not reassuring to the greatest automaker.

The relatively stubborn performance of the affected stocks was heartening to the list as a whole.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $1.50 to $215.80.

The petroleum-natural gas group represents some 45 billion dollars of the approximately 280 billion worth of stock listed at current values on the Big board. Therefore the refusal of the oils to give up any more ground was encouraging from the bullish viewpoint.

Both corporate and U.S. Government bond markets firmed this week.

Among the corporates, utilities, foreign bonds and investment quality issues advanced while rails and industrials were steady. Volume for the week declined to $30,560,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange from $31,744,000 the previous week. A year ago it was $21,999,000.

Beef Producers Will Organize In Catahoula

JONESVILLE (Special) — Catahoula parish beef cattle producers will meet at 2 p.m., Tuesday to organize a parish Cattlemens association to assist in the further development of the cattle industry in the parish according to E. E. Johnson, Catahoula county agent. The meeting will be held in the courthouse at Harrisonburg.

A. P. Parhams, beef cattle specialist of Louisiana State University and secretary-treasurer of the Louisiana Cattlemens Association, will be present to assist with the organization and discuss other important facts about the beef cattle program.

Beef cattle represents the second largest source of income to farmers in Catahoula. This parish has a cattle population of approximately 30,000 head according to Mr. Johnson. The U. S. Cattle population will likely reach the 100 million mark by 1960, which represents an increase from 96.8 million head this past January.

The outlook does not indicate a price collapse because the expansion now underway has not been rapid, and also, the increased population will consume more meat it was pointed out.

"All beef cattle producers are invited to be present for this meeting," Johnson said.

FEW DISCORDANT NOTES

Business Gains Hit Normal Pace

By WILLIAM FERRIS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With the sharp upsurge from recession lows over, the business recovery is now proceeding at a more leisurely pace. This is normal.

The numerous indices used to measure business showed again this week that economic conditions are healthier than at this time last year. That's not surprising because business last February had declined so steeply everyone knew there was a recession.

In the latest week department store sales ran 9 per cent above last year, power companies turned out 8 per cent more electricity, banks cleared 18½ per cent more checks, railroads loaded 6 per cent more freight cars and steel mills turned out more steel than at any time i· nearly two years.

There were a few discordant items. The stock market at times continued to experience February jitters, an affliction common at this time of year to markets in which speculation is a factor. But the market displayed substantial recovery power after a Monday price break.

Stock sales totaled 14,792,690 shares compared to 16,140,757 shares in the previous week and 10,002,565 in the corresponding 1958 week.

Bond sales hit $30,560,000 in the latest week against $31,744,000 for the week before and $21,999,000 in the same week last year.

Undoubtedly the most disturbing statistic, however, was the figure on unemployment.

The government reported that unemployment in January rose by 616,000 to 4,724,000, highest for any January since before World War II. It was 230,000 higher than in January last year.

This prompted George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, to comment, "Joblessness is still America's No. 1 problem, despite other signs we are pulling out of this recession."

There could hardly be any arguing with this statement, although it should be noted that unemployment is down since last June, when it totaled 5,437,000. The basic trend, despite the seasonal upturn in January, has been down since June.

Nevertheless, it appears the belt-tightening undertaken by business during the recession means less manpower is now needed to turn out the same amount of goods-or even more goods — than before the recession.

This presents a ticklish problem in view of the government's commitment to a full employment policy.

There are happier things to look at. In the South beginning Monday about 300,000 cloth mill workers will begin receiving higher wages. Several big textile companies announced wage hikes this past week.

A portent of declining food costs came out of the livestork market in Chicago, where `og prices sank to the lowest level in two years. A big supply of cattle also is building up in the country.

The prospect of lower oil prices was enhanced when British Petroleum Co. Ltd. cut the price of Mideast crude oil. Previously, there had been cuts in parts of the United States and in Venezuela.

Marcus Aurelius, administrative vice president of U. S. Steel Co., suggested something ought to be done to iron out the peaks and valleys of business cycles, particularly as they are caused by inventory build-ups and liquidation.

"Anything that we can do to temper the inventory cycle cannot but add to the economic well-being of our nation," steel executive said. He made no concrete suggestions, but even thinking along these lines is a long way from the "let-'er-rip" policy associated with the old time steel barons.

Briefly over the business scene: Private airplane buyers paid an average of $21,048 for their planes last year. . . Check handlers at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York were busy this week drying out 21 million dollars worth of checks. The checks were recovered from the East River, where they crashed with an American Airlines plane last week. . . Quote of the week, by Walter Reuther, president of the AFL-CIO United Auto Workers: "If the stock market goes up a great deal, that's a shuffling of papers. It doesn't build any steel mills.". . . Four black mice completed tests at the school of aviation research at Randolph Air Force Base, Texas, and are now ready to be the first space travelers to orbit the world in a U. S. vehicle.

Grains Show Broad Gains Second Week

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market played a rare performance this week. With more bullish than bearish influences, it extended a large majority of broad gains through a second successive week for the first time in months.

Some setbacks were broad, too, but they were few and limited to the distant rye and soybean deliveries which were subjected at times to rather active speculative trading.

All gains were even broader than last week's generally firm market which had the support of considerably more export business. However, the trade seemed more inclined this week to be guided by longer range influences.

Among these were the possibility next week of a bullish government report on the amount of grains and soybeans placed in the loan program as of Jan. 31. Another was the announcement expected soon from the Department of Agriculture on the price support for soybeans under the new and lower parity formula.

At the end of the week, wheat was ¾-2½ cents a bushel higher than a week ago, March $2.00½-⅜; corn ½-1⅛ higher, March old type contract $1.14⅞; oats ⅝ lower to ½ higher, March 66 cents; rye 1⅝ higher to 2⅝ lower, March $1.38¼, and soybeans 1 cent higher to ¾ lower, March $2.20⅝-¾.

Treasury Artist Change Style On New Pennies

WASHINGTON (AP) — No, the government didn't make a mistake on the new Lincoln pennies now going into general circulation. Some folks took a look at them and decided somebody goofed.

The new penny, in production since Jan. 2, has a new "tails" side which shows the Lincoln Memorial. At the top is the legend, "United States oF America."

Because the "o" in the word "oF" is a small letter whereas all the other are capitals, some people thought an error was made.

Officials said the coin was designed that way, even though all the letters on the old Lincoln pennies were capitals.

Cotton Futures Contracts Show Gains For Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton prices moved irregularly last week, but closed in moderately firmer ground.

Futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange showed net gains of 5 cents on the October delivery to $2.05 on the nearby July.

Sustaining factors included price fixing, mill buying and demand based on the possibility of a tight "free" supply situation later in the season.

Offerings were furnished by profit taking, light hedge selling and liquidation. The latter was inspired by a further decline in weekly loan entries.

Loan entries during the week ended Feb. 6 were placed by the Commodity Credit Corp. At only 118,000 bales vs. 156,000 a week previously and 242,000 two weeks previous. For the season through Feb. 6, entries totaled 6,452,000 bales, of which 113,000 had been repossessed.

For the weekly period ended Tuesday, exports approximated only 40,000 bales, according to the New York Cotton Exchange service bureau. This compared with 42,000 bales the previous week and 130,000 bales last year. For the season through Feb. 10, exports totaled 1,650,000 bales last year. For the season through Feb. 10, exports totaled 1,650,000 bales against 3,000,000 a year ago.

FOR 1961 MODEL CARS

Chrysler Readying Alumnium Engines

By JACK VANCENBERG
UPI Automoitve Editor

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp., will have aluminum engines ready for use on its standard-sized cars in about 18 months, suppliers of the automotive firm said Saturday.

The sources, tool and die representatives and other suppliers, said Chrysler would have both six and eight-cylinder aluminum engines ready for use on the 1961 model cars it will introduce late in 1960.

The other major auto companies will not be able to match Chrysler's aluminum engines until at least mid-1961, the sources said.

Chrysler is developing a six-cylinder aluminum engine of conventional design in hopes of using it on the small car it plans to introduce early in 1960, UPI was told.

Development of the engine could delay introduction of the Chrysler small car beyond the date its major competitors, General Motors and Ford, will introduce their smaller models, the source said. But it will give Chrysler an edge in the use of aluminum engines in standard-sized cars.

Chrysler's aluminum engine will have the cylinders arranged vertically "in line" and will be water cooled, the source said. This makes it easy to adapt this engine to eight cylinders and gives Chrysler the edge in putting aluminum engines in standard-sized cars.

General Motors also has developed an aluminum engine for its smaller car and has progressed farther than Chrysler in this respect, the sources said, but the GM aluminum engine is designed specially for the smaller car and has its six cylinders arranged in a horizontally-opposed position, with three cylinders on each side. It will be air cooled.

This makes the GM engine more difficult to adapt to use in a standard-sized car, especially with eight cylinders.

General Motors also has developed several experimental V-8 engines in aluminum. But so far these engines are only experimental and it will take longer to develop them for standard car use than it will take Chrysler to develop its aluminum engine.

Ford apparently is trailing farthest behind in the race to develop an aluminum engine.

The major advantages of an aluminum engine include lighter weight, which would result in greater economy; greater strength, which would permit higher compression ratios, and greater heat conductivity, which could result in a reduction of the size of the water jacket used to cool the engine.

Development of aluminum engines has been held back because a plentiful assured supply was not available until three or four years ago, because initially higher cost had to be overcome through improved technology in machining and handling of the metal, and because certain technical problems had to be solved.

CONGRESS CUTS PROPOSED

Oilmen To Battle For Tax Allowance

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — An expected congressional attack may not come until next year but oil operators are pushing plans to defend their tax depletion allowance.

Industry groups already are distribuitng material emphasizing the importance of the 27½ per cent income tax allowance bears to the finding and development of oil and gas reserves.

Congress has three bills to cut the allowance to 15 per cent. Full-scale development is not expected to develop until next year.

Two floor amendments proposing cuts were defeated in the Senate last September. Industry leaders hope any attacks this session will require full committee hearings. They believe their defense can be developed more effectively in this manner.

The Independent Petroleum Assn. of America (IPAA) has distributed the first of a series of pamphlets entitled "Oil and Gas Depletion Facts." The Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Assn. has authorized preparation of depletion data looking toward a congressional test in 1960.

The industry believes it has an ally in Secretary of the Treasury Robert Anderson, a former president of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Assn. But a recent letter from Anderson to Vice President Richard Nixon and House Speaker Sam Rayburn has caused some concern.

Anderson's letter pertained to a proposed change in calculating procedures for the depletion allowance for brick and cement industries. There is some fear this proposal could lead to a congressional hearing for these industries and be broadened to include oil and gas.

Gordon Simpson, IPAA president, recently said an increase of at least five cents a gallon in gasoline prices would be needed to make up capital requirements should the oil industry lose its 27½ per cent allowance.

IPAA's new pamphlet defends the tax allowance by quoting statistics from a report by the U.S. Bureau of Mines.

The report said total industry expenditures for finding, developing and producing oil and gas in 1955 exceeded the net value of oil and gas produced by 428 million dollars.

Industrywide expenditures for 1955 totaled $7,148,799,000. The net value of oil produced was estimated at $5,884,215,000, natural gas $836,324,000.

The expenditures included maintenance, supervision and general overhead but excluded charges for research, income taxes, payment on interest and principal, and return to investors.

Exploration and development costs totaled $5,128,465,000. IPAA said this was equivalent to $2.40 per barrel of crude oil produced in 1955.

"Based on the U.S. Bureau of Mines average wellhead price of crude oil for the year 1955 of $2.77 per barrel, the theoretical maximum percentage depletion could not have exceeded 76 cents per barrel," IPAA said. "Thus the domestic petroleum industry's exploration and development expenditures alone in 1955—not including lifting costs, taxes, etc. — totalled $2.40 per barrel or more than three times the maximum percentage depletion of 76 cents."

Meredith pointed out that while net income increased by $24,384 over the previous year, expenses went up $31,221. The result was that the loss last year was $6,836 above 1957. At the same time, the number of patients admitted to the hospital and number of patient days were below the previous year's figures. There was an increase in the number of operations and births.

Seek Association

A petition for a Federal Savings and Loan Association, to be located in West Monroe, is to be filed soon with the Federal Home Loan Bank.

This new association will serve the entire area for home financing.

Organizers, some of whom will be on the board of directors, will pledge $25,000 to cover any operating losses which might occur within the first five years.

This pledge will also cover the dividends that are to be paid.

All accounts are to be insured up to $10,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, officials said.

Named as organizers are James Butler, Frank Chambliss, Hilton Heard, Ed Hislop, O. T. Lindsey, J. W. Roberson, Fred Riser, J. A. Norris and George Cox.

Some 14 months of planning and study have gone into the organization of the association.

One of the objectives is to offer local investors another safe and convenient way to invest at a reasonable rate of return. Another objective is to lend money for buying houses, remodeling, and making repairs on houses.

Several sites are under consideration for the location of this new institution but none has been selected. The location must be approved by the Federal Home Loan Bank.

MAY "EXPORT" DOCTORS

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — Israel may "export" some of its excess doctor population to underdeveloped countries in Asia and Africa and other areas, Health Ministry sources said Thursday. Israel would respond to requests for services of some of its doctors, the sources said, in view of a current surplus of physicians that was expected to grow the anticipated immigration. Israel now has the world's highest doctor population ratio—one doctor to each 450 residents. The United States has one doctor to every 790 persons, Jordan one to every 7,400 persons, according to United Nations statistics.

TRUST BUSTERS PROBING

General Motors Just Grows Big

By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — General Motors Corp., world's biggest automobile maker, is being investigated by the Department of Justice in what may result in a long-drawn-out, record-size anti - trust suit.

And no one has seemed to come up with anything that this six and a half billion dollar giant has done wrong except to grow big.

Goals of the trust busters seem to be to break up the company into at least two units and to separate it from its finance company, General Motors Acceptance Corp.

GM stock has been a favorite in the stock market since the company was formed in 1908. It is the biggest of the big three — GM, Ford, and Chrysler — which produce 95 per cent of all the passenger cars made. The others are turned out by two companies — Studebaker - Packard and American Motors Corp. Back in the early days of the auto industry there were some 180 car makers.

If you had purchased 100 shares of General Motors common stock in 1908 at the time of the founding of the company they would have cost you $1,000 a share or a total of $100,000.

Those 100 shares would have grown to 228,975 shares today if you had exercised your rights and retained the splitup stock. That bundle is worth $11,090,800 at today's prices for the stock.

And in addition, you would have received over the years, cash dividends of $6,548,960.90. That's a pretty good deal for 51 years of investing.

General Motors has 280 million shares of common stock outstanding at the present time, contrasted with less than a million when the company was formed. That's more than any other company. These 280 million shares are worth in the market the staggering sum of $13,440,000,000. The latter is almost double the figure the company carries as its total assets.

If you had that much money on July 1, 1932, the bottom of the depression, you could have bought 86 per cent of all the stock then listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Imagine this vast company on trial for anti-trust charges. That trial would dwarf the famous case of the Standard Oil trust which ended in dissolution for that combine in 1911.

John D. Rockefeller's Standard Oil empire involved 33 companies with a net value of $375 million with income of $94,500,000. After the dissolution, the value of this group of companies had shrunk to $285,400,000.

Today each of the companies broken off from the Standard group in 1911 is worth far more than the parent was. For example the biggest—Standard Oil Co. (N.J.)—has assets of nearly nine billion dollars, and is the biggest oil company in the world.

Back in 1911, when the Standard Oil trial was in progress, it was difficult to measure the market impact of the case because shortly after it was over we got an income tax through the passing of the 16th Amendment to the Constitution, and a little later World War I broke out in Europe, eventually dragging us into it.

After the war, the market moved up and down moderately until mid-1921 when it set off on its great bull movement that ended in the 1929 crash which ushered in the nation's deepest depression.

Through the period, the stocks of the Standard Oil companies that had been separated in 1911 moved higher as their companies expanded into giant corporations. Of course, they fell when the market broke. But their growth resumed after 1932 and it has paralleled the general market list or a little better ever since.

Thinking of the Standard Oil anti-trust case, and the value of the various stocks now, this department asked a Wall Street expert what he thought of the impending suit against General Motors and what could happen. He replied:

"I can see nothing to worry about. If they split up General Motors, I'll have stocks of two or three fine companies where now I have stock in one fine company."

Beef Producers Will Organize In Catahoula

JONESVILLE (Special) — Catahoula parish beef cattle producers will meet at 2 p.m., Tuesday to organize a parish Cattlemens association to assist in the further development of the cattle industry in the parish according to E. E. Johnson, Catahoula county agent. The meeting will be held in the courthouse at Harrisonburg.

A. P. Parhams, beef cattle specialist of Louisiana State University and secretary-treasurer of the Louisiana Cattlemens Association, will be present to assist with the organization and discuss other important facts about the beef cattle program.

Beef cattle represents the second largest source of income to farmers in Catahoula. This parish has a cattle population of approximately 30,000 head according to Mr. Johnson. The U. S. Cattle population will likely reach the 100 million mark by 1960, which represents an increase from 96.8 million head this past January.

The outlook does not indicate a price collapse because the expansion now underway has not been rapid, and also, the increased population will consume more meat it was pointed out.

"All beef cattle producers are invited to be present for this meeting," Johnson said.

Stock Prices Rally, Show Weekly Gain

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—In a critical week, the stock market stemmed a series of daily declines and worked higher.

A brisk rally on Friday pulled the fat out of the fire and gave the market a net gain on the week, interrupting two straight weekly setbacks.

The same stock market which fell a week ago despite bullish news rose this week when the news was only so-so.

Slashes in crude oil prices in the Middle East and Venezuela were a sharp blow for the oils. News that the government was trying to recover $20,000,000 of alleged excess profits from Boeing was a shock to that stock as well as other aircrafts which feared similar action. Reports that an antitrust investigation was being readied against General Motors was not reassuring to the greatest automaker.

The relatively stubborn performance of the affected stocks was heartening to the list as a whole.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $1.50 to $215.80.

The petroleum-natural gas group represents some 45 billion dollars of the approximately 280 billion worth of stock listed at current values on the Big board. Therefore the refusal of the oils to give up any more ground was encouraging from the bullish viewpoint.

Both corporate and U.S. Government bond markets firmed this week.

Among the corporates, utilities, foreign bonds and investment quality issues advanced while rails and industrials were steady. Volume for the week declined to $30,560,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange from $31,-744,000 the previous week. A year ago it was $21,999,000.

Area Students Head Campus Church Groups

Kilbourne, a farming community of 500 people in West Carroll Parish about 60 miles north of Monroe, has produced two young men, both students at Northeast State College and life-long friends who are leaders in student religious organizations on the campus.

They are Robert (Bud) Littlefield, president of the Wesley Foundation, an organization for Methodist students and Eddie Bobo, president of the Baptist Student Union.

Like most Protestant communities in North Louisiana, Kilbourne has both a Baptist and a Methodist church. In addition, despite its modest size, it also has a Pentecostal church.

The two have been friends as long as they can remember and were together all through grammar and high school, graduating together at Kilbourne High School in 1956.

Littlefield, a senior in English education, will graduate in August. He is going to Louisiana State University next fall to work on a master's degree in English education and plans to teach at a school for American military dependents in Spain. He is presently taking courses in Spanish toward that end.

A member of the Kilbourne Methodist Church, he attained the highest student position of the approximately 350 Methodist students on the campus through steady progress in those activities since coming to Northeast.

Littfield was secretary of the Wesley Foundation in his sophomore year. He attended the Methodist World Youth Conference at the University of Kansas in Christmas 1957 and the state conference of the Wesley Foundation at LSU in February 1958.

In addition to his duties as head of the Methodist organization, Littlefield is also president of the Interfaith Council at Northeast.

He has been active in campus life. As a freshman and sophomore, Littlefield was the representative from his class on the Northeast Student Council. He is also presently secretary of the pledge class of Kappa Alpha, social fraternity; vice-president of the Pyreenes Club, an organization of students in French and Spanish, and associate editor of "Profile", a literary magazine.

Bobo will graduate in May with a major in accounting. He plans to go to work in industrial or government accounting and has applied for employment with the federal government.

He held many offices in the BSU before attaining the highest post of the approximately 1,100 Baptist students on the campus. As a freshman, he was president of the BSU Freshman Council; the next year he was vice-president of the BSU Executive Council, the governing agency; serving until April 1958 in his junior year when he was chosen president of the Executive Council for his senior year.

Eddie is also on the State Executive Council of BSU, a coordinating group of representatives from all state colleges, LSU, Louisiana College and Centenary College.

At present, he is also on the Inter - faith Council, serving as secretary. He is in his second year as vice-president of the Commerce Club at Northeast.

Reds Wage War On Religion In China

RELIGION IN AMERICA
By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

The Communists are waging an all-out campaign to drive Christianity from its beachhead in China.

Reports reaching U. S. religious leaders tell of an unremitting persecution that is steadily thinning the ranks of Red China's tiny minority of four million Christians.

Catholic concern about the situation will be dramatized Sunday in a nationwide day of prayer. Archbishop Karl J. Alter of Cincinnati, chairman of the administrative board has offered at every Mass "that God in His providence may avert the disaster which threatens the church in China."

All four U. S. cardinals issued statements calling attention to the "ruthless persecution" in China. Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York said sympathetic Christians everywhere should offer fervent prayers that their beleaguered brethren in China may be given the grace to "persevere in their loyalty to Christ and to His church."

U. S. Protestant leaders are equally alarmed. The Rev. Dr. Wallace C. Merwin, executive secretary of the China Committee of the National Council of Churches, is circulating an official report to major Protestant bodies detailing some of the "crippling blows" which the Red government has recently directed at religion in China.

According to this report, the Communists have closed 188 of the 200 Protestant churches in Shanghai and 61 of the 65 churches in Peiping.

The few Protestant churches allowed to remain open have been forced into a puppet organization called the "Three-Self Patriotic Movement," under the control of "ministers" selected by the Red government.

The same technique is being used against Chinese Catholics, who outnumber Protestants by about 3 to 1.

The government's first move, in 1957, was to set up a "Patriotic Assn. of Chinese Catholics." When threats and blandishments failed to bring enough Catholics into this puppet church, the Communists set out to force Chinese Catholic bishops to consecrate new priests chosen by the government.

What methods were used to break the bishops' resistance can only be conjectured. The record shows, however, that Bishop Joseph Li of Puchi publicly declared last year he would "never perform" any illicit consecrations.

Some weeks later, after intensive "indoctrination" by government agents, Bishop Li consecrated two government selected priests at Hankow Cathedral.

So far, 20 priests have been consecrated in this way. Reports from Red China indicate that 12 or 15 new Catholic bishops have been "elected" in a similar fashion.

MY ANSWER
by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I am a teenager, and if you know anything about teenagers you know that we are what many people think of us — mixed up kids. My problem is that my mind is always full of evil thoughts. Even though I am somewhat active in church and believe like you do concerning Jesus Christ, yet I don't seem to be able to overcome this one problem. E. W. R.

ANSWER: It is not necessarily true that all teenagers are "mixed up kids", even though some of them are. In fact, some adults are still mixed up. The problem you have, however, is one that is shared by many other people, both young and old; and we must turn to the Bible itself to get the answer to this problem. The answer is given in Philippians 4:4-8.

There are several things here that the Christian is told to do. First, we are to rejoice. To do that, you need only to think of the great things God has done for you. Second, we are told not to be anxious, but in our prayers to make our requests known to God. In your biggest problems, you have One that you can go to: and before Him you can pour out your heart with the assurance that He will not leave you without an answer to that great problem.

Finally, we are to fill our minds with those things that are good. They are mentioned in the Scriptures as being things that are true, honorable, just, pure, lovely, of good report, and of virtue. It is upon these things that we are to think. You can only do this if you follow the admonition found in Colossians 3:16 where the Word of God says, "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another in Psalms and hymns and spiritual songs; singing with grace in your hearts unto God." The answer to your question, then, is to live positively, not negatively. Once you learn that secret, God will have given you the victory.

Area Students Head Campus Church Groups

Kilbourne, a farming community of 500 people in West Carroll Parish about 60 miles north of Monroe, has produced two young men, both students at Northeast State College and lifelong friends who are leaders in student religious organizations on the campus.

They are Robert (Bud) Littlefield, president of the Wesley Foundation, an organization for Methodist students and Eddie Bobo, president of the Baptist Student Union.

Like most Protestant communities in North Louisiana, Kilbourne has both a Baptist and a Methodist church. In addition, despite its modest size, it also has a Pentecostal church.

The two have been friends as long as they can remember and were together all through grammar and high school, graduating together at Kilbourne High School in 1956.

Littlefield, a senior in English education, will graduate in August. He is going to Louisiana State University next fall to work on a master's degree in English education and plans to teach at a school for American military dependents in Spain. He is presently taking courses in Spanish toward that end.

A member of the Kilbourne Methodist Church, he attained the highest student position of the approximately 350 Methodist students on the campus through steady progress in those activities since coming to Northeast.

Littlfield was secretary of the Wesley Foundation in his sophomore year. He attended the Methodist World Youth Conference at the University of Kansas in Christmas 1957 and the state conference of the Wesley Foundation at LSU in February 1958.

In addition to his duties as head of the Methodist organization, Littlefield is also president of the Interfaith Council at Northeast.

He has been active in campus life. As a freshman and sophomore, Littlefield was the representative from his class on the Northeast Student Council. He is also presently secretary of the pledge class of Kappa Alpha, social fraternity; vice-president of the Pyreenes Club, an organization of students in French and Spanish, and associate editor of "Profile", a literary magazine.

Bobo will graduate in May with a major in accounting. He plans to go to work in industrial or government accounting and has applied for employment with the federal government.

He held many offices in the BSU before attaining the highest post of the approximately 1,100 Baptist students on the campus. As a freshman, he was president of the BSU Freshman Council; the next year he was vice-president of the BSU Executive Council, the governing agency; serving until April 1958 in his junior year when he was chosen president of the Executive Council for his senior year.

Eddie is also on the State Executive Council of BSU, a coordinating group of representatives from all state colleges, LSU, Louisiana College and Centenary College.

At present, he is also on the Inter - faith Council, serving as secretary. He is in his second year as vice-president of the Commerce Club at Northeast.

Reds Wage War On Religion In China

RELIGION IN AMERICA
By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

The Communists are waging an all-out campaign to drive Christianity from its beachhead in China.

Reports reaching U. S. religious leaders tell of an unremitting persecution that is steadily thinning the ranks of Red China's tiny minority of four million Christians.

Catholic concern about the situation will be dramatized Sunday in a nationwide day of prayer. Archbishop Karl J. Alter of Cincinnati, chairman of the administrative board has offered at every Mass "that God in His providence may avert the disaster which threatens the church in China."

All four U. S. cardinals issued statements calling attention to the "ruthless persecution" in China. Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York said sympathetic Christians everywhere should offer fervent prayers that their beleaguered brethren in China may be given the grace to "persevere in their loyalty to Christ and to His church."

U. S. Protestant leaders are equally alarmed. The Rev. Dr. Wallace C. Merwin, executive secretary of the China Committee of the National Council of Churches, is circulating an official report to major Protestant bodies detailing some of the "crippling blows" which the Red government has recently directed at religion in China.

According to this report, the Communists have closed 188 of the 200 Protestant churches in Shanghai and 61 of the 65 churches in Peiping.

The few Protestant churches allowed to remain open have been forced into a puppet organization called the "Three-Self Patriotic Movement," under the control of "ministers" selected by the Red government.

The same technique is being used against Chinese Catholics, who outnumber Protestants by about 3 to 1.

The government's first move, in 1957, was to set up a "Patriotic Assn. of Chinese Catholics." When threats and blandishments failed to bring enough Catholics into this puppet church, the Communists set out to force Chinese Catholic bishops to consecrate new priests chosen by the government.

What methods were used to break the bishops' resistance can only be conjectured. The record shows, however, that Bishop Joseph Li of Puchi publicly declared last year he would "never perform" any illicit consecrations.

Some weeks later, after intensive "indoctrination" by government agents, Bishop Li consecrated two government selected priests at Hankow Cathedral.

So far, 20 priests have been consecrated in this way. Reports from Red China indicate that 12 or 15 new Catholic bishops have been "elected" in a similar fashion.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I am a teenager, and if you know anything about teenagers you know that we are what many people think of us — mixed up kids. My problem is that my mind is always full of evil thoughts. Even though I am somewhat active in church and believe like you do concerning Jesus Christ, yet I don't seem to be able to overcome this one problem. E. W. R.

ANSWER: It is not necessarily true that all teenagers are "mixed up kids", even though some of them are. In fact, some adults are still mixed up. The problem you have, however, is one that is shared by many other people, both young and old; and we must turn to the Bible itself to get the answer to this problem. The answer is given in Philippians 4:4-8.

There are several things here that the Christian is told to do. First, we are to rejoice. To do that, you need only to think of the great things God has done for you. Second, we are told not to be anxious, but in our prayers to make our requests known to God. In your biggest problems, you have One that you can go to; and before Him you can pour out your heart with the assurance that He will not leave you without an answer to that great problem.

Finally, we are to fill our minds with those things that are good. They are mentioned in the Scriptures as being things that are true, honorable, just, pure, lovely, of good report, and of virtue. It is upon these things that we are to think. You can only do this if you follow the admonition found in Colossians 3:16 where the Word of God says, "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another in Psalms and hymns and spiritual songs; singing with grace in your hearts unto God." The answer to your question, then, is to live positively, not negatively. Once you learn that secret, God will have given you the victory.

THE HOME SHIFT

Out Of Season Garden Tour

By MILDRED SWIFT

There comes a time in every gardener's life when she (or he), regardless of weather, just feels the urge to tour her garden. Such an urge overpowered yours truly on a cold and wet day. Donning galoshes, sweater, coat, fascinator (that dates me, doesn't it) and gloves, around the garden I started.

When I saw hundreds of scilla peeping out from under the straw mulch, no more did I feel the biting cold. Visions of the blue ground cover they would bring in a few weeks, warmed me up. Some way, through the years, the blue and white ones have been replanted and mixed. I don't care for that effect, it's a blue and white spotted picture. Still pretty though! Scilla is one bulb that likes acid soil and will stand a deep mulch.

MORE WONDERING

The flowering quince was in bud so I gathered some of this to take in the house, put in water and force blooms. However, the very nature of the growth of the plant makes it attractive for an oriental looking arrangement, even when there are no blooms.

The white variety of this quince is my favorite. Seems the red clashes with other colors. There are so many colors in the nurseries, from the palest apple blossom pink, (and this is a beauty) to the wild colored reds.

Remember when spraying with Malathion, don't neglect to spray these quinces.

Not everything I saw was as joyous, though. The pussy willow had died, which reminds me to remind you when this tree gets to be 8 or 10 years old, start another. Their life is so short. Root a few stems and plant them all in the same hole. In two years you'll have a nice size tree with buds.

When I came to the camllias, I just closd my eyes and passed on. Every time a few blooms have almost opened, the rain or freeze got them. However, we should still have blooms from the tight buds, unless more bad weather gets them. There are many blooms around the parish now.

TOUR CONTINUED

The bridal wreaths are putting out tiny leaves. The winter honeysuckles were in full bloom though the blossoms looked a little woeful. Jonquils and daffodils are up and many have buds. I can just visualize a bowl on my table in another ten days. The slopes down to the bayou will be solid with blooms real soon.

My ground cover of violets boasted a few blooms. They told me they would just cover the ground with blossoms if they could get a few days sun.

The little old - fashioned purple hyacinths were lush and green. These have been in the same spot for ten years. Frances Bailey brought these to me from our great grandmother's yard. This grandma Land would have no grass growing on her lawn. Through the years the little hyacinth bulbs were scattered and almost completely covered the open area.

Remember, too — these hyacinths like to stay in the same place. Being old - fashioned, they like well decomposed barnyard fertilizer for food.

On the bayou side of the garden, the pearl bushes are just begging to burst into bloom. They're late. Two years ago I had blossoms in the house Christmas week.

Still — with all this — the gardens are not pretty at this time of year. They hold worlds of promises though and that's what keeps a gardener going.

By this time, my galoshes were coated with mud so I just sat and fed the birds and reminisced. Over half the plants in our huge garden were given to us by friends, and though my memory is not the best, I do remember the name of every person who gave these.

Mrs. Sena Walters, 503 Bres, brought us a uonomous, the first bit of life put out in the Swift garden. She told me how to plant it and how to spray — and believe me new gardeners need that information.

We have plants from Caldwell, Lincoln, Richland, Morehouse, West Carroll, East Carroll, Jackson, Madison, East Baton Rouge, Orleans, Rapides, and Grant parishes. Also, from other states— Tennessee, California, Washington, and Virginia. All these were given by other gardeners. End of tour!!

WHEN PLANTING

When planting any shrub or tree, try to remember the size of the plant, several years hence. Moving is expensive in labor as well as loss of plants. Plants like to breathe and spread. Crowding spreads diseases and insects, too, and makes spraying a much harder job.

There are some exceptions to the statement that plants do not like to be close together. Some plants by their very nature and growth habits should be crowded rather than thinned out. Lirope, Asperdistra, monkey grass are some. They naturally grow close together and give a better effect that way.

Even if you do space those plants thinly, it's just a matter of time til they'll fill up the space.

Then — I think of hedges. You'd surely set your plants much closer together than if you are growing speciman plants. Remember though, plants growing very close need more pruning, spraying and feeding.

Women quit wearing sacks simply because they don't want to be laughed at by the men in their lives. No, "nary" a sign of these in this year's styles. The waistline is back and women look feminine as women should look.

One fashion stylist says, you can't just say that skirts will be 18 or 20 inches from the floor, when some women's knees are only 16 inches above the ground. Rather say, dresses should be 2 to 3 inches below the knee this year."

The dress and jacket costume is a favorite in all collections. Cotton coats are the rage. Most of these are on loose lines, full length.

Whether or not peaches will be plentiful this year won't matter as far as hat designers are concerned They insist the peach basket hat is going to be a popular style, regardless.

See you next Sunday.

Manual Arts Class Builds, Sells Homes

CLINTON, Okla. (AP)—Carpentry students in Clinton High School not only learn to do a job well — they do it profitably.

Under the guidance of vocational instructor Jack Hefner, 30 students will finish their sixth home this spring in as many years — and they expect to sell it, as they have the other five, for a profit.

The newest home, in a fashionable Clinton residential area, will have 1,150 square feet of living space, plus carport and enclosed storage space.

Hefner says profits from construction of the first five houses averaged about $1,000 each. The last home, completed in May, 1958, sold for $15,000.

"Our price for the finished product," Hefner points out, "is very much in line with the cost of the same house constructed by union craftsmen."

Profits from the home - building projects have been used to buy a pickup truck for the vocational carpentry class, power equipment and tools and for various class activities, such as picnics for boys who have worked on the projects.

The class members, ranging from 15 to 19 years of age, do all the wood - construction work, including finishing inside the houses. Concrete work, brickwork plumbing and electrical wiring are done by local contractors.

Union carpenters in Clinton have endorsed the home - building program and permit advanced students from Hefner's classes to enter the trade as second-year apprentices.

Homes aren't the only construction projects taken on by Hefner's students. In the nine years he has built a brick-and-glass industrial arts shop building at Clinton High School, the high school auto mechanics building, a lunchroom at a grade school, put catwalks, seats and a press box in the stadium, installed science tables and equipment at the high school and helped in construction of a kitchen and lockers at another grade school.

The carpentry students work about six hours a day, Monday through Friday, on their projects, including some classroom time. Hefner explains that he works textbook theory into the actual construction work.

EXTENSION NEWS AND VIEWS

Spring Calls For Plant Food

By AUDREY DAWSON

Flowers and ornamentals are literally begging for plant food elements now to get them off to a quick start in early spring. Use a complete fertilizer such as an 8-8-8 for your shrubs. Four ounces (½ cup) per square yard of area covered by the plant will be sufficient. Do not over fertilize, shrubs must have fertilizer but too much will kill them.

When fertilizing trees and shrubs, broadcast the fertilizer in that area occupied by the feeder roots. This area begins about halfway between the trunk of the plant and the tip of the branches.

GARDENING

If you are making plans now for planting and you want blooms certain months of the year here are a few suggestions: In March the following will bloom, of course providing weather conditions are right: Winter Jasmine, Forsythia, Japanese Quince, Thunberg Spirea Peach, Redbud, Bridalwreath Spirea, Fragrant Viburnum, Mahonia Winter Honeysuckle.

Now for April blooms in the landscape select the following: double flowering peach, Wisteria, Flowering Dogwood, Lilac, Crab apple, Reeves and Van Houtte Spirea, Weigela, Fringetree, Fragrant Mock Orange, Black Locust and bush Honeysuckles.

June — Nandina, Ableia, Mimosa, Oakleaf Hydrangea, Chaste Tree, Butterfly Bush, and Golden Rain Tree.

July — Crape Myrtle, Spreading Euonymus and Sumac.

NEW PRODUCTS

The plastic tube that went to the beach with sun tan lotion is now popular on the picnic table or in the kitchen with a variety of cheeses, cake decorating jelly and ice cream toppings. There are many other food specialties being market tested in squeeze to use tubes. Don't be surprised at any you see.

A new canned fish product is a tuna frankfurter. It resembles the "hotdog" and has a smoky flavor, may be served in a bun, but can be sliced or chopped for salads and casseroles or ground for sandwich spreads.

There promises to be a new trend in packaging as the electronic ranges become more generally used. Because of the absence of heat in cooking electronically, it is possible to use paper cooking utensils. This will open an entirely new field in packaging food to be cooked in its package.

A new easy - to - open fiberboard refrigerated biscuit container is just coming onto the market. You simply pull a string, twist the package slightly and perfectly shaped biscuits pop out ready for baking.

COLOR SCHEMES

Are you building a new home or remodeling and you can't make schemes. Here are a few suggestions that may help you. It might be well to remember that simplicity is the single most important word in color selection. This is not to be confused with timidity. If you are afraid of making mistakes with color, keep in mind the smartest color schemes use varying tones of the same color throughout the room.

When planning a room on the one color plan start with the large areas first. Generally speaking, the lightest tones for walls, slightly deeper for carpeting and deepest for upholstery. When using this type of color planning count on your accent pieces for bright color.

Remember that color creates moods. Blue belongs to the cold family. In pale tones it is serene and collected. In vivid tones it can add spice. But no matter how bright blue may get it will always stay in the "cool" family. Green is another one of the cool colors.

A THOUGHT — The minds of some of us are like concrete thoroughly mixed and permanently set.

Figures Show Typical U.S. Home Builder

It is very easy for someone who writes about houses to become mired in statistics — tons of them. There are dozens of organizations and government agencies constantly engaged in studies and surveys designed to show who buys houses and why.

Apparently this is the time of the year when the statistical machines finish their computations of the previous year's probings. For our desk has been deluged with housing facts and figures the last few days. We'd thought you'd be interested in seeing some of the more interesting ones. Such as these:

During 1959, the majority of prospective home buyers, who earn between $5,000 and $10,000 a year, will spend between $9,000 and $20,000 to purchase homes.

One-tenth of the buyers, earning $10,000 or more, will spend $25,000 and up for new houses.

The typical single-family home buyer will be approximately 37 years of age, have an annual income of $7,300, purchase a 6-room house for $17,100 and take out a mortgage of $11,100 to buy the house.

While the cost of homes will rise this year, the estimated 4 per cent income hike of most prospective buyers will more than offset this extra price.

And here is something we found of particular interest. It has always been felt that the FHA and VA housing programs were aimed at broadening the base of home ownership by permitting individuals unable to purchase their own homes through conventional channels to do so. While this may have been the original premise, it no longer appears to be the case. The figures show that it is the middle - income group who obtain the bulk of the low down-payment FHA and VA loans. Those in the low-income group, on the other hand, make more use of the conventional loans than the government - backed loans.

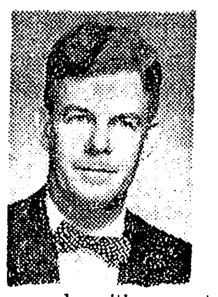
Insect Damage To Euonymous



By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

All kinds of euonymous, pachysandra and bittersweet are subject to a scale called euonymous scale. The damage this insect does is largely responsible for the fact that we do not see very much euonymous in yards and gardens. Whole areas covered with a fine euonymous or pachysandra ground cover can be wiped out in a few years if scale gets into it and nothing is done to destroy the varmints. Look over any of these plants you may be growing right now and see if they are infested with scale. If they are, then you had better go after the scale at once.

Miscible oils sprayed on when the temperature is going to stay above 45 degrees F. for a day or two will eliminate scale if you watch the scale situation and follow this treatment later with a Volk and nicotine sulphate spray. The latter spray should be used when the temperature is below 85 degrees F. Malathion is also recommended for euonymous scale This, of course, is toxic to man and must be used with great caution.

Scales of various kinds can be quite destructive to azaleas, maples, elms, ferns, tulip trees, peaches, roses, peonies, junipers, oleanders, magnolia and camellias. It is easy to see the rusty or cottony or greyish scales on trees and shrubs. If your azaleas have white circles on the twigs, they probably have peony scale. They can have bark scale, too.

SCALE

There seem to be a great many different sorts of scale which attack camellias — even some special ones named for camellias — but we gardeners in the Upper South do not have as much trouble with them as they do along the coasts. Fortunately for us, the nurserymen who raise most of our camellias down there keep their plants rather clean. They use some very strong and poisonous chemicals which we could not afford to use in our gardens.

Camellia lovers will want the new volume on the care of camellias. Specialists from all over the United States combined forces to write Camellia Culture, and C. E. Tourje of the Southern California Camellia Society edited it. Every Southern state was represented by articles by our own specialists. The MacMillan Company published this book. It certainly covers every phase of the growing of camellias.

While you are looking over your trees and shrubs for scale, pick off any bagworms you find on coniferous evergreens. These pests can sneak up on you like the scales when you do not know it. In summer, they can be killed by spraying with Bordeaux mixture or some other stomach poison with arsenic in it.

If there are only a few, however, pick them off now and save spraying next summer. Besides, you may forget them.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Base Unifies And Stabilizes Design

By GLADYS M. KULCKE
Guest Writer

This line was supported on either side by sanseveria spikes. Two stalks of rose colored gladiolus were placed in front of the aspidistra. Branches of the Jade plant were placed low in the design. This was a good arrangement to be placed on a small table with a narrow wall strip for the background.

Mrs. E. R. Osburn and Mrs. Johnnie Usrey used a boat shaped container of a soft, dull green color for their arrangement. Bright rose colored gladiolus were used to form a fan shaped design— a lovely arrangement for the living room.

DIAGONAL FORM

The diagonal form was used in Mrs. J. D. Winks' Jr. arrangement. Buford Holly carried out the diagonal line. This line was followed by the placement of Professor Sargent Camellias. This lovely arrangement was placed in a white pottery compote.

Mrs. Barney Pate chose a black pottery free - form footed container for the foliage arrangement. The graceful, slightly curved aspidistra leaves formed an asymmetrical triangle for the background. In front of this placement variegated Euonymus and Japanese Yew (Podocarpus) formed another triangle. The variegated euonymus highlighted the center of the pattern. A good combination of long - lasting material well suited for the den.

BASE APPEAL

Just as foundation planting serves to tie your home to the surrounding grounds, so does a base add to the aesthetic perfection of an arrangement. If accessories are used, a base is especially needed, for it will unify the elements just as the canvas and frame do in a still life painting.

Bases should be scratch free and clean. They should be kept in the same way a table top is kept.

The base sometimes provides stability or gives the proper balance and porportion to the design. The base that is in harmony with the container, plant material and accessories in physical characteristics add distinction to the arrangement.

THE HOME SHIFT

By MILDRED SWIFT

There comes a time in every gardener's life when she (or he), regardless of weather, just feels the urge to tour her garden. Such an urge overpowered yours truly on a cold and wet day. Donning galoshes, sweater, coat, fascinator (that dates me, doesn't it) and gloves, around the garden I started.

When I saw hundreds of scilla peeping out from under the straw mulch, no more did I feel the biting cold. Visions of the blue ground cover they would bring in a few weeks, warmed me up. Some way, through the years, the blue and white ones have been replanted and mixed. I don't care for that effect, it's a blue and white spotted picture. Still pretty though! Scilla is one bulb that likes acid soil and will stand a deep mulch.

MORE WONDERING

The flowering quince was in bud so I gathered some of this to take in the house, put in water and force blooms. However, the very nature of the growth of the plant makes it attractive for an oriental looking arrangement, even when there are no blooms.

The white variety of this quince is my favorite. Seems the red clashes with other colors. There are so many colors in the nurseries, from the palest apple blossom pink, (and this is a beauty) to the wild colored reds.

Remember when spraying with Malathion, don't neglect to spray these quinces.

Not everything I saw was as joyous, though. The pussy willow had died, which reminds me to remind you when this tree gets to be 8 or 10 years old, start another. Their life is so short. Root a few stems and plant them all in the same hole. In two years you'll have a nice size tree with buds.

When I came to the camllias, I just closd my eyes and passed on. Every time a few blooms have almost opened, the rain or freeze got them. However, we should still have blooms from the tight buds, unless more bad weather gets them. There are many blooms around the parish now.

TOUR CONTINUED

The bridal wreaths are putting out tiny leaves. The winter honeysuckles were in full bloom though the blossoms looked a little woeful. Jonquils and daffodils are up and many have buds. I can just visualize a bowl on my table in another ten days. The slopes down to the bayou will be solid with blooms real soon.

My ground cover of violets boasted a few blooms. They told me they would just cover the ground with blossoms if they could get a few days sun.

The little old - fashioned purple hyacinths were lush and green. These have been in the same spot for ten years. Frances Bailey brought these to me from our great grandmother's yard. This grandma Land would have no grass growing on her lawn. Through the years the little hyacinth bulbs were scattered and almost completely covered the open area.

Remember, too — these hyacinths like to stay in the same place. Being old - fashioned, they like well decomposed barnyard fertilizer for food.

On the bayou side of the garden, the pearl bushes are just begging to burst into bloom. They're late. Two years ago I had blossoms in the house Christmas week.

Still — with all this — the gardens are not pretty at this time of year. They hold worlds of promises though and that's what keeps a gardener going.

By this time, my galoshes were coated with mud so I just sat and fed the birds and reminisced. Over half the plants in our huge garden were given to us by friends, and though my memory is not the best, I do remember the name of every person who gave these.

Mrs. Sena Walters, 503 Bres, brought us a uonomous, the first bit of life put out in the Swift garden. She told me how to plant it and how to spray — and believe me new gardeners need that information.

We have plants from Caldwell, Lincoln, Richland, Morehouse, West Carroll, East Carroll, Jackson, Madison, East Baton Rouge, Orleans, Rapides, and Grant parishes. Also, from other states—Tennessee, California, Washington, and Virginia. All these were given by other gardeners. End of tour!!

WHEN PLANTING

When planting any shrub or tree, try to remember the size of the plant, several years hence. Moving is expensive in labor as well as loss of plants. Plants like to breathe and spread. Crowding spreads diseases and insects, too, and makes spraying a much harder job.

There are some exceptions to the statement that plants do not like to be close together. Some plants by their very nature and growth habits should be crowded rather than thinned out. Lirope, Asperdistra, monkey grass are some. They naturally grow close together and give a better effect that way.

Even if you do space those plants thinly, it's just a matter of time til they'll fill up the space.

Then — I think of hedges. You'd surely set your plants much closer together than if you are growing speciman plants. Remember though, plants growing very close need more pruning, spraying and feeding.

Women quit wearing sacks simply because they don't want to be laughed at by the men in their lives. No, "nary" a sign of these in this year's styles. The waistline is back and women look feminine as women should look.

One fashion stylist says, you can't just say that skirts will be 18 or 20 inches from the floor, when some women's knees are only 16 inches above the ground. Rather say, dresses should be 2 to 3 inches below the knee this year."

The dress and jacket costume is a favorite in all collections. Cotton coats are the rage. Most of these are on loose lines, full length.

Whether or not peaches will be plentiful this year won't matter as far as hat designers are concerned They insist the peach basket hat is going to be a popular style, regardless.

Manual Arts Class Builds, Sells Homes

CLINTON, Okla. (AP)—Carpentry students in Clinton High School not only learn to do a job well — they do it profitably.

Under the guidance of vocational instructor Jack Hefner, 30 students will finish their sixth home this spring in as many years — and they expect to sell it, as they have the other five, for a profit.

The newest home, in a fashionable Clinton residential area, will have 1,150 square feet of living space, plus carport and enclosed storage space.

Hefner says profits from construction of the first five houses averaged about $1,000 each. The last home, completed in May, 1958, sold for $15,000.

"Our price for the finished product," Hefner points out, "is very much in line with the cost of the same house constructed by union craftsmen."

Profits from the home - building projects have been used to buy a pickup truck for the vocational carpentry class, power equipment and tools and for various class activities, such as picnics for boys who have worked on the projects.

The class members, ranging from 15 to 19 years of age, do all the wood - construction work, including finishing inside the houses. Concrete work, brickwork plumbing and electrical wiring are done by local contractors.

Union carpenters in Clinton have endorsed the home - building program and permit advanced students from Hefner's classes to enter the trade as second-year apprentices.

Homes aren't the only construction projects taken on by Hefner's students. In the nine years he has built a brick-and-glass industrial arts shop building at Clinton High School, the high school auto mechanics building, a lunchroom at a grade school, put catwalks, seats and a press box in the stadium, installed science tables and equipment at the high school and helped in construction of a kitchen and lockers at another grade school.

The carpentry students work about six hours a day, Monday through Friday, on their projects, including some classroom time. Hefner explains that he works textbook theory into the actual construction work.

Spring Calls For Plant Food

By AUDREY DAWSON

Flowers and ornamentals are literally begging for plant food elements now to get them off to a quick start in early spring. Use a complete fertilizer such as an 8-8-8 for your shrubs. Four ounces (½ cup) per square yard of area covered by the plant will be sufficient. Do not over fertilize, shrubs must have fertilizer but too much will kill them.

When fertilizing trees and shrubs, broadcast the fertilizer in that area occupied by the feeder roots. This area begins about halfway between the trunk of the plant and the tip of the branches.

GARDENING

If you are making plans now for planting and you want blooms certain months of the year here are a few suggestions: In March the following will bloom, of course providing weather conditions are right: Winter Jasmine, Forsythia, Japanese Quince, Thunberg Spirea Peach, Redbud, Bridalwreath Spirea, Fragrant Viburnum, Mahonia Winter Honeysuckle.

Now for April blooms in the landscape select the following: double flowering peach, Wisteria, Flowering Dogwood, Lilac, Crab apple, Reeves and Van Houtte Spirea, Weigela, Fringetree, Fragrant Mock Orange, Black Locust and bush Honeysuckles.

May blooming shrubs and trees include Tulip poplar, Deutzia tall species, Mountain Laurel, Catalpa, Privet, Rhododendron.

June — Nandina, Ableia, Mimosa, Oakleaf Hydrangea, Chaste Tree, Butterfly Bush, and Golden Rain Tree.

July — Crape Myrtle, Spreading Euonymus and Sumac.

NEW PRODUCTS

The plastic tube that went to the beach with sun tan lotion is now popular on the picnic table or in the kitchen with a variety of cheeses, cake decorating jelly and ice cream toppings. There are many other food specialties being market tested in squeeze to use tubes. Don't be surprised at any you see.

A new canned fish product is a tuna frankfurter. It resembles the "hotdog" and has a smoky flavor, may be served in a bun, but can be sliced or chopped for salads and casseroles or ground for sandwich spreads.

There promises to be a new trend in packaging as the electronic ranges become more generally used. Because of the absence of heat in cooking electronically, it is possible to use paper cooking utensils. This will open an entirely new field in packaging food to be cooked in its package.

A new easy - to - open fiberboard refrigerated biscuit container is just coming onto the market. You simply pull a string, twist the package slightly and perfectly shaped biscuits pop out ready for baking.

COLOR SCHEMES

Are you building a new home or remodeling and you can't make schemes. Here are a few suggestions that may help you. It might be well to remember that simplicity is the single most important word in color selection. This is not to be confused with timidity. If you are afraid of making mistakes with color, keep in mind the smartest color schemes use varying tones of the same color throughout the room.

When planning a room on the one color plan start with the large areas first. Generally speaking, the lightest tones for walls, slightly deeper for carpeting and deepest for upholstery. When using this type of color planning count on your accent pieces for bright color.

Remember that color creates moods. Blue belongs to the cold family. In pale tones it is serene and collected. In vivid tones it can add spice. But no matter how bright blue may get it will always stay in the "cool" family. Green is another one of the cool colors.

A THOUGHT — The minds of some of us are like concrete thoroughly mixed and permanently set.

Figures Show Typical U.S. Home Builder

It is very easy for someone who writes about houses to become mired in statistics — tons of them. There are dozens of organizations and government agencies constantly engaged in studies and surveys designed to show who buys houses and why.

Apparently this is the time of the year when the statistical machines finish their computations of the previous year's probings. For our desk has been deluged with housing facts and figures the last few days. We'd thought you'd be interested in seeing some of the more interesting ones. Such as these:

During 1959, the majority of prospective home buyers, who earn between $5,000 and $10,000 a year, will spend between $9,000 and $20,000 to purchase homes.

One-tenth of the buyers, earning $10,000 or more, will spend $25,000 and up for new houses.

The typical single-family home buyer will be approximately 37 years of age, have an annual income of $7,300, purchase a 6-room house for $17,100 and take out a mortgage of $11,100 to buy the house.

While the cost of homes will rise this year, the estimated 4 per cent income hike of most prospective buyers will more than offset this extra price.

And here is something we found of particular interest. It has always been felt that the FHA and VA housing programs were aimed at broadening the base of home ownership by permitting individuals unable to purchase their own homes through conventional channels to do so. While this may have been the original premise, it no longer appears to be the case. The figures show that it is the middle - income group who obtain the bulk of the low down-payment FHA and VA loans. Those in the low-income group, on the other hand, make more use of the conventional loans than the government - backed loans.

Insect Damage To Euonymous

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

All kinds of euonymous, pachysandra and bittersweet are subject to a scale called euonymous scale. The damage this insect does is largely responsible for the fact that we do not see very much euonymous in yards and gardens. Whole areas covered with a fine euonymous or pachysandra ground cover can be wiped out in a few years if scale gets into it and nothing is done to destroy the varmints. Look over any of these plants you may be growing right now and see if they are infested with scale. If they are, then you had better go after the scale at once.

Miscible oils sprayed on when the temperature is going to stay above 45 degrees F. for a day or two will eliminate scale if you watch the scale situation and follow this treatment later with a Volk and nicotine sulphate spray. The latter spray should be used when the temperature is below 85 degrees F. Malathion is also recommended for euonymous scale This, of course, is toxic to man and must be used with great caution.

Scales of various kinds can be quite destructive to azaleas, maples, elms, ferns, tulip trees, peaches, roses, peonies, junipers, oleanders, magnolia and camellias. It is easy to see the rusty or cottony or greyish scales on trees and shrubs. If your azaleas have white circles on the twigs, they probably have peony scale. They can have bark scale, too.

SCALE

There seem to be a great many different sorts of scale which attack camellias — even some special ones named for camellias — but we gardeners in the Upper South do not have as much trouble with them as they do along the coasts. Fortunately for us, the nurserymen who raise most of our camellias down there keep their plants rather clean. They use some very strong and poisonous chemicals which we could not afford to use in our gardens.

Camellia lovers will want the new volume on the care of camellias. Specialists from all over the United States combined forces to write Camellia Culture, and C. E. Tourje of the Southern California Camellia Society edited it. Every Southern state was represented by articles by our own specialists. The MacMillan Company published this book. It certainly covers every phase of the growing of camellias.

While you are looking over your trees and shrubs for scale, pick off any bagworms you find on coniferous evergreens. These pests can sneak up on you like the scales when you do not know it. In summer, they can be killed by spraying with Bordeaux mixture or some other stomach poison with arsenic in it.

If there are only a few, however, pick them off now and save spraying next summer. Besides, you may forget them.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Base Unifies And Stabilizes Design

By GLADYS M. KULCKE
Guest Writer

This line was supported on either side by sanseveria spikes. Two stalks of rose colored gladiolus were placed in front of the aspidistra. Branches of the Jade plant were placed low in the design. This was a good arrangement to be placed on a small table with a narrow wall strip for the background.

Mrs. E. R. Osburn and Mrs. Johnnie Usrey used a boat shaped container of a soft, dull green color for their arrangement. Bright rose colored gladiolus were used to form a fan shaped design— a lovely arrangement for the living room.

DIAGONAL FORM

The diagonal form was used in Mrs. J. D. Winks' Jr. arrangement. Buford Holly carried out the diagonal line. This line was followed by the placement of Professor Sargent Camellias. This lovely arrangement was placed in a white pottery compote.

Mrs. Barney Pate chose a black pottery free - form footed container for the foliage arrangement. The graceful, slightly curved aspidistra leaves formed an asymmetrical triangle for the background. In front of this placement variegated Euonymus and Japanese Yew (Podocarpus) formed another triangle. The variegated euonymus highlighted the center of the pattern. A good combination of long - lasting material well suited for the den.

BASE APPEAL

Just as foundation planting serves to tie your home to the surrounding grounds, so does a base add to the aesthetic perfection of an arrangement. If accessories are used, a base is especially needed, for it will unify the elements just as the canvas and frame do in a still life painting.

Bases should be scratch free and clean. They should be kept in the same way a table top is kept.

The base sometimes provides stability or gives the proper balance and porportion to the design. The base that is in harmony with the container, plant material and accessories in physical characteristics add distinction to the arrangement.

ISAK DINESEN TALKS OF HER ART

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK (AP) — "Air, that's what I require in a book," said Isak Dinesen, sitting in the exclusive East Side club where she stayed during her first visit to this country.

"I begin my short stories with the stage, or setting," this distinguished Danish writer continued. "Of the four elements, it is air that matters most. For me, the element in which people move comes before the people."

Isak Dinesen is a pen name. Her father was William Dinesen, a writer himself, officer in the Franco - Prussian war and, curiously, a one-time visitor to our West where he was for several years a trapper with the Pawnee Indians.

Her real name is Baroness Christence Karen Blixen-Finecke. But more people take off their hats now, and always will, to the abiding aristocrat Dinesen than to Blixen.

TWO BOOKS IN YEAR

Author of five books, she has had three Book-of-the Month Club choices: "Out of Africa," "Seven Gothic Tales" and "Winter's Tales." Two new books have appeared within a year, "Last Tales" and "Anecdotes of Destiny." There's a note of finality about one title, but the baroness said:

"No, I shall never stop writing. I have just had to spend a couple of years in a hospital, and all the time there I kept thinking of new things I wanted to write."

She was invited here under the auspices of the Ford Foundation Fund for the Advancement of Education and the Institute of Contemporary Arts, and she made some educational films in Washington. After fulfilling all her duties she settled down for a few extra weeks of pure enjoyment, with the intention of seeing New York and its museums and other cultural activities.

"I'm going to accept all invitations," she said excitedly. One of them was to be guest of honor at a dinner of the American Academy and National Institute.

An incredibly weightless wisp of a woman, with an almost breathless, disembodied voice, she has turned in her 70s into a sort of presence as airy and fantastic as the stories which have made her famous.

"Though I didn't know I was famous," she remarked, "until I came to the United States."

It is here, rather than in Denmark, that she has scored her chief success.

'FOR ME,' says Danish author Isak Dinesen, "the element in which people move comes before the people."

Married in 1914 to a cousin, from whom her title comes, she lived in Africa until the early 1930s helping run a coffee plantation.

"There was air in Kenya," she remembered. Born at sea level, living now only 100 yards from the shore, she occupied an African plantation 6,000 feet up.

NEVER WENT TO SCHOOL

"I loved the atmosphere. I never felt so well. And there were certain books, I found, that read particularly well at that altitude. Racine, for instance, did very well."

She never went to school, but was brought up by governesses. She read Shakespeare, Dante, Homer, Racine, Turgeniev. She studied painting in Paris, and was in her 40s before she achieved much success in story writing. Though it has been rumored that she wrote one novel under a second pseudonym, she said:

"I can't write a novel. I'm a story teller, I write what is passed on by word of mouth."

Her stories have plot, but also they have the "air" of which she spoke, the air for which she admired so much Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn" with "its splendid feel for the mighty river."

HER PEOPLE ARE 'REAL'

The people in her stories are not just real, they are in fact bigger than real. There is a partly ghostly quality to the scenes and action, a touch of Arabian nights, of the unearthly and supernatural. Was there some connection between her birth and upbringing in an agricultural country with respected traditions, and the aloof, non-involved, cool handling, of her stories? She wasn't sure.

"Democratic literature," she said, "is realistic literature. I am not a realistic writer. And my own well - springs seem to lie far back, in the Denmark I knew before I went to Africa in 1914. I do not belong as a writer to any particular generation in Denmark."

She thought there was some special sensitive quality, some softness which she prized, about countries that border the sea, missing in Russia and Germany, she said, but to be found in England, France, and her native land, which has given us also Hans Christian Andersen and Kierkegaard.

She loves cities. "I love Rome, I love Paris, I love London. When I go back to London, I feel that I am going home. Now that I have seen New York with its fantastic man - made heights, I add it to the list of cities with a firm place in my consciousness."

Man's Influence On Society

THE BIG BANKROLL. The Life and Times of Arnold Rothstein. By Leo Katcher. Harper. $5.

Arnold Rothstein was born in 1882 in the home of his father, orthodox Jew and successful manufacturer, on East 47th Street a few blocks east of Times Square which was the hub of his lurid career. He learned dice at the Victoria Theater at 42nd and Seventh Ave.; a little north of the Square's formal boundary, in Lindy's restaurant where he was eating, he got the phone call which lured him to death in the Park Central Hotel.

Katcher opens with a hair-raising account of the shooting, and ends with the inexcusable failure of police and courts to pin the murder on George McManus or anybody else. In between we have a success story of a man never convicted of crime, dancing back and forth skillfully across the line marking legal from illegal, amassing a fortune and the power to go with it.

From earliest years Rothstein had the knack for making money. He sold cigars, but quit that honest field for something he could parley into bigger, fatter profits. He was a gambler; that was honest, too, at least within the law. As a kid he carried his roll in his pocket; the few dollars he started with turned to greenbacks worth a few hundred, thousand, and then hundreds of thousands.

There was a logical progression through numerous activities: Dice, bookmaking, pool, poker, bucket shops, home brewing, rum running, highjacking, labor rackets, narcotics. He got a big bad name, unjustly, says Katcher, as fixer of the 1919 World Series. His sister was married to Henry Lustig; Rothstein's money helped him start the Longchamps restaurant chain. He did business with George White of "Scandals" fame, and was an "angel," at exorbitant interest, to Anne Nichols and "Abie's Irish Rose." He even collected art, but exclusively from wealthy art lovers who got stuck with I. O. U's and had to unload their treasures. He owned a Gainsborough, and also what he called "a dirty picture of a fat naked woman," a Rubens.

He was as faithful as, or more than, could be expected to his wife Carolyn; among his girl friends were Bobbie Winthrop and Inez Norton. He knew famous people, not only Lepke and Lucky and Legs but Washington leaders and society folks. They sat in on games for which Peggy Hopkins Joyce was steerer, or bet on horses with him; in 1921 he cleared $1,350,000 on just two races.

He was "The Brain," said Damon Runyon. He was the villain in a Fitzgerald novel. He carried on where Becker left off after Rosenthal's murder; introduced the modern gangster; served crime as pay-off man; taught politician and crook how to work profitably together. If this seems like giving the devil more than his due, it is still Katcher's acceptable thesis that Rothstein exerted a measurable influence on our society. That will be hard to deny if his heirs were Frank Costello, Buggsy Siegel, Lucky Luciano, Willie Moretti, Albert Anastasia—who was killed in the hotel where Rothstein was shot.

This is crime story, this is history. It could be just as important to know Rothstein as to know the mayor, Tammany chief, police commissioner and even governor o his day. You won't approve of what you read but it's fun reading. Katcher has dug hard for facts, he lets you have them at a rapid, telling pace.

Reflections On Morality Of Man

From October 1939 to November 1941, when Merton was in his mid-twenties, he was a convert to Catholicism, he was teaching, and he was a novelist—two of his books were going the fruitless round of the publishing houses.

At the end of the period, he became a Trappist, crying, "Give up everything, give up everything!" In 1948 he wrote "The Seven Storey Mountains," and his prose and poetry since have won a fully merited wide audience.

This journal is the portrait of a perceptive, thoughtful writer committed to the higher life, reflecting on the morality of his times, and marvelously conscious of the status of his craft.

These were the war years, and he returns repeatedly, and often in anguish, to such topics as the character of Hitler; to the contradiction that in an age when we supinely wish for an existence mainly amounting to an agreeable anesthesia, there should be more pain and suffering than ever before; to the idea that we work feebly for peace, that even innocent ownership may bring on a killing conflict — "I am scared, sometimes, to own anything, even a name."

He describes sardonically the progress of organized charity; pretends to wonder whether the tawdry exploitation of Mother's Day does not imply something unworthy about loving one's mother; tells of a dance, bad but beautiful, in a popular hall in Cuba, and of a museum visit; and gives us a devastating version of a novel by Thomas Mann.

But the general reader and the literary - minded will find him specially rewarding on the subject of critical standards.. He calls again and again for unprejudiced and unbiased judgments, for the abandonment of all prior commitments by those who would indorse or condemn a book. He mocks "all the socialists . . . praising socialist novels," and "all the communists growling. . . the praises of communist novels" and "all the Catholics praising the works of some stuffed shirt who happened to be a Catholic" and "the Jews praising books by Jews." His most eloquent plea for this literary purity comes in the expression of his belief that a creative work should be "accessible to everybody, once they have cast out their sins of prejudiced taste, once their eye is single and their body lightsome."

All Merton's writing somehow — and this is too often not true of the special pleader—invites with unique warmth the eye single and the body lightsome; but more than his other books this particularly demands that unchallengeable attitude. This is young, earnest, fiery.

The Last Days Of Lincoln Is Top New Play

To an impressive two dozen volumes of poetry, fiction, biography and other scholarly works, Van Doren has added this new play, written in 1954, published on Lincoln's birthday and due on Broadway later this year. The time is the last two months of the President's life; the places of the six scenes are Washington and City Point and Richmond, Va. the cast consists of about 30 men and women, white and black, in civilian clothes or uniform, friends or foes of Lincoln's lenient policy toward the defeated South.

The play opens in the Peterson house, where Lincoln lies dying, with the unseen crowd outside furnishing a choral lament; and it ends with the death. The flash - backs in between show Lincoln feeling his way through the maze of emotions that so tragically divide congressmen, cabinet, soldiers and people in the mass.

Here are crucial events in American history; some of our greatest heroes are seen at their climactic moments; and there is a relevance to the present race problem. But for the major virtues of this work you look beyond these obvious qualities. It is not just the American thing which Van Doren celebrates but the human thing — man moved by the utmost compassion, man generous and forgiving, man with a nobility which events can neither enhance nor diminish.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

Last week the scales ran the musical clock all the way back to the 16th century by the way of the Heidelberg University Chorus, which gave two concerts on the Louisiana Tech campus.

Under the direction of thorough-going Siegfried Hermelink, the group of students offered rarely heard madrigals and sacred numbers of the 1500-1700 period in all their tonal purity.

While these selections on the first half of the program did not stir the audience in Howard Auditorium as strongly as the folk and student songs following the intermission, the boys and girls of the 500-year-old university did much more than bring out some old copy from the music museum.

LIMITED REPERTOIRE

Far from being "academic" recitals of music buried in history, the old-timers as "The Silver Swan" of Orlando Gibbons and "The Song of the Birds" by Clement Janequin revealed a sort of pure vitality as sung by the student chorus. Hearing something like this is more than a choral concert, it is a living experience. When it is considered that music beyond 1500 starts to fall off the musical map--no one knows really just how music of 1350, for example, should be performed--we get some idea from the Heidelbergers how "new" the old songs can be made to sound.

The songs of Brahms, Schubert, Schuman, and the folk and student songs have a near universal appeal and received due applause from the audience. Any criticism of the group might be merely the pointing up of differences between American and German modes. Some in the audience noted the lack of vibrato in the voices---particularly the sopranos---which is considered a standard vocal device for both soloists and group singing this side of Europe.

While the properly vibrated voice may be generally more colorful, it also shakes up the intricate texture of the old part songs to where they lose the all-important purity.

As for stage appearance, Director Hermelink may sound out what Americans expect German students to look like and costume his group accordingly on future tours.

The Hollywood version of the "Student Prince" would give a wealth of ideas on this subject, especially in costumes for the girls. This has little to do with the fine choral singing which the group offered but plenty to do with performing before a public which readily goes overboard on the subject of "old world charm."

It is interesting to compare notes on the Heidelberg Chorus and the Centenary Choir, which sang here two weeks ago as a sort of cultural exchange. Both choirs were established as part-time activity for the students, and not all of the singers in either case were music majors. The Centenary group is younger (17-21). The Heidelbergers averaged 20-23 years of age, with one of the male soloists a graduate lawyer of 25.

While the Germans covered a more limited repertoire of serious and traditional numbers, the Shreveporters alternated serious choral works with musical comedy and operetta. Musical perfection swung the scales heavily in the direction of the university on the Neckar in North Baden, while Louisiana's Red River region clearly held the edge in costuming.

Such a study in comparisons could go on indefinitely to the benefit of both directors. But the amazing thing about both groups of the writer was the insight into works of many categories demonstrated by students who for the most part were not schooled musicians. It speaks well for the oft-criticized "Younger Generation" in both countries.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Means To An End Excellent Book

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

This week there are a number of interesting titles available to the reading public of Ouachita Parish from their Ouachita Parish Public Library. "Means to an End" is the title of a new book by John Rowan Wilson. This is the story of the development of a man's character set against an exciting background of big business and international intrigue. "The Golden Eagle" by John Jennings is a novel based on the fabulous life of Hernando De Soto, the great conquistador. It is especially interesting to historians of this area, for he died just south of here near Jonesville. "The Pistol" is the title of James Jones' new book and is a much better book than his "Some Came Running." It has its setting in Hawaii just before Pearl Harbor and is a book which will appeal especially to men. "Pioneer Go Home" by Richard Powell is a most interesting book, entertaining and with much food for thought about our modern way of life.

Two new historical novels have their setting in Ireland during the middle ages. "Return of the Stranger" by Dorothy James Roberts. This book is based on the ancient Irish legend of Etain, said to be of fairy origin because of her mysterious appearances and disappearances. Miss Roberts has written a story that seems credible and lifelike. "The Gallowglass" by Howard Breslin is the story of an Irish foot soldier and his experiences in the wars against the Danes.

Readers of mystery stories will be glad to know that there are five new mysteries among this week's additions. Choose your favorite author and pick your book. Frances and Richard Lockridge have two titles "The Innocent House" and "Accent on Murder." I have read the second one and found it most entertaining. Henry Slesar is the author of "The Gray Flannel Shroud." Erle Stanley Gardner has a new title called "The Case of the Deadly Toy" and Margaret Scherf has written one which she calls "Never Turn Your Back." A delightful book of a light nature is "Beware of Children" by Verily Anderson. It may even have the vogue of "Please Don't Eat the Daisies."

Now let's take a look at the more serious books: "Human Potentialities" by Gardner Murphy is a very fine book of psychology. "Man, Morals and History" by Chester McCown is a very scholarly book which evaluates our inheritance from Bible times and people. "Good Fences Make Good Neighbors" by Joseph Barber is a discussion of the foreign relations of the United States and Canada. "Ribbon Creek" by William McKeen presents a great many interesting facts about the Marine Corps. Two scientific books are "Nuclear Energy in the South" by Redding S. Sugg, Jr. and "The Oil Century" by Joseph Stanley Clark.

"Bizet and His World" by Mina Curtiss is an excellent evaluation of this outstanding musician. The achievement of T. S. Eliot by F. O. Matthiessen is a very fine book of literary criticism. An outstanding biography is "Lee of Virginia" by Douglas Southall Freeman. It is a condensation and revision of his earlier four volume work and will have a definite place in a library collection.

ISAK DINESEN TALKS OF HER ART

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK (AP) — "Air, that's what I require in a book," said Isak Dinesen, sitting in the exclusive East Side club where she stayed during her first visit to this country.

"I begin my short stories with the stage, or setting," this distinguished Danish writer continued. "Of the four elements, it is air that matters most. For me, the element in which people move comes before the people."

Isak Dinesen is a pen name. Her father was William Dinesen, a writer himself, officer in the Franco - Prussian war and, curiously, a one-time visitor to our West where he was for several years a trapper with the Pawnee Indians.

Her real name is Baroness Christence Karen Blixen-Finecke. But more people take off their hats now, and always will, to the abiding aristocrat Dinesen than to Blixen.

TWO BOOKS IN YEAR

Author of five books, she has had three Book-of-the Month Club choices: "Out of Africa," "Seven Gothic Tales" and "Winter's Tales." Two new books have appeared within a year, "Last Tales" and "Anecdotes of Destiny." There's a note of finality about one title, but the baroness said:

"No, I shall never stop writing. I have just had to spend a couple of years in a hospital, and all the time there I kept thinking of new things I wanted to write."

She was invited here under the auspices of the Ford Foundation Fund for the Advancement of Education and the Institute of Contemporary Arts, and she made some educational films in Washington. After fulfilling all her duties she settled down for a few extra weeks of pure enjoyment, with the intention of seeing New York and its museums and other cultural activities.

'FOR ME,' says Danish author Isak Dinesen, "the element in which people move comes before the people."

"I'm going to accept all invitations," she said excitedly. One of them was to be guest of honor at a dinner of the American Academy and National Institute.

An incredibly weightless wisp of a woman, with an almost breathless, disembodied voice, she has turned in her 70s into a sort of presence as airy and fantastic as the stories which have made her famous.

"Though I didn't know I was famous," she remarked, "until I came to the United States."

It is here, rather than in Denmark, that she has scored her chief success.

Married in 1914 to a cousin, from whom her title comes, she lived in Africa until the early 1930s helping run a coffee plantation.

"There was air in Kenya," she remembered. Born at sea level, living now only 100 yards from the shore, she occupied an African plantation 6,000 feet up.

NEVER WENT TO SCHOOL

"I loved the atmosphere. I never felt so well. And there were certain books, I found, that read particularly well at that altitude. Racine, for instance, did very well."

She never went to school, but was brought up by governesses. She read Shakespeare, Dante, Homer, Racine, Turgeniev. She studied painting in Paris, and was in her 40s before she achieved much success in story writing. Though it has been rumored that she wrote one novel under a second pseudonym, she said:

"I can't write a novel. I'm a story teller, I write what is passed on by word of mouth."

Her stories have plot, but also they have the "air" of which she spoke, the air for which she admired so much Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn" with "its splendid feel for the mighty river."

HER PEOPLE ARE 'REAL'

The people in her stories are not just real, they are in fact bigger than real. There is a partly ghostly quality to the scenes and action, a touch of Arabian nights, of the unearthly and supernatural. Was there some connection between her birth and upbringing in an agricultural country with respected traditions, and the aloof, non-involved, cool handling, of her stories? She wasn't sure.

"Democratic literature," she said, "is realistic literature. I am not a realistic writer. And my own well - springs seem to lie far back, in the Denmark I knew before I went to Africa in 1914. I do not belong as a writer to any particular generation in Denmark."

She thought there was some special sensitive quality, some softness which she prized, about countries that border the sea, missing in Russia and Germany, she said, but to be found in England, France, and her native land, which has given us also Hans Christian Andersen and Kierkegaard.

She loves cities. "I love Rome, I love Paris, I love London. When I go back to London, I feel that I am going home. Now that I have seen New York with its fantastic man - made heights, I add it to the list of cities with a firm place in my consciousness."

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

Last week the scales ran the musical clock all the way back to the 16th century by the way of the Heidelberg University Chorus, which gave two concerts on the Louisiana Tech campus.

Under the direction of thorough-going Siegfried Hermelink, the group of students offered rarely heard madrigals and sacred numbers of the 1500-1700 period in all their tonal purity.

While these selections on the first half of the program did not stir the audience in Howard Auditorium as strongly as the folk and student songs following the intermission, the boys and girls of the 500-year-old university did much more than bring out some old copy from the music museum.

LIMITED REPERTOIRE

Far from being "academic" recitals of music buried in history, the old-timers as "The Silver Swan" of Orlando Gibbons and "The Song of the Birds" by Clement Janequin revealed a sort of pure vitality as sung by the student chorus. Hearing something like this is more than a choral concert, it is a living experience. When it is considered that music beyond 1500 starts to fall off the musical map--no one knows really just how music of 1350, for example, should be performed--we get some idea from the Heidelbergers how "new" the old songs can be made to sound.

The songs of Brahms, Schubert, Schuman, and the folk and student songs have a near universal appeal and received due applause from the audience. Any criticism of the group might be merely the pointing up of differences between American and German modes. Some in the audience noted the lack of vibrato in the voices---particularly the sopranos---which is considered a standard vocal device for both soloists and group singing this side of Europe.

While the properly vibrated voice may be generally more colorful, it also shakes up the intricate texture of the old part songs to where they lose the all-important purity.

As for stage appearance, Director Hermelink may sound out what Americans expect German students to look like and costume his group accordingly on future tours.

The Hollywood version of the "Student Prince" would give a wealth of ideas on this subject, especially in costumes for the girls. This has little to do with the fine choral singing which the group offered but plenty to do with performing before a public which readily goes overboard on the subject of "old world charm."

It is interesting to compare notes on the Heidelberg Chorus and the Centenary Choir, which sang here two weeks ago as a sort of cultural exchange. Both choirs were established as part-time activity for the students, and not all of the singers in either case were music majors. The Centenary group is younger (17-21). The Heidelbergers averaged 20-23 years of age, with one of the male soloists a graduate lawyer of 25.

While the Germans covered a more limited repertoire of serious and traditional numbers, the Shreveporters alternated serious choral works with musical comedy and operetta. Musical perfection swung the scales heavily in the direction of the university on the Neckar in North Baden, while Louisiana's Red River region clearly held the edge in costuming.

Such a study in comparisons could go on indefinitely to the benefit of both directors. But the amazing thing about both groups of the writer was the insight into works of many categories demonstrated by students who for the most part were not schooled musicians. It speaks well for the oft-criticized "Younger Generation" in both countries.

-THE ARTS-

Man's Influence On Society

THE BIG BANKROLL: The Life and Times of Arnold Rothstein. By Leo Katcher. Harper. $5.

Arnold Rothstein was born in 1882 in the home of his father, orthodox Jew and successful manufacturer, on East 47th Street a few blocks east of Times Square which was the hub of his lurid career. He learned dice at the Victoria Theater at 42nd and Seventh Ave.; a little north of the Square's formal boundary, in Lindy's restaurant where he was eating, he got the phone call which lured him to death in the Park Central Hotel.

Katcher opens with a hair-raising account of the shooting, and ends with the inexcusable failure of police and courts to pin the murder on George McManus or anybody else. In between we have a success story of a man never convicted of crime, dancing back and forth skillfully across the line marking legal from illegal, amassing a fortune and the power to go with it.

From earliest years Rothstein had the knack for making money. He sold cigars, but quit that honest field for something he could parley into bigger, fatter profits. He was a gambler; that was honest, too, at least within the law. As a kid he carried his roll in his pocket; the few dollars he started with turned to greenbacks worth a few hundred, thousand, and then hundreds of thousands.

There was a logical progression through numerous activities: Dice, bookmaking, pool, poker, bucket shops, home brewing, rum running, highjacking, labor rackets, narcotics. He got a big bad name, unjustly, says Katcher, as fixer of the 1919 World Series. His sister was married to Henry Lustig; Rothstein's money helped him start the Longchamps restaurant chain. He did business with George White of "Scandals" fame, and was an "angel," at exorbitant interest, to Anne Nichols and "Abie's Irish Rose." He even collected art, but exclusively from wealthy art lovers who got stuck with I. O. U's and had to unload their treasures. He owned a Gainsborough, and also what he called "a dirty picture of a fat naked woman," a Rubens.

He was as faithful as, or more than, could be expected to his wife Carolyn; among his girl friends were Bobbie Winthrop and Inez Norton. He knew famous people, not only Lepke and Lucky and Legs but Washington leaders and society folks. They sat in on games for which Peggy Hopkins Joyce was steerer, or bet on horses with him; in 1921 he cleared $1,350,000 on just two races.

He was "The Brain," said Damon Runyon. He was the villain in a Fitzgerald novel. He carried on where Becker left off after Rosenthal's murder; introduced the modern gangster; served crime as pay-off man; taught politician and crook how to work profitably together. If this seems like giving the devil more than his due, it is still Katcher's acceptable thesis that Rothstein exerted a measurable influence on our society. That will be hard to deny if his heirs were Frank Costello, Buggsy Siegel, Lucky Luciano, Willie Moretti, Albert Anastasia—who was killed in the hotel where Rothstein was shot.

This is crime story, this is history. It could be just as important to know Rothstein as to know the mayor, Tammany chief, police commissioner and even governor of his day. You won't approve of what you read but it's fun reading. Katcher has dug hard for facts, he lets you have them at a rapid, telling pace.

Reflections On Morality Of Man

From October 1939 to November 1941, when Merton was in his mid-twenties, he was a convert to Catholicism, he was teaching, and he was a novelist—two of his books were going the fruitless round of the publishing houses.

At the end of the period, he became a Trappist, crying, "Give up everything, give up everything!" In 1948 he wrote "The Seven Storey Mountains," and his prose and poetry since have won a fully merited wide audience.

This journal is the portrait of a perceptive, thoughtful writer committed to the higher life, reflecting on the morality of his times, and marvelously conscious of the status of his craft.

These were the war years, and he returns repeatedly, and often in anguish, to such topics as the character of Hitler, to the contradiction that in an age when we supinely wish for an existence mainly amounting to an agreeable anesthesia, there should be more pain and suffering than ever before; to the idea that we work feebly for peace, that even innocent ownership may bring on a killing conflict — "I am scared, sometimes, to own anything, even a name."

He describes sardonically the progress of organized charity; pretends to wonder whether the tawdry exploitation of Mother's Day does not imply something unworthy about loving one's mother; tells of a dance, bad but beautiful, in a popular hall in Cuba, and of a museum visit; and gives us a devastating version of a novel by Thomas Mann.

But the general reader and the literary - minded will find him specially rewarding on the subject of critical standards.. He calls again and again for unprejudiced and unbiased judgments, for the abandonment of all prior commitments by those who would indorse or condemn a book. He mocks "all the socialists . . . praising socialist novels," and "all the communists growling. . . the praises of communist novels" and "all the Catholics praising the works of some stuffed shirt who happened to be a Catholic" and "the Jews praising books by Jews." His most eloquent plea for this literary purity comes in the expression of his belief that a creative work should be "accessible to everybody, once they have cast out their sins of prejudiced taste, once their eye is single and their body lightsome."

All Merton's writing somehow -- and this is too often not true of the special pleader--invites with unique warmth the eye single and the body lightsome; but more than his other books this particularly demands that unchallengeable attitude. This is young, earnest, fiery.

The Last Days Of Lincoln Is Top New Play

To an impressive two dozen volumes of poetry, fiction, biography and other scholarly works, Van Doren has added this new play, written in 1954, published on Lincoln's birthday, and due on Broadway later this year. The time is the last two months of the President's life; the places of the six scenes are Washington and City Point and Richmond, Va. the cast consists of about 30 men and women, white and black, in civilian clothes or uniform, friends or foes of Lincoln's lenient policy toward the defeated South.

The play opens in the Peterson house, where Lincoln lies dying, with the unseen crowd outside furnishing a choral lament; and it ends with the death. The flash - backs in between show Lincoln feeling his way through the maze of emotions that so tragically divide congressmen, cabinet, soldiers and people in the mass.

Here are crucial events in Americon history; some of our greatest heroes are seen at their climactic moments; and there is a relevance to the present race problem. But for the major virtues of this work you look beyond these obvious qualities. It is not just the American thing which Van Doren celebrates but the human thing — man moved by the utmost compassion, man generous and forgiving, man with a nobility which events can neither enhance nor diminish.

Ouachita Parish Librarian

This week there are a number of interesting titles available to the reading public of Ouachita Parish from their Ouachita Parish Public Library. "Means to an End" is the title of a new book by John Rowan Wilson. This is the story of the development of a man's character set against an exciting background of big business and international intrigue. "The Golden Eagle" by John Jennings is a novel based on the fabulous life of Hernando De Soto, the great conquistador. It is especially interesting to historians of this area, for he died just south of here near Jonesville. "The Pistol" is the title of James Jones' new book and is a much better book than his "Some Came Running." It has its setting in Hawaii just before Pearl Harbor and is a book which will appeal especially to men. "Pioneer Go Home" by Richard Powell is a most interesting book, entertaining and with much food for thought about our modern way of life.

Two new historical novels have their setting in Ireland during the middle ages. "Return of the Stranger" by Dorothy James Roberts. This book is based on the ancient Irish legend of Etain, said to be of fairy origin because of her mysterious appearances and disappearances. Miss Roberts has written a story that seems credible and lifelike. "The Gallowglass" by Howard Breslin is the story of an Irish foot soldier and his experiences in the wars against the Danes.

Readers of mystery stories will be glad to know that there are five new mysteries among this week's additions. Choose your favorite author and pick your book. Frances and Richard Lockridge have two titles "The Innocent House" and "Accent on Murder." I have read the second one and found it most entertaining. Henry Slesar is the author of "The Gray Flannel Shroud." Erle Stanley Gardner has a new title called "The Case of the Deadly Toy" and Margaret Scherf has another one which she calls "Never Turn Your Back." A delightful book of a light nature is "Beware of Children" by Verily Anderson. It may even have the vogue of "Please Don't Eat the Daisies."

Now let's take a look at the more serious books: "Human Potentialities" by Gardner Murphy is a very fine book of psychology. "Man, Morals and History" by Chester McCown is a very scholarly book which evaluates our inheritance from Bible times and people. "Good Fences Make Good Neighbors" by Joseph Barber is a discussion of the foreign relations of the United States and Canada. "Ribbon Creek" by William McKeen presents a great many interesting facts about the Marine Corps. Two scientific books are "Nuclear Energy in the South" by Joseph S. Sugg, Jr. and "The Oil Century" by Joseph Stanley Clark.

"Bizet and His World" by Mina Curtiss is an excellent evaluation of this outstanding musician. The achievement of T. S. Eliot by F. O. Matthiessen is a very fine book of literary criticism. An outstanding biography is "Lee of Virginia" by Douglas Southall Freeman. It is a condensation and revision of his earlier four volume work and will have a definite place in a library collection.

ENVIES U.S. CITIES

Mayor Of Tokyo Has Complex Job

TOKYO (AP) — When Seiichiro Yasui dreams of a soft job, he pictures himself mayor of New York or London or Paris or Rome.

Yasui, you see, is mayor of Tokyo, the world's largest city.

And for bossing what may well be the world's most complex metropolis, Yasui receives $305.55 a month and a rent-free residence.

When he took the job in 1946 at the age of 54, Tokyo lay in ruins. More than 80 per cent of the city had been laid waste by incendiary bomb raids. Its population had dwindled to 3,400,000.

Now, after three consecutive terms, Yasui can look upon a rebuilt capital, thriving as never before and bursting with 8,840,000 people—a living monument to the determination motivating postwar Japan.

Sitting in his tastefully furnished office in the metropolitan government building, the governor Tokyo—as he is officially known—puffed on a freshly-lit cigar and recalled: "In the past 12 years we've done as much reconstruction work as would normally be expected to take 40 years. And we've had problems other than bomb damage.

"I envy cities like New York, Chicago, Paris, London and Rome because they aren't troubled with earthquakes and floods the way we are. We have to take these calamities into consideration in our planning.

"Also, these cities have relatively stable populations. In Tokyo our planning is difficult because of the tremendous population flux."

As governor, Yasui supervises a complex administration that covers 1,210 square miles, broken up into 24 divisions, eight commissions and 23 ward offices, and employing 135,433 people.

Last year the metropolitan budget totaled 367 million dollars, or roughly 10 per cent of the national budget. Of the 367 million, 17 per cent came from the central government and the rest from city income including 61 per cent from local taxes.

Yasui also is an active or honorary member of more than 100 committees and organizations. In addition to his city responsibilities he heads such organizations as the All-Japan Ikebana (flower arrangement) Assn., the National Athletic Assn., and the Tokyo Chamber of Commerce.

Then there are the countless dinner parties and courtesy functions Yasui must attend. The traditional Japanese dinner party is an elaborate affair that includes a multi-course cuisine, much sake—rice wine — and the company of Geisha.

When not attending committee meetings or conferences, the 120-member metropolitan Assembly, or engaged in other jobs directly concerned with running the city, Yasui may be doing anything from crowning beauty queens to opening art exhibits or shaking the hand of an arriving visitor at Tokyo International Airport.

Yasui was born in Okayama City, central Japan. He is a widower and has two married daughters.

He entered government service soon after his graduation from Tokyo University in 1917.

City planners envisage a Tokyo 20 years from now that will have its population dispersed in numerous satellite cities around an inner core, linked by freeways and studded with parks.

"That," the governor said, "will be for my successors to tackle. I plan to retire when my present term is up this year. I think I'll just relax and spend my time reading and taking walks in the country.

LITTLE THEATRE

We hear from Mrs. A. M. Guerriero that son Louis (in New York) is in the midst of something quite interesting currently. And it's especially of interest to us here in Monroe and environs because we will have the opportunity of seeing him locally via television.

Louis will appear in the Armstrong Circle Theatre's production "House of Cards" Wednesday evening at 9:00 p. m. The date is February 18th. Be sure to be on hand. You'll see him listed in the cast as Lou Girard, his professional name. Remember Louis from some several seasons back? He, too, was director of some of our Little Theatre productions. He has been displaying his talents in one of the off-Broadway theaters in a play which only recently closed. Here's hoping we'll see him on TV many more times in the future.

Our own off-Broadway Theatre-way off, we might add (we didn't say "way out", dad) opens its own big, brash, exciting musical "Pajama Game" on the evening of February 27 and what a gala night that will be! We open on the 27th for a fourteen night run. So, for goodness sake, make your reservations early, early! The theatre box office will open only a couple of days before opening night, but you may make your reservations by mail any old time you wish. Be sure to specify the night you wish to attend. After you write requesting reservations you may be sure that your seats have been reserved for you on the night you requested if you do not hear to the contrary from the reservations secretary. If she is not able to seat you on the night requested she will notify you so that you make other arrangements.

Tickets will be on sale by every member of the Board of Directors. Make your plans and your reservations as soon as you possibly can. We don't want you to miss this one under any circumstances. By the way, we'll have Sunday night performances too, we we did last time. Maybe you'd like to plan a Sunday evening at the theatre.

Violet Holland and Mrs. Roy Schwartz from Bastrop were on hand at rehearsal one night last week checking exact measurements and final details for a very special bedspread which they're making for "Pajama Game". Imagine - a bedspread! Not just any old bedspread one might buy in a store - no, indeed, like so many other items in this show, the bedspread, which figures prominently in one of the dance sequences, must be custom made. Violet Holland is working so very hard on costumes for this show, too. What a gem she is! Our thanks!

Speaking of Bastrop - L T members Dave and Shirley Snyder entertained daughter Sue and son-in-law Morris Levy from New Orleans over the weekend. The Levy's had just seen "The Crucible" at the Gallery Circle before they came up. They praised it! Stocker Fontelieu had not only directed the show, but had also appeared on stage as a member of the cast.

Lallage Feazel narrated the Pilot Club Style Show held recently on the Virginia Roof. What did we say in Wednesday's column about all the talent among our Little Theatre members? This is an example of what we mean.

Don't forget opening date of "Pajama Game"! Make your plans early! See you Wednesday!

Souvenir Sheet Of Stamps Set By Switzerland

The 5 centimes gray, red, yellow and green honors "co-operation in the field of transportation and communications." It commemorates the opening of the Swiss House of Transport and Communications.

The 10 c green, yellow and gray pays tribute to the National Philatelic Exhibition in St. Gall. The 20 c red, blue, brown and grey is for "the protection of animals." The 50 c light blue, dark blue and violet honors the centenary of the University of Geneva.

The background of the souvenir sheet is a piece of St. Gall embroidery made in the town noted as the center of the Swiss embroidery industry.

To help celebrate its independence in 1960, Nigeria is planning to issue a special set of four stamps. The government proposed a stamp design competition open to persons in all countries of the world. Four denominations are being considered — 1 pence, 3 d, 6d and 1-3 d. Each design must be indicative of the occasion.

Those interested in submitting designs may send them to the Nigerian Independence Stamp Committee in Nigeria, Africa.

A prize of 100 pounds will be awarded to each design winner.

Israel's Sholom Aleichem stamp, mentioned previously in this column, is one of the few showing personalities issued by that country. The Ministry of Posts announced it intended to limit the use of personalities on its adhesives. Only five other individuals have appeared on Israeli stamps — Weizman, Herzl, Maimonides, Rothschild and Einstein.

Covers franked with Gold Coast stamps overprinted "Ghana" by hand stamp have been exposed, by the American Philatelic Society as completely unauthorized.

The disclosure was made in the January issue of the American Philatelist. Ghana's director of posts said that such hand stamps were never used by any postal authorities in Ghana.

Ethiopia's latest set of stamps commemorating the United Nations Economic Conference on Africa has just been issued. The stamps show a map of Africa in the center, a full length portrait of Haile Selassie and the U. N. Symbol. The session was held in Addis Ababa on Dec. 29.

Sex Scandals Are Untimely For Starlet

By ROBERT AHIER
United Press International

PARIS (UPI) — Producer Roger Vadim, who catapulted Brigitte Bardot to stardom as the "sex kitten" Saturday cancelled the contract of a budding 14-year-old English starlet whose youth made her too hot to handle as a result of the "Rose Ballet" sex scandals involving teen-age girls.

Vadin, 31, said pretty young Gillian Hills had the makings of a star but her age was against her. Gillian came to Paris for Vadim just as the Rose Ballet scandals broke with charges that girls between the ages of 12 and 18 performed lewd dances for prominent Parisians.

Gillian was not involved in the scandals. But Vadim said "all kinds of pressure" had been brought to bear on him to send the girl home to Nice where she had been living with her mother.

Vadim, who was divorced from Brigitte Bardot, said that there were some persons who thought his allged "bad reputation" would reflect on Gillian.

Vadim said that when he first saw photos of the bobby - soxer, she appeared to be about 18. But then he learned she was not yet 15.

"I am sad about it, because Gillian was very good," he said.

Vadim was reluctant to explain exactly why he decided to break Gillian's contract. But other movie sources said he was practically forced into it by warnings from the French board of film censors.

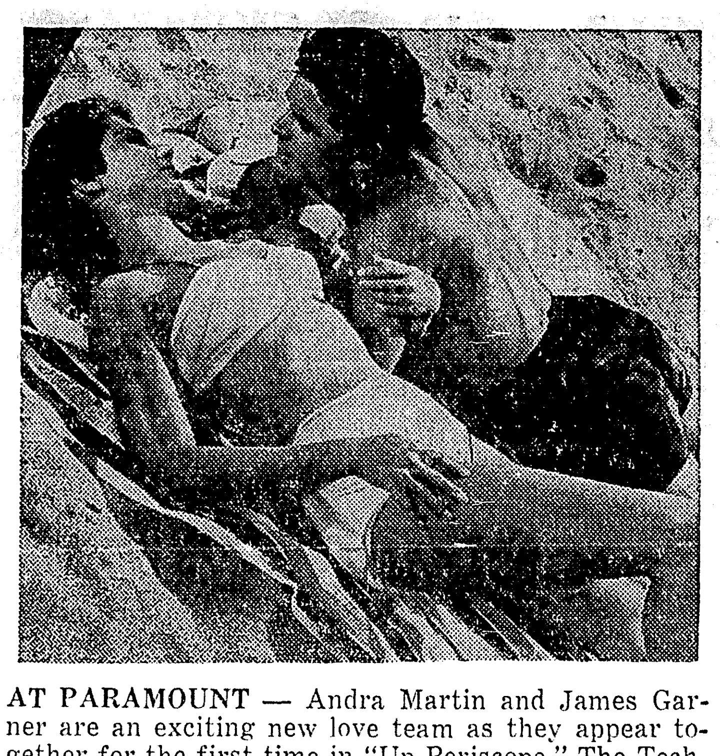
The sources said the censors had grown much tougher on the question of teen-age talent following the scandal of the "Rose Ballets" in which eight prominent Parisians have been charged with offenses against girls aged 14 to 18.

Gillian bears a remarkable similarity in looks and sex appeal to Brigitte Bardot in the teen-age days.

Vadim planned to star her as "Cecile de Volanges" in "Les Liaisons Dangereuses," a story about a 15 - year - old girl who is seduced by a mature lover."

According to the Paris film sources, the censors warned Vadim that the subject of the film was very near the danger mark, particularly in view of the "Rose Ballet" furor.

They pointed out that if the girl who played "Cecile" was in reality a 15 - year - old, it was extremely unlikely the film would pass the censors.



AT PARAMOUNT — Andra Martin and James Garner are an exciting new love team as they appear together for the first time in "Up Periscope." The Technicolor-WarnerScope adventure opens today at the Paramount Theatre.

Spanky McFarland Been Up And Down

By RICK du BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — At the age of 10, Spanky McFarland was a top - salaried movie star. He was the pudgy ringleader in the old "Our Gang" comedies now being shown on TV as "The Little Rascals."

When he was 20, he couldn't get a job in show business. He drifted. He worked in an ice cream factory, fried hamburgers in a hash joint, sold insurance.

Now, making a comeback on television at the age of 30, he feels he's as qualified as anybody around to explain just why so many child movie stars wind up as adult flops.

"When I was outgrowing 'Our Gang'," he said, "I never asked favors from the studios. But what a difference it might have made if any of the child-star 'failures' had received a few favors rather than the terrible apathy that was extended to them when they tried to satisfy that deep, gnawing hunger for show business.

"You can't possibly have any idea of the mental pressures involved in a situation like that. There's a saying that show business gets in your blood, and it's true, especially when a person spends the greater portion of his formative years in that business.

"I guess you could say it's like studying seven years to be a doctor and then finding out there's no demand for you."

McFarland, still pudgy and dark-haired, has spurred to comment by the death last month of his co-star in "Our Gang," Carl (Alfalfa) Switzer, who was shot fatally in a wild argument over a $50 debt. Switzer, 31, had been involved in several scrapes with the law over the past few years and never was able to measure up to his success as a child actor.

"Carl could have used a few favors," said McFarland, who recently was host of a TV show in Tulsa, Okla. "I went through several years of confusion until I realized what a brick wall I was faced with. I'm not saying that I was smarter than Carl in that I started over again. I'm saying that possibly his confusion was greater than mine.

"I left 'Our Gang' when I was 16. I went back to Texas, and I finished school. Then I did a hitch in the Air Force. I just kinda jumped from job to job because I had no formal training for any field of endeavor.

"I sold insurance for a while. I was in the oil business. I fried hamburgers. I worked in an ice cream factory. You name it—I've done it.

"But my first love was motion pictures or anything construed as show business. I made several trips to Hollywood trying to start all over again, but nothing ever panned out. Everybody was very glad to see me, and noboby ever told me WHY they didn't hire me."

Finally, McFarland went to Tulsa for a vacation to visit his wife's folks. People there convinced him he could make money in the Midwest doing personal appearances.

"I went for it," he said. "All I needed was the slightest indication and encouragement from people that I would make it."

McFarland, who lives in Tulsa with his wife, Doris, and their son, Verne, 2, wanted to clear up one thing: He does not receive anything for the TV re-runs of his child pictures.

"If wives would coddle their husbands, the latter would live much longer," asserts a physician. They might, that is, if the coddling weren't more than offset by nagging.

Souvenir Sheet Of Stamps Set By Switzerland

The background of the souvenir sheet is a piece of St. Gall embroidery made in the town noted as the center of the Swiss embroidery industry.

To help celebrate its independence in 1960, Nigeria is planning to issue a special set of four stamps. The government proposed a stamp design competition open to persons in all countries of the world. Four denominations are being considered — 1 pence, 3 d, 6d and 1-3 d. Each design must be indicative of the occasion.

Those interested in submitting designs may send them to the Nigerian Independence Stamp Committee in Nigeria, Africa.

A prize of 100 pounds will be awarded to each design winner.

Israel's Sholom Aleichem stamp, mentioned previously in this column, is one of the few showing personalities issued by that country. The Ministry of Posts announced it intended to limit the use of personalities on its adhesives. Only five other individuals have appeared on Israeli stamps — Weizman, Herzl, Maimonides, Rothschild and Einstein.

Covers franked with Gold Coast stamps overprinted "Ghana" by hand stamp have been exposed, by the American Philatelic Society as completely unauthorized.

The disclosure was made in the January issue of the American Philatelist. Ghana's director of posts said that such hand stamps were never used by any postal authorities in Ghana.

Ethiopia's latest set of stamps commemorating the United Nations Economic Conference on Africa has just been issued. The stamps show a map of Africa in the center, a full length portrait of Haile Selassie and the U. N. Symbol. The session was held in Addis Ababa on Dec. 29.

Sex Scandals Are Untimely For Starlet

By ROBERT AHIER
United Press International

PARIS (UPI) — Producer Roger Vadim, who catapulted Brigitte Bardot to stardom as the "sex kitten" Saturday cancelled the contract of a budding 14-year-old English starlet whose youth made her too hot to handle as a result of the "Rose Ballet" sex scandals involving teen-age girls.

Vadin, 31, said pretty young Gillian Hills had the makings of a star but her age was against her. Gillian came to Paris for Vadim just as the Rose Ballet scandals broke with charges that girls between the ages of 12 and 18 performed lewd dances for prominent Parisians.

Gillian was not involved in the scandals. But Vadim said "all kinds of pressure" had been brought to bear on him to send the girl home to Nice where she had been living with her mother.

Vadim, who was divorced from Brigitte Bardot, said that there were some persons who thought his allged "bad reputation" would reflect on Gillian.

Vadim said that when he first saw photos of the bobby - soxer, she appeared to be about 18. But then he learned she was not yet 15.

"I am sad about it, because Gillian was very good," he said.

Vadim was reluctant to explain exactly why he decided to break Gillian's contract. But other movie sources said he was practically forced into it by warnings from the French board of film censors.

The sources said the censors had grown much tougher on the question of teen-age talent following the scandal of the "Rose Ballets" in which eight prominent Parisians have been charged with offenses against girls aged 14 to 18.

Gillian bears a remarkable similarity in looks and sex appeal to Brigitte Bardot in the teen-age days.

Vadim planned to star her as "Cecile de Volanges" in "Les Liaisons Dangereuses," a story about a 15 - year - old girl who is seduced by a mature lover."

According to the Paris film sources, the censors warned Vadim that the subject of the film was very near the danger mark, particularly in view of the "Rose Ballet" furor.

They pointed out that if the girl who played "Cecile" was in reality a 15 - year - old, it was extremely unlikely the film would pass the censors.

AT PARAMOUNT — Andra Martin and James Garner are an exciting new love team as they appear together for the first time in "Up Periscope." The Technicolor-WarnerScope adventure opens today at the Paramount Theatre.

Spanky McFarland Been Up And Down

By RICK du BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — At the age of 10, Spanky McFarland was a top - salaried movie star. He was the pudgy ringleader in the old "Our Gang" comedies now being shown on TV as "The Little Rascals."

When he was 20, he couldn't get a job in show business. He drifted. He worked in an ice cream factory, fried hamburgers in a hash joint, sold insurance.

Now, making a comeback on television at the age of 30, he feels he's as qualified as anybody around to explain just why so many child movie stars wind up as adult flops.

"When I was outgrowing 'Our Gang'," he said, "I never asked favors from the studios. But what a difference it might have made if any of the child-star 'failures' had received a few favors rather than the terrible apathy that was extended to them when they tried to satisfy that deep, gnawing hunger for show business.

"You can't possibly have any idea of the mental pressures involved in a situation like that. There's a saying that show business gets in your blood, and it's true, especially when a person spends the greater portion of his formative years in that business.

"I guess you could say it's like studying seven years to be a doctor and then finding out there's no demand for you."

McFarland, still pudgy and dark-haired, has spurred to comment by the death last month of his co-star in "Our Gang," Carl (Alfalfa) Switzer, who was shot fatally in a wild argument over a $50 debt. Switzer, 31, had been involved in several scrapes with the law over the past few years and never was able to measure up to his success as a child actor.

"Carl could have used a few favors," said McFarland, who recently was host of a TV show in Tulsa, Okla. "I went through several years of confusion until I realized what a brick wall I was faced with. I'm not saying that I was smarter than Carl in that I started over again. I'm saying that possibly his confusion was greater than mine.

"I left 'Our Gang' when I was 16. I went back to Texas, and I finished school. Then I did a hitch in the Air Force. I just kinda jumped from job to job because I had no formal training for any field of endeavor.

"I sold insurance for a while. I was in the oil business. I fried hamburgers. I worked in an ice cream factory. You name it—I've done it.

"But my first love was motion pictures or anything construed as show business. I made several trips to Hollywood trying to start all over again, but nothing ever panned out. Everybody was very glad to see me, and noboby ever told me WHY they didn't hire me."

Finally, McFarland went to Tulsa for a vacation to visit his wife's folks. People there convinced him he could make money in the Midwest doing personal appearances.

"I went for it," he said. "All I needed was the slightest indication and encouragement from people that I would make it."

McFarland, who lives in Tulsa with his wife, Doris, and their son, Verne, 2, wanted to clear up one thing: He does not receive anything for the TV re-runs of his child pictures.

"If wives would coddle their husbands, the latter would live much longer," asserts a physician. They might, that is, if the coddling weren't more than offset by nagging.

D. Chennault Cancer Drive Leader Here

David W. Chennault has been appointed 1959 chairman of the American Cancer Society's educational and fund-raising drive in Ouachita Parish.

Chennault, active on the public education committee in 1958, is probation officer in charge of nine north Louisiana parishes.

The drive begins April 1 and has been termed "The greatest attack ever mounted against a disease." April has been designated cancer control month by presidential proclamation.

"Americans have always worked together to solve important problems. Cancer is one of the most important, for it makes no distinctions between rich and poor, farmer or city dweller, old or young," Chennault said, "and there is an urgent need for everyone to join in the attack against it, either as volunteers or donors or both.

Nearly one million living Americans are proof of the fact that you can be saved from cancer and live a normal lifespan, Chennault says.

Research, to find the cause, cure and prevention--education, to help understand the nature of cancer and to stress the best protection against it, and--service, to bring life saving and comfort--providing care to cancer patients, is the goal of the American Cancer Society and I am proud to assist in the attack on this vicious disease," Chennault added.

LSU Branch Plans Ready For Building

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—An architectural firm submitted plans to the Louisiana State University board of supervisors Saturday for a four-year building program at the New Orleans branch of the school costing 21-22 million dollars.

Board members, meeting for the first time at the campus of the school facing Lake Pontchartrain, voted to reject the architects' proposal rather than accept it.

Under the program, 10 school buildings would be constructed on the campus by 1963. It suggested a second step to build 18 buildings by 1970 at an unestimated amount.

Tom W. Dutton of New Orleans, a board member, said positive action toward fulfillment of the program would have to wait until the May fiscal Legislature.

But board chairman Theo Cangelosi of Baton Rouge said: "There is some hope that we can go ahead and draw up the plans and specifications now."

Representatives of Curtis and Davis, New Orleans architectural firm, said the building plans were based on an estimate of nearly 7,000 students attending classes at LSUNO in the 1963-64 school year.

They said present facilities at the school would be inadequate to handle the 1962 junior class, and the overall master plan through 1970 provides accomodations for 8,000 students and additional facilities if needed.

LSUNO opened last fall for freshman students. Successive classes are expected to be added this year and after.

Under the proposed program, buildings which would be constructed by 1964 include: Two for classrooms, one for science, a library, a student center, a gymnasium, a deans' residence, a central plant and armory, and administration building and a maintenance building.

Included by 1970 would be a theater, an auditorium, and art and drama building, a field house, engineering building and an education building.

Four In Disabled Boat Are Saved By Coast Guard

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Four boys stranded in a disabled boat off the Mississippi Coast through the night were towed safely into port Saturday morning, the Coast Guard here reported.

A passing trawler found the boys, all 15, about one mile south of Gulfport in their converted shrimp boat and towed the craft to land.

The motor on their boat broke down Friday night and fog closed in the area. The four were on a fishing trip.

BY CROWLEY SENATOR

Right To Work Plank Advocated

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Sen. W. J. Cleveland said Saturday if he decided to become a candidate for governor, he would make a right to work proposal one of his main planks.

The Crowley Senator, who ranks next to the Lieutenant governor as Senate President Pro Tempore, said the question had been discussed by various people with him.

"Like several others who may run for governor," Cleveland said, "I'm just listening at this time.

"If I were to be a candidate for governor, I would be a proponent of a right to work law and include it as one of the main planks in my platform."

Cleveland is the legislator who sponsored a right to work bill vetoed by former Gov. Jimmie Davis several years ago.

And Cleveland is the Democratic leader who sponsored a key move to put Adlai Stevenson's name on the ballot under the Louisiana Democratic Party emblem, despite coolness at the time of the pro-Eisenhower Kennon administration in 2952.

President L. L. Powell of the Louisiana Farm Bureau, a powerful group and a right to work advocate in the past, said Saturday members feel the issue should be submitted to the people.

'It's nothing now but a constant war between the two sides," he said. The farm bureau may decide to find a new name for the ever smoldering issue.

Lovell said the farm bureau convention will be held in Monroe July 19-22, and delegates "will review our policy on right to work . . . . whatever policy they adopt, we will do our utmost to inject it into the race for governor."

Lovell reminded the gubernatorial campaign will be getting hot at that particular time.

The Louisiana Free Enterprise Assn., with headquarters in New Orleans, is opening a drive to encourage businessmen to get into politics with a warning they may have to get out of business if they don't. The group favors right to work.

After the most violent legislative uproar in modern history, Louisiana enacted a right to work law in 1954 banning compulsory unionism.

After another fight in 1956, the Legislature under the new administration of Gov. Earl Long repealed it. Each time many lawmakers told reporters privately they were frightened at having to make the decision on an issue which they felt would make many enemies for them no matter how they voted.

Since then, proponents, including Rep. John S. Garrett of Claiborne Parish, the 1954 House sponsor, say the only way the question can be settled in Louisiana is by public voting.

Cleveland has a similar view. He said in an Associated Press interview:

"The only way the issue can be settled in this state is for a right to work supporter to run for governor and win, giving him the necessary strength in a new Legislature to bring the proposal before the people."

Cleveland emphasized the last three gubernatorial campaigns have avoided the right to work question.

In the recent national Democratic sweep, five out of six states voting on right to work rejected it. And in this growing industrial state, organized labor is armed to combat any renewal of right to work.

The chief legislative right to work man in recent years has been Sen. Jackson Davis of Shreveport. But he pushed the issue at a time when other right to work leaders felt the timing was wrong. Lovell himself said before the 1958 Legislature, when Davis failed in a right to work attempt, that the farm bureau felt it would have to wait until the 1959 race for governor.

BY CROWLEY SENATOR

Right To Work Plank Advocated

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Sen. W. J. Cleveland said Saturday if he decided to become a candidate for governor, he would make a right to work proposal one of his main planks.

The Crowley Senator, who ranks next to the Lieutenant governor as Senate President Pro Tempore, said the question had been discussed by various people with him.

"Like several others who may run for governor," Cleveland said, "I'm just listening at this time.

"If I were to be a candidate for governor, I would be a proponent of a right to work law and include it as one of the main planks in my platform."

Cleveland is the legislator who sponsored a right to work bill vetoed by former Gov. Jimmie Davis several years ago.

And Cleveland is the Democratic leader who sponsored a key move to put Adlai Stevenson's name on the ballot under the Louisiana Democratic Party emblem, despite coolness at the time of the pro-Eisenhower Kennon administration in 2952.

President L. L. Powell of the Louisiana Farm Bureau, a powerful group and a right to work advocate in the past, said Saturday members feel the issue should be submitted to the people.

'It's nothing now but a constant war between the two sides," he said. The farm bureau may decide to find a new name for the ever smoldering issue.

Lovell said the farm bureau convention will be held in Monroe July 19-22, and delegates "will review our policy on right-to work . . . . whatever policy they adopt, we will do our utmost to inject it into the race for governor."

Lovell reminded the gubernatorial campaign will be getting hot at that particular time.

The Louisiana Free Enterprise Assn., with headquarters in New Orleans, is opening a drive to encourage businessmen to get into politics with a warning they may have to get out of business if they don't. The group favors right to work.

After the most violent legislative uproar in modern history, Louisiana enacted a right to work law in 1954 banning compulsory unionism.

After another fight in 1956, the Legislature under the new administration of Gov. Earl Long repealed it. Each time many lawmakers told reporters privately they were frightened at having to make the decision on an issue which they felt would make many enemies for them no matter how they voted.

Since then, proponents, including Rep. John S. Garrett of Claiborne Parish, the 1954 House sponsor, say the only way the question can be settled in Louisiana is by public voting.

Cleveland has a similar view. He said in an Associated Press interview:

"The only way the issue can be settled in this state is for a right to work supporter to run for governor and win, giving him the necessary strength in a new Legislature to bring the proposal before the people."

Cleveland emphasized the last three gubernatorial campaigns have avoided the right to work question.

In the recent national Democratic sweep, five out of six states voting on right to work rejected it. And in this growing industrial state, organized labor is armed to combat any renewal of right to work.

The chief legislative right to work man in recent years has been Sen. Jackson Davis of Shreveport. But he pushed the issue at a time when other right to work leaders felt the timing was wrong. Lovell himself said before the 1958 Legislature, when Davis failed in a right to work attempt, that the farm bureau felt it would have to wait until the 1959 race for governor.

Four In Disabled Boat Are Saved By Coast Guard

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Four boys stranded in a disabled boat off the Mississippi Coast through the night were towed safely into port Saturday morning, the Coast Guard here reported.

A passing trawler found the boys, all 15, about one mile south of Gulfport in their converted shrimp boat and towed the craft to land.

The motor on their boat broke down Friday night and fog closed in the area. The four were on a fishing trip.

Church To Observe 100th Anniversary

TOKYO (AP) — The Protestant church in Japan celebrates its 100th anniversary this year, noting with pride its many achievements in a major non-Christian country.

There are, by government count, 332,135 Japanese Protestants in 4,312 churches out of a total population of 90 million. But there are those who feel that the cold statistics are misleading.

The Rev. Kaname Tsukahara secretary of the National Christian Council of Japan, is one who feels they do not adequately reflect what he terms "the true following and real strength of the Japanese Protestant church."

"It is extremely important to remember," he says, "that Protestantis has had a tremendous influence on the Japanese—particularly in the cultural, educational and social welfare fields and in their daily lives."

He cites as an example the fact that some 20 members of Japan's 466-member lower house of Parliament are Protestants.

Protestantism came to Japan with a handful of clergymen in 1859 when the Christian religion was banned as dangerous to the state. The ban finally was lifted in 1873.

In the past century, Protestants list these major contributions to Japanese life:

Founding of 228,373 schools, including 4 universities and 23 colleges and Japan's first girls' school.

Organizing and building 23,028 YMCA and 12,093 YWCA groups, 2 hospitals, 11 medical clinics, 18 social settlements, 3 leprosariums, 3 homes for the aged, 12 orphanages and 40 miscellaneous establishments.

Popularization of the Bible, which is Japan's top postwar best seller.

Publication of the first, Japanese-English and English-Japanese dictionary, and transliteration of the Japanese language into the Roman alphabet.

The 100th anniversary program will be observed for a week beginning Nov. 1. It will include memorial services, rallies, lectures and recitals of Christian music.

Actor's Home Is Razed By $100,000 Fire

PACIFIC PALISADES, Calif. (UPI) — Richard Boone's $50,000 ranch-style home was badly damaged by fire early Saturday and the actor said paintings and other art objects valued at from $75,000 to $100,000 had been destroyed.

"I'm terrible sorry to lose the paintings," said Boone, currently in New York to play the role of Lincoln in "The Rivalry," a new play. Boone is the star of the television series "Have Gun, Will Travel."

Five fire companies battled the flames, which for a time also threatened houses on either side of the sprawling Boone residence

The actor's home was unoccupied, since his wife, Claire, and their 5-year-old son, Peter, accompanied him to New York.

Boone said his art collection included "a Banjamin West, a Turner and two Teniers," as well as a Ming vase. "Some nice old antique furniture" also was lost, he said.

A neighbor of the Boones, Mrs. Patricia Crum, said she awoke to hear windows being shattered and flames crackling. "Our bed room is next to the Boone's living room and the flames were so bright at first I thought it was daylight," she said.

Flames were undetected until they burned through the roof, firemen said.

An investigation was ordered to determine the cause of the blaze.

Firemen were able to save a $10,000 sports car and a station wagon.

Boone had moved into the Pacific Palisades home north of Santa Monica three years ago, and had it remodeled.

In many places boys are being suspended from school for having Elvis Presley or Yul Brynner haircuts. This seems to answer the question of how foolish school authorities and parents can get.

Scallions (beg pardon, Walter Winchell) to Time Magazine for referring to an indicated more frequent showing of fairy tales on television, and saying that in this respect things look Grimm.

SAFE — Sue Jane Senteney, 2, and Mrs. Hugh Schwarz relax after a harrowing experience. Mrs. Schwarz was babysitting with Sue when a gunman forced his way into the Senteney farm home near Weiner, Ark, ransacked the house for money, forced her and the child to ride with him in her car. She escaped with the child 40 miles away when the man had to stop for gas. (AP Wirephoto)

Church To Observe 100th Anniversary

TOKYO (AP) — The Protestant church in Japan celebrates its 100th anniversary this year, noting with pride its many achievements in a major non-Christian country.

There are, by government count, 332,135 Japanese Protestants in 4,312 churches out of a total population of 90 million. But there are those who feel that the cold statistics are misleading.

The Rev. Kaname Tsukahara, secretary of the National Christian Council of Japan, is one who feels they do not adequately reflect what he terms "the true following and real strength of the Japanese Protestant church."

"It is extremely important to remember," he says, "that Protestantis has had a tremendous influence on the Japanese—particularly in the cultural, educational and social welfare fields and in their daily lives."

He cites as an example the fact that some 20 members of Japan's 466-member lower house of Parliament are Protestants.

Protestantism came to Japan with a handful of clergymen in 1859 when the Christian religion was banned as dangerous to the state. The ban finally was lifted in 1873.

In the past century, Protestants list these major contributions to Japanese life:

Founding of 228,373 schools, including 4 universities and 23 colleges and Japan's first girls' school.

Organizing and building 23,028 YMCA and 12,093 YWCA groups, 2 hospitals, 11 medical clinics, 18 social settlements, 3 leprosariums, 3 homes for the aged, 12 orphanages and 40 miscellaneous establishments.

Popularization of the Bible, which is Japan's top postwar best seller.

Publication of the first, Japanese-English and English-Japanese dictionary, and transliteration of the Japanese language into the Roman alphabet.

The 100th anniversary program will be observed for a week beginning Nov. 1. It will include memorial services, rallies, lectures and recitals of Christian music.

Actor's Home Is Razed By $100,000 Fire

PACIFIC PALISADES, Calif. (UPI) — Richard Boone's $50,000 ranch - style home was badly damaged by fire early Saturday and the actor said paintings and other art objects valued at from $75,000 to $100,000 had been destroyed.

"I'm terrible sorry to lose the paintings," said Boone, currently in New York to play the role of Lincoln in "The Rivalry," a new play. Boone is the star of the television series "Have Gun, Will Travel."

Five fire companies battled the flames, which for a time also threatened houses on either side of the sprawling Boone residence

The actor's home was unoccupied, since his wife, Claire, and their 5 - year - old son, Peter, accompanied him to New York.

Boone said his art collection included "a Banjamin West, a Turner and two Teniers," as well as a Ming vase. "Some nice old antique furniture" also was lost, he said.

A neighbor of the Boones, Mrs. Patricia Crum, said she awoke to hear windows being shattered and flames crackling. "Our bedroom is next to the Boone's living room and the flames were so bright at first I thought it was daylight," she said.

Flames were undetected until they burned through the roof, firemen said.

An investigation was ordered to determine the cause of the blaze.

Firemen were able to save a $10,000 sports car and a station wagon.

Boone had moved into the Pacific Palisades home north of Santa Monica three years ago, and had it remodeled.

In many places boys are being suspended from school for having Elvis Presley or Yul Brynner haircuts. This seems to answer the question of how foolish school authorities and parents can get.

Scallions (beg pardon, Walter Winchell) to Time Magazine for referring to an indicated more frequent showing of fairy tales on television, and saying that in this respect things look Grimm.

"IF THE LAW SUPPOSES THAT," SAID MR BUMBLE, "THE LAW IS AN ASS." —DICKENS—
"THE MORE LAWS, THE MORE OFFENDERS." THOS. FULLER
"NEW LORDS, NEW LAWS." JOHN RAY
THAT DUMB SECRETARY AND THAT KID! IT'S PLAIN TIGER TOLD THEM NOTHING! THEY DIDN'T EVEN KNOW HE'D SKIPPED!
WE'LL SEAL HIS OFFICES AND SEARCH LATER! IT'S POSSIBLE HE HID THE MONEY HERE.
THOUGHT SURE WE HAD IT, WHEN WE OPENED HIS SAFETY BOX AT THE BANK!
JUST A ROOSEVELT DIME ON A CARD THAT SAID, "BE MY VALENTINE"! NEVER FORGET THE LOOK ON YOUR FACE!
IT ISN'T FUNNY!
WHERE ARE WE NOW, SABLE, AND WHAT WE GOIN' TO DO?
WE'RE GOING UP TO MY APARTMENT. WE'VE BEEN FOLLOWED SO FAR.
OH, WE'RE ONLY TURNING ON THE LIGHTS FOR THE LAD WITH THE BADGE ACROSS THE STREET. NOW, THERE'S A BACK WAY OUT OF HERE! FOLLOW ME, QUIETLY!
BUT WASN'T THAT YOUR CAR SITTIN' OUT IN FRONT? THE FANCY CONVERT'BLE?
LET'S SAY WE'RE A TWO-CAR FAMILY. LET'S GO, SHALL WE? TO AUNT SUSIE'S, WHERE YOU BELONG!
I'M ALL MIXED UP! MR. TIGER BORROWED EVERY PENNY HE HAS! SO HE DOESN'T OWE A CENT OF INCOME TAX! THAT'S THE LAW, ISN'T IT, SABLE?
SURE! THAT'S THE LAW, IF HE CAN PROVE IT!
HA! BUT I LEARNED IN SCHOOL, IN THIS COUNTRY A PERSON IS INNOCENT TILL PROVEN GUILTY! TH' PROVIN' IS UP TO THEM!
YOU'RE A SWEET CHILD, ANNIE! DID YOU EVER HEAR OF CHANGING THE RULES?
BUT THEY COULDN'T DO THAT! ...ER... COULD THEY?
IF ENOUGH MONEY IS INVOLVED, LOTS OF THINGS ARE POSSIBLE, ANNIE! ALL THEY HAVE TO DO IS PROVE HE GOT THE MONEY!
BUT EVER'BODY KNOWS HE GOT IT. HE BORROWED IT!
BUT THE SLICK RULE NOW IS, THEY JUST SAY HE OWES MOST OF IT TO UNCLE WHISKERS! THEY SAY HE'S GUILTY! HE HAS TO PROVE THAT HE ISN'T GUILTY!
2-15-59
YEAH! GEE! I GUESS THEY DON'T TEACH Y'ALL OF IT IN SCHOOL.
HERE WE ARE AT AUNT SUSIE'S! HERE'S SOMETHING MR. TIGER SAID TO GIVE YOU. GOOD-BY, ANNIE, HONEY! TAKE CARE OF YOURSELF!
GOOD-BY, SABLE! GOOD LUCK TO YOU! AN' GIVE MY LOVE TO MR. TIGER... ER... IF Y'SHOULD SEE HIM!
